

Chapter 1340 Ameer Deleon

Liam was taken aback upon learning that the elderly man was also a World Lord.

The World Lord was not human, but rather a unique life form originating from a planet.

It seemed that the old man was born from the No. 69 planetary system.

Perhaps sensing Liam's thoughts, the old man smiled and explained, "I am human, just like you. I wanted to greet you personally after sensing that you also possess the World Power. It's rare for members of our Human Clan to hold World Power. Moreover, my strength greatly surpasses yours, allowing me to detect the World Power within you. This creates a special bond between us as World Lords."

The old man then revealed his identity to Liam.

Liam reviewed the information and learned that the old man was Ameer Deleon, the Star Lord of the No. 69 planetary system. A Star Lord governed an entire planetary system with absolute authority.

Additionally, Ameer, imbued with World Power, served also as the World Lord. His strength was immeasurable.

After showing Liam his identity, Ameer suggested, "Young man, why don't you come into the yard with me and rest for a while?"

Liam did not refuse. He knew that if Ameer intended to harm him, he would have been killed earlier. Besides, Ameer had no reason to kill him.

So, Liam nodded and followed Ameer into the courtyard.

Stepping into the yard, Liam was immediately enveloped by a robust aura of life, reminiscent of his feelings when he had first arrived in this planetary system.

Liam finally understood that the life force he and Cecil had felt earlier was due to the law power of the wood element permeating this courtyard.

The potency of the law power here was so intense that it spilled over into the surroundings.

Remembering that Cecil, who was still outside the mountain, hadn't been brought over, Liam became concerned for Cecil's safety. He quickly asked Ameer, "Mr. Deleon, my friend is still out there. Is he in any danger?"

Ameer smiled reassuringly and replied, "That young man is not the one I was expecting, so I couldn't bring him inside. But rest assured, he is safe outside the mountain. There are no dangers lurking in my territory."

Relieved by Ameer's assurance, Liam relaxed.

At Ameer's invitation, Liam took a seat at the stone table in the courtyard.

Ameer then plucked a few tea leaves and proceeded to brew them into a cup of tea.

As soon as the tea was ready, its fragrance wafted to Liam, instantly relaxing him and uplifting his spirits.

Liam couldn't help but remark, "That's good tea!"

Pleased, Ameer pointed at the tea and infused it with the law power of the wood element.

With Ameer's skilled activation, the tea and the law power blended seamlessly, releasing a fresh aroma.

Liam looked at the tea tree from which Ameer had plucked the leaves.

This was no ordinary tree but a powerful embodiment of wooden law power.

Liam considered this tree a physical manifestation of the law power of the wood element.

It radiated endless life force and robust law power. The tea leaves themselves also contained a depth of law power that far surpassed the earth law power Liam currently wielded.

The immense value of the cup of tea before him was, without a doubt, immeasurable!
