

Chapter 1235 A Complete Victory

The final showdown between the Saint Society and the Salvation Society ended with a resounding victory for the latter.

Cheers immediately erupted.

Faces across the field showed sheer relief. Everyone looked at Liam with admiration and respect.

In this decisive battle, Liam had won the unanimous admiration of every member of the Salvation Society.

Without Liam, they would have faced certain defeat.

Calling Liam the savior of the Salvation Society wasn't an exaggeration.

Even Carlden and the president were sincerely gratified.

As for Liam's fiery companion, whom Liam had called "Flame", sparked no inquiries about its origins.

Everyone understood from Liam's conversation with Flame that it was Liam's trusted ally. Since Flame was Liam's friend, it posed no threat to the Salvation Society.

Knowing this was enough for them.

Liam immersed himself alongside his mentor in managing the Salvation Society's affairs.

The president directed his attention to Liam and spoke earnestly. "Liam, you've gained significant respect within the Salvation Society. Why not take my place? You can be the president of the Salvation Society. I assure you, no one in the Salvation Society would raise objections."

Liam was taken aback. He hadn't anticipated his mentor to suggest he assume leadership.

He did not accept the offer and replied, "I now have limited time on Blue Star. Let Carlden assume your position instead of me. He's been under your mentorship for so long. He's more than capable of leading the Salvation Society."

Carlden, upon hearing Liam's proposal, shook his head resignedly.

The esteemed role of the president held little appeal for either Carlden or Liam.

Carlden and Liam found solace in solitude, preferring its quiet embrace.

Nevertheless, Carlden was aware of Liam's inevitable departure from Blue Star.

Thus, Carlden didn't refuse the offer. He said, "Very well! I shall assume the position of the president. Liam, let's make an agreement. I will only take over the role temporarily for you. Should you aspire to lead the Salvation Society in time, speak the word, and I will give the position to you at once!"

Liam cast a resigned glance at Carlden before finally acquiescing with a nod.

Their eyes met, and a ripple of laughter echoed between them.

Having settled the president's position, they fulfilled a long-held aspiration of their mentor.

Then, Liam's expression turned serious with concern.

His thoughts turned to Shayla and the other two women, who had ventured to Invone in a daring bid to rescue Julie and Asher.

The entire Saint Society had mobilized this time. The Invone's defenses must be weak.

Yet, Shayla and the other's prolonged silence gnawed at Liam's nerves.

Driven by apprehension, Liam wasted no time and dialed Shayla urgently.

The call connected swiftly, prompting Liam to inquire, "Shayla, what's the situation now? Have Julie and Asher been saved?"

Upon hearing Liam, Shayla hesitated. She then said in a low voice, "Liam, the situation... It's complicated. Let's discuss this face-to-face."

Liam's brows knitted with a sudden foreboding. He had a bad feeling.

He believed Shayla wouldn't speak like that if everything had gone according to plan.

Restless, after ending the call, Liam said to the president, "I suspect something unexpected has occurred in Invone. I need to go there immediately."

Upon hearing Liam's words, both the president's and Carlden's faces turned serious. They nodded and said, "Go! Quickly! We can't afford any surprises!"

With resolve burning in his eyes, Liam wasted no time. Disregarding the potential consequences of using Lightning Wings on Blue Star, he hastened towards Invone with them.

Having ascended to the eighth level with one star, Liam now moved with significantly increased speed.

Thanks to the Lightning Wings aiding him, a journey that would normally span nearly a day from Genesis Island to Invone was now halved.

Arriving in Invone after just half a day, Liam swiftly made his way to the agreed rendezvous point to meet Shayla and the others.

Upon their reunion, Liam wasted no time and urgently asked, "What's the situation?"

Shayla looked resigned as she stood before Liam.

Following a swift exchange among the three women, Shayla told Liam about the dire situation in Invone.

"Liam, we haven't found Julie and Asher. According to Rohan, they've been sent to the Blood Clan in the Cosmic realm. Moreover, both Rohan and the doctor have escaped our grasp; they're likely en route to Cosmic realm as well!"

Upon hearing Shayla's words, Liam's eyes welled up with tears.

He grasped the dire implications of Julie and Asher's transfer to the Blood Clan in the Cosmic realm.

They would become experimental subjects under the ruthless Blood Clan's control!

Liam felt a crushing agony grip his heart.

His eyes reddened with emotion.

He had arrived too late!

Fury consumed his thoughts, his eyes fixating on the space beyond Blue Star.

"That damn Blood Clan and Rohan shall pay for this!" he muttered.
