

Chapter 1326 The Astron Family's Fury

As Troy approached the lair of the Gold Devourer, he saw Liam exiting with Chad and Everett.

He found Liam's face increasingly familiar.

After a brief pause, realization struck him, and his eyes widened in surprise.

The man before him was the infamous fugitive wanted by the head of the Astron family for killing Jason!

To confirm his suspicion, Troy quickly pulled out the wanted poster of Liam that Tom had issued to every member of the Astron family. After scrutinizing the poster and comparing it repeatedly with Liam's face, Troy was convinced that the newly advanced fourth-stage Primogem Expert was indeed Liam.

Troy's eyes sparkled with excitement. He muttered to himself, "I'm so lucky! I can't believe I've stumbled upon Jason's murderer while on a mission!"

Capturing Liam would be a significant achievement for him, granting him access to the extensive training resources of the Astron family.

Overcome with excitement, Troy nearly rushed to confront Liam directly.

However, as he was about to take action, he noticed that Liam was not alone but flanked by two formidable figures, both at the Primogem King level.

Their auras were noticeably more potent than his own, and he realized that even if he could handle Liam one-on-one, he stood no chance against either of Liam's companions.

Acknowledging the presence of the two Primogem Kings by Liam's side, Troy felt his initial rush of excitement quickly dissipate. He discreetly retreated and concealed himself.

After careful deliberation, Troy opted to inform his family of Liam's whereabouts rather than confronting him alone.

While this decision meant he might receive less credit, it was considerably safer...

At the Astron family's residence.

Upon receiving Troy's report, Tom slammed his fist down on the table. "Gather all family members at the Primogem King level and above in the main hall now!"

After saying that, he marched towards the main hall with determined strides.

He also assured Troy, "If we successfully eliminate that bastard, you will be hailed as the greatest hero of the Astron family! Just keep him in sight until I arrive with our strongest fighters!"

After giving instructions to Troy, Tom ended the communication.

Soon, Tom entered the crowded main hall of the Astron family's residence. Dozens of family members, all Primogem Kings or higher, were waiting with anticipation. Their intense stares focused on Tom.

With a commanding presence, Tom scanned the room. Lifting his arm high, he shouted with fierce resolve, "Troy has located the person who murdered my son; he is in the secret realm of Feathered Gold! This assembly is so that we could enact revenge on that bastard! We will set off now! If you find him, capture him alive. Remember, I want him alive! I will slowly torture him to his death!"

The crowd responded loudly, "Yes, sir!"

"Let's head out!" Tom had mobilized three Primogem Emperors, including himself, along with a substantial number of Primogem Kings. For Liam and his companions, escape seemed impossible against such overwhelming force.

With determination, Tom and his people marched towards the teleportation array, a formidable force united for revenge.

However, as they approached the array, Tom heard a familiar voice call out his name from behind.

Irritated, he turned to see Arthur.

The Vaughn family, another third-rate family from the No. 75 planetary system, had always had strained relations with the Astron family.

Arthur, spotting Tom's hasty mobilization, couldn't hide his glee. "Tom, did you find the person who killed your son? Remember, the dead aren't coming back to life! Don't let anger cloud your judgment!"

Arthur's concern was not genuine at all. He would be happy to see the Astron family's downfall.

Tom's expression turned frosty as he said sharply, "Arthur Vaughn, mark my words! Once I've avenged my son and killed that bastard, I'll deal with you!"

Unfazed, Arthur shot back, "Do you think I'm afraid of your
