

Chapter 1314 A Good Harvest

After Liam killed Jason, he didn't leave. Instead, he remained in the No. 76 planetary system for ten days.

During this time, he and other participants involved in the mission eradicated all the Dark Mist Spirits on this planetary system.

Throughout these days, there had been some speculation about Jason's disappearance, but no one pursued the matter.

After all, most agreed that it would be great if Jason had fallen victim to the Dark Mist Spirits!

During this time, Liam had amassed significant gains from killing the Dark Mist Spirits.

He had secured the most crystal cores among all participants, accumulating over one thousand Dark Mist Spirit crystal cores.

Each crystal core could be exchanged for two points, granting Liam at least two thousand special points—quite a huge number.

These two thousand special points would be enough for Liam's cultivation for some time.

However, the Dark Mist Spirit crystal cores were the least significant of Liam's gains.

His strength had surged, elevating him to the peak of level three as a Primogem Expert. With some more time to refine and his skills to adeptly wield the law power, Liam stood on the cusp of advancing to level four as a Primogem Expert.

Liam had become increasingly skilled in harnessing the law power of the earth element. Now, after he had become a level-three Primogem Expert, the magnetic field effect of his earth element law power had amplified to three hundred times its usual strength.

Additionally, his sword of darkness had absorbed ample dark material during this period and had undergone a noticeable transformation.

While his sword of darkness wasn't as sharp as a mystic-grade weapon, it was among the finest of all Mortal-grade weapons. No other Mortal-grade weapon could match its sharpness and destructive power!

The bond between the sword of darkness and Liam had also grown increasingly strong. The sword of darkness had become almost an extension of Liam's body, capable of operating autonomously at his will.

As the tenth day dawned, the mission concluded.

Liam and the other Primogem Experts returned to the mission room via the transmission array.

Upon his return, Liam submitted his task results.

The mission panel promptly displayed the outcome of Liam's efforts.

"Participant, your mission is rated at 100% progress. After system assessment, you have performed excellently. Therefore, apart from the 300 points of the mission, the system will reward you with an extra 1000 points."

The successful completion of a level-three task awarded Liam a total of 1300 points, elevating his authority to level four!

Liam was elated.

He was content with the outcome.

Subsequently, Liam traded 500 crystal cores of the Dark Mist Spirit to the Network of Human Sovereign and received 1000 special points.

Liam decided not to sell the remaining 500 Dark Mist Spirit crystal cores.

He chose to keep these crystal cores with him, planning to have them available for future use, since he didn't need them now.

After all, the crystal cores could always be sold to the Network of Human Sovereign for special points whenever needed. Having previously sold a significant amount of spark metal, Liam was not currently in need
