

Chapter 1325 Breakthrough

A day later, Liam had finally secured three pieces of Feathered Gold from the nest of a Gold Devourer.

This marked his first encounter with the rare metal.

The Feathered Gold glowed with a dazzling golden hue, looking like miniature suns, its brilliance captivating.

Liam sensed a powerful metallic energy emanating from it, confirming its importance in understanding the law power of the metal element.

Clutching the three pieces of Feathered Gold, Liam felt complicated emotions within him.

He had worked hard for these. Within this golden nest, he had combated three Gold Devourers, each at the eighth stage of the Primogem Expert level, which had drained both his physical strength and primogem energy to the brink.

He carefully stored the Feathered Gold, a wave of relief washing over him.

These three pieces met his mission's requirements, and any more he found would be his to keep.

As he prepared to rest for a while to restore his energy, Liam suddenly furrowed his brow.

He sensed an imminent breakthrough in his earth elemental law power, likely spurred by his recent battles.

The realization of this rare opportunity left him momentarily dazed. After a while, he called out to Chad and Everett, "I sense a breakthrough coming. Please guard me!"

Chad and Everett were taken aback.

They had experienced post-battle breakthroughs themselves but were astounded by Liam's timing.

Just a month prior, Liam had been a mere Primogem Warrior!

Nevertheless, they quickly sprang into action, positioning themselves around Liam to ensure no disturbances.

Liam shut his eyes, focusing intently on his earth elemental law power.

Visions related to this power began to fill his mind, deepening his understanding of the law power.

Chad and Everett braced for a prolonged process for Liam's breakthrough.

However, to their astonishment, it had taken Liam only two hours to advance smoothly!

A potent surge of earth elemental law power now permeated the Gold Devourer's nest.

Chad and Everett exchanged looks of disbelief.

Liam's advancement from the third to the fourth stage of Primogem Expert in such a short time was nothing short of remarkable.

This made Chad and Everett, the seasoned experts, feel humbled.

Everett, never one to mince words, blurted out, "Liam,

"You're a beast! I've never seen anyone who grows their power so quickly like you!"

Riding the high from his recent advancement, Liam chuckled and bantered with Everett.

Meanwhile, in another part of the Gold Devourer's nest.

The energy from Liam's breakthrough spread out.

By chance, someone passed by.

This person didn't notice Liam's energy right away. He was lost in thought, muttering to himself, "The family has put a bounty on the one responsible for Jason's death. But the Rosefinch Galaxy is immense. How on earth can I pinpoint the culprit? If I am lucky enough to find him, it would be a huge achievement!"

His name was Troy Astron, a distant relative of Jason.

Hoping to rise within his family ranks, Troy saw this task of finding the killer of Jason as a golden opportunity.

If he were able to find the culprit, he would become a member of the inner circle of the Astron family, significantly boosting his status and his access to resources.

At 298 years old, Troy had achieved the first stage of Primogem King.

Although not recognized as a genius, he was far from weak.

However, his impure bloodline barred him from entering the Astron family's inner circle. This meant that, without a great opportunity, his prospects for advancing to the Primogem Emperor level were bleak.

Reflecting on his situation often left Troy feeling frustrated.

The bounty on Jason's killer now presented him with a rare chance to improve his standing within the Astron family.

However, Troy soon realized something and shook his head.

The enormity of the Rosefinch Galaxy dampened his spirits, making the task seem as daunting as finding a needle in a haystack.

Just as he sighed in resignation, Troy sensed the energy from Liam's breakthrough and turned towards its source, murmuring in surprise, "A fourth-stage Primogem Expert in the Feathered Gold secret realm? Could he belong to a notable family? This could be the chance I need! If this person is indeed from a powerful family, befriending him could be highly advantageous."

With renewed excitement, Troy headed toward the direction of Liam's energy.
