

Chapter 2059 Lexi Asking For A Chance

Janet gazed silently at Lexi's eager face, absorbing her zeal.

She was aware that Lexi wasn't directly responsible for the mishap at the last fashion show, yet she knew Lexi's personality drove her to continually prove her worth through her actions.

The room fell silent.

Janet was about to speak when Sonia interjected.

"Janet, I think it would be wise to consider this more thoroughly."

"It's none of your business!" Lexi said bitterly, irritated by Sonia's interruption.

Then, Janet's voice broke through.

"Lexi, I appreciate your enthusiasm, but you need to approach this calmly. I'll think it over and let you know my decision."

Perhaps influenced by Sonia's caution, Janet was hesitant to immediately endorse Lexi's proposal.

Lexi's heart sank.

How long would Janet need to deliberate? A day? A week?

She could only hope Janet would eventually see the merit in her proposal. If not, would all her efforts be for nothing?

Beside her, Sonia's presence was a silent reminder of the stakes. Lexi's emotions flared.

"Janet, please trust me. I promise to prepare thoroughly!" In a burst of determination, Lexi added, "If I fail again, I'll leave Rowena Studio for good!"

Janet sighed at Lexi's declaration.

She recognized Lexi's talent but knew her impulsive nature often led to hasty actions.

Janet was already familiar with the design exhibition Lexi mentioned, and had been considering participating in it.

However, with Rowena Studio still finding its footing and her pregnancy, Janet had initially planned to delay her involvement until after her postnatal recovery period.

Now, it seemed those plans might need adjusting.

"What's the theme?" Janet asked, not wanting to lose Lexi and willing to give her a chance.

"It's focused on infant clothing design," Lexi replied promptly.

This piqued Janet's interest.

Coincidentally, she had been considering venturing into infant and toddler clothing design. This could be a serendipitous alignment of her personal interests with studio needs.

After a moment's thought, Janet agreed. "If you're passionate about this project, go ahead and take it on."

"Thank you, Janet!" Lexi beamed.

"Don't celebrate just yet. There's a condition," Janet

Lexi's excitement didn't wane. "Absolutely!"

She expressed her gratitude once more. "Thank you for this opportunity, Janet. I won't let you down!"

"Alright," Janet replied with a gentle smile. "Proceed with your work."

Lexi nodded enthusiastically and returned to her workstation, casting a triumphant glance at Sonia.

Janet chose not to comment on the exchange. She simply picked up the fabric sample book and headed back home.

On the way, Sonia voiced her concerns. "Aren't you also working on a similar design? Why entrust Lexi with full responsibility instead of having her assist you?"
