Chapter 1234

If Gamora were not Astrid's mother, David would not want to talk to her.

He could act like this because of his ability.

However, Gamora did not say anything.

Her daughter was here, so Gamora would not embarrass her.

However, she became increasingly resentful of David in her heart.

Gamora could see how Astrid acted when she returned to Planet Royal, so she was pretty biased against David.

Even though she was grateful that David had saved Astrid, who knew if this was a trap?

"Mother, David, stop being so courteous to each other. Let's talk after we get back."

"Alright, let's go," Gamora said.

David and Mia headed to the courtyard where Princess Astrid stayed under the guidance of Astrid and Gamora.

On the way, Astrid smiled happily as she told David everything about Planet Royal.

Right now, she was delighted that she could be with David.

Of course, it would be better if they were exploring together and not on Planet Royal.

Gamora did not talk much during the journey.

Although she did not have an unpleasant expression, she was not smiling either.

At this moment, Mia was following them like a respectful maid.

When the three of them were together, they got along pretty well.

However, Empress Gamora was here, so Mia did not dare to act recklessly.

After all, their identities were miles apart.

“David, there is still some time until the state banquet, so I can bring you around Planet Royal. Even though Planet Royal is not as exciting and thrilling as your explorations, you can still visit many places since this is your first time here. You won’t be disappointed,” Astrid said while walking.

David wanted to decline, but he did not have the heart to upset her after seeing how excited she was.

However, he made up his mind secretly.

The moment the state banquet was over, he would leave Planet Royal at once and return to Earth.

That was his home, and a lot of people needed him to be there.

“Thank you, Your Royal Highness. I was stunned when I landed on Planet Royal. As expected, it’s the biggest, liveliest, and most majestic planet in the Milky Way. I feel like staying here and enjoying myself,” David lamented.

“If you like this planet, you can stay here forever. I heard the people born here and the ones who stayed here long-term will get the Milky Way’s blessing. Even if it’s just a rumor, many people believe it. Also, if you stay here, I can come and hang out with you all the time. It’ll be amazing!” Astrid suggested.

“Um... It’s fine. Thank you for your kind intention, Your Royal Highness. I can’t do that now because I still need to take care of many things out there. I’ll think about it if I have a chance in the future,” David rejected quickly.

That would be the most miserable ending.

He had almost dug a trap and jumped into it himself.

“I see. Well... You must come and stay for a while after finishing your work. I promise you’ll fall in love with this place.”

“I will!”

Even if David said this, he knew it was impossible at the bottom of his heart.

No matter how great Planet Royal was, he would not stay here.

As the saying went, 'the smoke of a man's own house is better than the fire of another.'

David would only feel at home on Earth.

Astrid was the only one who spoke the entire way.

David would occasionally reply.

Meanwhile, Gamora did not say anything as she listened to the two of them.

She thought, 'David is pretty good. He's so good at playing hard to get.

'It seems that he's a professional.

'People like this will be very attractive to inexperienced girls like Astrid.'

However, the more he did this, the more Gamora felt that something was wrong with him.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1235

Chapter 1235 Astrid was still talking when David remembered he had forgotten something

'Fergus is still inside the Galaxy Warship!'

This was why he came to Planet Royal and did his best to help the empire. It was so that the empire would not start a war with the Sangruil Sinners, causing the people to suffer.

Therefore, David asked, "Your Majesty, how is the situation between the empire and the Sangruil Sinners?"

'Hmm?' Gamora was taken aback.

She did not know why David would suddenly mention the Sangruil Sinners.

However, she answered, "The Sangruil Sinners are just clowns. Of course, they can't pose a threat to the empire. It's just that the emperor is very busy, so they can run rampant for now. Soon, we will get rid of all of them."

Of course, Gamora would not tell the truth.

The empire was very troubled after finding out the Sangruil Sinners were working with the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan.

Most importantly, Moe had injured the emperor.

Even if Moe's injuries had suffered worse injuries, this would still be hard for the people to accept.

Who was the emperor? He was the strongest person in the Milky Way, and now he was injured by someone else.

If word got out, the entire Milky Way would be in chaos.

"That's good. I ran into the new head of the Callisto family, Fergus, while I was on the way. He had become fully dependent on the 4 Sangruil Sinners and had fused with the genes from the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan, causing his strength to skyrocket. However, I've subdued him, and he's in the Galaxy Warship. Your Majesty, you can get someone to bring him away. I hope this will help you with your research into the Sangruil Sinners," David said.

"Oh? The Callisto family has become dependent on the Sangruil Sinners? Is this true?"

Gamora was interested now.

The Callisto family was one of the eight prominent families in the Milky Way, and they were not weak.

