

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 934

Chapter 934 Back at the Starry River Villa, Avery was feeling much better compared to during the day. Aside from feeling a little exhausted, her stomach did not hurt anymore.

After having a warm and pleasant dinner, she brought the two children to the living room and took out the gifts both she and Elliot had prepared for them.

Elliot asked her not to tell them that those gifts were from him, but she could not fulfill that request of his because she did not want to lie to the children. "Why are there four gifts, Mommy?" Layla's eyes sparkled as she looked at the four gift boxes. She was very excited to open all the gifts.

"Mommy bought these two, and Daddy bought the other two." Avery made a point to pay special attention to Hayden's expression when she said that.

When Hayden heard the word 'Daddy', his warm expression turned cold in an instant. "Let's open the gifts and see what's inside!" Avery picked up the gift that Elliot bought first because she knew that Hayden would leave if he opened her gift first.

Avery was just as curious as to what kind of gifts Elliot bought.

Given how much importance Elliot had placed on the children, she had a feeling that he bought stuff the children would like.

Avery opened the first gift and took out an exquisite-looking little box.

Before Avery even opened it, Layla immediately exclaimed, "This must be for me! It's definitely a beautiful hairpin inside!"

Avery smiled and handed the box to Layla. "Go ahead and open it then." Layla took the gift box excitedly and opened it.

A pink heart-shaped diamond came into Layla's view, sparkling brightly underneath the light.

Layla opened her mouth in shock and awe!

"What a huge diamond!" Mrs. Cooper held Robert and watched from one side. The diamond inside the box came as a big surprise to her.

Layla trembled as she took it out of the box.

It was a very huge, raw diamond!

"Why did Daddy give me this diamond? I can't wear it around my neck or clip it on my hair. Is it supposed to be a toy?" Layla joked. She then tossed the diamond in the air like a pebble and caught it.

"What do you want to turn it into? I can always bring it to a jewelry store and let someone turn it into something else," Avery explained. "Don't throw it around! It's expensive, and you wouldn't want to break it."

"Oh! I have an idea! Could you bring it to the store and tell them to make a magic wand for me?" Layla allowed her imagination to run wild. "It'll be so cool if this diamond was placed on top of the magic wand!"

Avery was speechless. She opened the gift that Elliot bought for Hayden and took out a tiger shaped robot from it.

The robot was not very big and was about the size of a large piggy bank "What's this?!" Layla looked at the little tiger robot curiously. Avery took out the instruction manual from the box and read it before handing it over to her daughter. "This is a smart robot."

"Whoa! Hayden likes robots the most!" Layla said as she took the little tiger. "Put it down, Layla!" Hayden frowned. "I don't want his gift!" Layla pouted. "Suit yourself! If you don't want this cute little tiger, I'll take it!" She had already found the robot's power button and pressed it. "Good evening, Master! I'm Tiggy, the tiger who knows all! Ask me a question!" Layla asked, "Tiggy, Tiggy! My brother doesn't want you. What are you going to do about that?" Tiggy was silent for a few seconds before letting out a burst of screams!

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 935

Chapter 935 Everyone was speechless. Just like that, Tiggie had convinced everyone to let him stay. At the old mansion, Elliot caught a whiff of gasoline when he opened the lock of the courtyard door.

It took less than three minutes from the time he noticed the gasoline smell for a roaring fire to appear in front of him.

Elliot was stunned when he saw the sudden burst of fire.

The bodyguard rushed over immediately and pulled Elliot out of the yard. "Mr. Foster! Someone set the place on fire! Please wait outside! I'm going to find the culprit!" Elliot was pushed to the courtyard by the bodyguard, who then immediately ran in to find the arsonist!

Elliot looked at the raging fire in front of him and immediately took out his cell phone to call the fire department.

It was bold of Henry to set the house on fire simply because he was reluctant to sell it!

The previous day, Mrs. Scarlet even mentioned that Henry was unwilling to sell the house. After all, Henry had lived in the old mansion for most of his life, and it was Cole who owed other people money and left Henry with no choice but to sell it off.

Mrs. Scarlet had probably erred in her judgment, all things considered.

Why would Cole-a man who feared death-be brave enough to court such a disaster?! Henry must have been in on the plan too.

Was Henry betting on the fact that Elliot was afraid to kill him?!

In that case, Henry could not be more wrong! Elliot would not hesitate to go against anyone who angered him, with the only exceptions being Avery and the children. The fire truck came quickly enough and began to put out the fire. The staff from the residential area rushed over as well. When they saw Elliot's gloomy expression, they immediately asked, "Are you alright, Mr. Foster? How was there such a big fire here? No one's living in this villa, so logically speaking, there shouldn't have been a fire!"

The staff had just finished talking when the bodyguard dragged the arsonist out.

