

The Despised Son-in-law Strikes Bac 🎁 +120 Points at most

Chapter 1302 Seeking Christos' Guidance

Although the blood essence of the Blood Sovereign held immense value, Liam maintained a clear perspective.

He considered the situation rationally.

He knew the blood essence, extracted from a formidable Blood Sovereign of the Blood Clan, was teeming with energy. However, being a mere Primogem Expert himself, he recognized that it was too potent for him to handle at present.

He knew a more suitable moment for its use would eventually arise.

Besides, his current commitment was to collect the Heart of Life fragments. Taking the Blood Sovereign's blood essence might take up to a year and a half, so he believed he didn't have to do it now.

This realization significantly cleared Liam's thoughts.

His pursuit of the Heart of Life fragments had been a deliberate choice from the beginning. Ever since securing the initial fragment from Julie, the benefits of the Heart of Life fragment had been evident to him.

Liam knew that collecting a complete Heart of Life would significantly enhance his power.

Unfortunately, he had depleted the power of the fragment of the Heart of Life in his body because of the battle this time, leaving him temporarily weakened and inadvertently affecting Emer.

Liam knew he had to act swiftly. He needed to locate more fragments of the Heart of Life, consume them, awaken Emer,

Chapter 1302 Seeking Christos' Guid 📖 +120 Points at most and rejuvenate his own fragment.

Yet, despite his urgency, he was just a minor player in the expansive Cosmic realm. The Heart of Life fragments were exceedingly rare, making the quest to find them daunting.

After thorough consideration, Liam decided to reach out to Caden through the Network of Human Sovereign.

Caden quickly established a connection with Liam.

Without hesitation, Liam inquired, "Sir, have you heard anything about the Heart of Life fragments? I desperately need them!"

Caden, informed of Liam's situation and his fragment of the Heart of Life, responded openly, "Liam, this matter is out of my reach as the Lord of Rosefinch. The Sanctuary of Human Sovereign oversees such affairs; perhaps Mr. Ellis could assist you. He might have the information you need."

After a pause, Caden added, "Don't worry. Mr. Ellis has shown interest in having you join his Sanctuary of Human Sovereign. Approach him, and he's unlikely to refuse you. Choosing to join the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign or to train under the Citadel Guardian is your decision to make. I have my motives for suggesting the latter. It would prove advantageous for the Rosefinch Galaxy, after all. But remember, this decision should support your growth, and we ought not to influence it unduly."

Touched by Caden's transparency, Liam felt a surge of gratitude. He understood Caden's recommendation came with personal motives, but he hadn't expected that Caden had done that for the entire Rosefinch Galaxy.

Liam's respect for Caden grew.

After thanking Caden, Liam closed the Network of Human Sovereign and activated the teleportation array to visit Christos at the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign.

Upon Liam's arrival, Christos greeted him with a warm smile.

Christos inquired, "Young fellow, have you come to join the

Chapter 1302 Seeking Christos' Guid 📁 +120 Points at most Sanctuary of Human Sovereign?"

Caught off guard, Liam replied, "Mr. Ellis, I haven't made that decision yet. I'm actually here to inquire about the Heart of Life fragments, not to pick sides."

Christos wasn't disappointed by Liam's response. He chuckled and remarked, "Caden is quite the strategist, using me to aid you while also indebting you to him."

Liam tensed, worried Christos might turn him down.

But his fears were unfounded.

Christos smiled and said, "About the Heart of Life fragments, within our Human Clan's territory, only one Human Sovereign has a fragment. I'd advise against pursuing that fragment for now, as you currently lack the power to convince that Human Sovereign to part with it willingly. However, our records indicate three other fragments of the Heart of Life are located within the territories of the Elf Clan, the Beast Clan, and the Blood Clans. These are significant clans, particularly the Blood Clan, which is rife with peril. You don't yet have the necessary Level 5 clearance to venture there."

Liam's expression fell slightly. He realized his urgent quest for the fragments of the Heart of Life would have to be delayed.

Noticing Liam's disappointment, Christos offered some encouragement, saying, "In the recent battle against the Insect Clan, you've earned quite a few points as a reward. Those points should suffice to elevate you to Level 4 clearance. Come see me once you've achieved Level 5."