The empire had also obtained information about forces suspected to have relied on the Sangruil Sinners.

However, these were just suspicions, and they were not confirmed.

Moreover, the Callisto family was not on the list of suspected forces. This could only mean that the Callisto family was good at covering their footsteps.

Moreover, the emperor was resting during this period, and it was inconvenient for him to act.

That was why the empire did not do anything.

If it was confirmed that the Callisto family had relied on the Sangruil Sinners, the empire could exert pressure on them.

The empire could punish the Callisto family to serve as a warning to others.

If David's information were legitimate, it would be hugely beneficial to the empire.

“I am unaware if the rest of the Callisto family is working with the Sangruil Sinners, but Fergus, the head of the family, has indeed become a member of the Sangruil Sinners. You can go ask him anything you want to know,” David answered.

“Good! David, if this is true, you will have made a huge contribution,” Gamora said earnestly.

David smiled but did not say anything.

He did not care about credit.

He just did not want to see a war happening in the Milky Way.

One side would be humans, while one side would be half-human, half-beasts monsters colluding with foreign races.

Naturally, David would side with the empire.

After Gamora said that, she asked her people to bring Fergus out.

David also notified Balu to bring Fergus out to hand him to the empire.

Soon, the four of them reached Princess Astrid’s courtyard in the Royal Palace.

Someone had prepared a table of sumptuous food and drinks.

After David and the others arrived, they sat down, and the welcoming banquet officially began.

Astrid was happy throughout the meal.

She had been excited ever since she heard about David arriving on Planet Royal.

At night, David was arranged to stay in another courtyard.

He was a man, so he could not stay in Princess Astrid’s courtyard.

Even though Astrid wanted him to stay, this would not be the case since Empress Gamora was around.

At this moment, David was in the courtyard chatting and drinking tea with Mia. At the same time, they enjoyed Planet Royal’s night sky.

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 1236

Chapter 1236 As expected of Planet Royal, even its night sky looked dreamy.

Suddenly, David's mind power sensed an energy that was as dazzling as the sun approaching him.

David smiled and said, "Since Your Majesty is here, why don't you show yourself?"

"Not bad! David, you found me. I guess Gammy was right. You are not indeed not a simpleton," a deep and resounding voice penetrated David and Mia's ears.

Unbeknownst to them, a middle-aged man was sitting opposite David.

Mia felt her brain haywire when she saw the middle-aged man who appeared out of nowhere.

'What did David call him?

'His Majesty?

'His Majesty!

"His Majesty Emperor Nimbus of the Milky Way Empire? The strongest person in the Milky Way?

'Such a legendary figure is in front of me right now?'

Mia felt as if she was about to pass out.

Back then, looking at someone like Emperor Nimbus would burn one's eyes.

He was like the sun, shining down on the Milky Way and subduing all the top forces.

"Mia greets you, Your Majesty!" Mia returned to her senses and knelt on the ground, greeting respectfully.

"That's enough. You may rise. His Majesty is not here tonight, only Astrid's father, Nimbus. I am here as Astrid's father," Nimbus shook his hand and said.

"Thank you, Your Majesty," Mia stood up and got behind David.

She did not dare to continue sitting.

How many people in the Milky Way dared to sit next to Emperor Nimbus?

Mia peered at David.

She saw that he had no intention of getting up. He sat there quietly and looked at the strongest man in the Milky Way with a smile. 'That's Emperor Nimbus!'

Mia was confused.

She did not know if David had forgotten his manners after leaving the Royal Region for too long or if there was another reason for his behavior.

How could he be so calm facing the emperor?

After staying with him for so long, Mia did not think David was nuts.

'He's pretty normal, right?'

'Why does he seem so insane now?'

'Is the emperor not still the emperor even if he says he's here as Astrid's father?'

'Is David taking the emperor seriously?'

Mia wanted to remind David of this, but she thought it would be inappropriate for her to speak up.

'What should I do?' Mia was anxious.

They would be doomed if David offended the emperor and pissed him off.

Mia had no idea that David had reached partial Eternal Realm and was on the same level as Emperor Nimbus.

Of course, David would not be humble if he faced someone on the same level as him.

Also, David's strength would rise again soon. When that happened, the emperor might have to bow whenever he met David.

The difference between partial Eternal Realm and Eternal Realm was more significant than the differences between the realms before it.

If David managed to break through, he would be immortal.

Even Emperor Nimbus would have to call someone at Eternal Realm master.

This was a world where strength was of the utmost importance.

Mia knew David was mysterious, but even so, was he more powerful than the emperor?

Of course, she was not the only one who felt this way.

Everyone who knew David would not think he was on the same level as the emperor.