Elliot clenched his fists tightly when he saw the arsonist's face!

About 20 minutes later, news of the fire in the old Foster mansion had spread throughout the internet.

Since the property was valued at a high price and the Fosters had always lived in that particular villa, news of the fire quickly made the 94 headlines.

Avery was with her children and did not see the news, "Avery! There's a fire in Elliot's house!" Mike spoke a little too fast because he was feeling 18 anxious.

When Avery heard what he said, her expression tensed up and she asked in a solemn voice, "What's going on? How did the fire happen? Is he alright?!" "I don't know! I found out about it through the news. I tried calling Chad but he didn't answer. "Mike showed her the news, "Look how big the fire is! Even the sky is red. This is horrifying! I'm not even sure if Elliot will be able to escape if he's inside the house!" Avery took his cell phone and felt relieved after getting a good look at the picture! "This isn't his house! It's the old mansion! He's probably not inside there!"

"Oh, but I read on the news that it's his."

"Wait a second!" Avery's body suddenly turned cold. "He just bought the old mansion today! He's probably inside it right now!" After saying that, she returned the phone to Mike and ran out in a flash!

"Avery! Wait! I'm coming with you!" Mike chased after her.

Half an hour later, Avery and Mike came to the residential area where the old Foster mansion was located.

She practically ran to the old Foster mansion when she reached the area.

The fire was already put out. However, the cordon in front of the house was still up. There were a lot of people surrounding the place and almost everyone was whispering about the fire and the story behind it. Avery could not be bothered to listen to all that gossip! All she wanted to know was whether Elliot was alright!

"You should give him a call and ask!" Mike caught his breath and reminded. "If he's fine, he'll answer your call for sure!"

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 936

Chapter 936 Avery stepped to one side. She immediately dialed Elliot's number before giving her emotions a chance to calm down.

To her surprise, Elliot answered the phone within seconds.

"I'm fine." His voice was low and firm. She sighed with relief and asked calmly, "Who set the fire?" "My eldest brother's driver. He's been with my eldest brother for many years now." Avery was overwhelmed with sadness as she looked at the old mansion that had just gone through hell in just one night. Why burn a house down just because of the enmity that existed between two humans? "Was it under your elder brother's orders?" She could not help but suspect it was so. She recalled that Henry and Elliot shared very different personalities, and the former even seemed extraordinarily honest and sincere when compared to Elliot. It boggled her why Henry would even do something so outrageous. "The driver said that it wasn't the case, but I'm still verifying that." Elliot then asked hoarsely, "Where are you now?"

"L..." She felt embarrassed to tell him the truth. After all, he might think that she cared about him if he knew that she was there.

"You should go home and rest since you're not feeling well today." He did not make her feel awkward.

The fact that she took the initiative to call him was already evidence enough.

"By the way, I gave the children your gifts." Avery changed the topic to ease the atmosphere. "Layla loved the diamond, but you shouldn't give her such valuable jewelry in the future. I don't think it's appropriate. You can give as big a diamond as you want, but a child will treat it the same as a red stone."

"As long as my daughter likes it, she can play with it however she wants. What's wrong with that?"

Avery was speechless.

Elliot then asked, "What about Hayden? Does he like that robot?" "I think he does, but he didn't want it because it came from you. Layla loves it though. She brought it back to her room."

Elliot expected it already. "As long as you don't return it to me."

"Okay. I'm going back now." She held the phone and walked toward Mike. On the other side of the phone, Elliot's breathing suddenly increased, "You went to the old mansion to look for me? Why aren't you keen on giving me another chance if I still have a place in your heart, Avery?" Avery clenched her fingers tightly around the phone. She had a slip of the tongue and was too careless earlier. "Okay, you should head back! I'll look for you when I'm done with all this," he said. "Why do you need to look for me? Isn't it fine to just keep things as it is?" She retorted. After being silent for a few seconds, he decided to be true to himself and tell her his inner thoughts. "I want to take the next step with you." "Anything's possible in your dreams," she sneered, then hung up. Mike crossed his arms and watched her walk over after speaking on the phone. "Elliot's fine, it seems. I knew that he won't die that easily."

"He's human too. Why wouldn't he die that easily?" Avery's hair was messy due to the blowing wind and she tucked a lock of hair behind her ears. "Isn't there a saying that only the good die young?" "Don't misuse those sayings." Avery felt a little cold at that moment because she had rushed out of the house without wearing a coat. Mike was not wearing one either, and he was shivering from the cold too. "How about we hug each other to warm ourselves up?" he suggested. Avery glared at him. "Are all men this shameless? Do you guys have to verbalize your thoughts all the time?"

“Ooooh, someone’s angry! Did Elliot say something shameless to you? I can think of no other explanation for why you would lump all men into one category.” Avery pursed her lips and did not answer.
