

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 1749

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1749—Even though David was a partial Saint, this was not enough.

Partial Saint was not his goal.

He had prepared and planned for so long, so he wanted to progress further. He wanted to upgrade his Body again to get to Saint Realm.

He had crossed so many ranks, going from late Sovereign Rank directly to Saint Realm.

If word got out and outsiders found out, this would shock everyone in Star Kingdom, including the Sacred Saints.

This was truly unprecedented.

This might have never happened in the entire universe, let alone Star Kingdom.

Meanwhile, David would surely create an unwritten history.

After calming down, David continued upgrading.

A pop-up window appeared again.

[This upgrade will require 10000 lavish points. After upgrading, the host's Body will go from Sovereign level 10 to Pre-Saint level 10. The host's body will also go from a mortal body to a Saint's body. Hence, it will not be affected by the Eternal Catastrophe to achieve true immortality. Does the host want to confirm this upgrade?]

There were still two options.

Yes and No.

David chose Yes without even thinking about it.

The system disappeared before him.

At the same time, he felt a huge burst of energy rushing into his body.

He was overwhelmed by intense pain that felt as if it would stretch him open.

David gritted his teeth to endure the pain.

He knew he had to endure it so that his body could change successfully.

The process of changing from a mortal body to a Saint's body was very slow. Every cell of the body had to evolve before it was considered a success.

On the other side, Alba did not leave immediately after David left.

She still had a lot of questions.

"Grandpa Val, why did you ask for David?" Alba asked.

"Why? Can't I invite him over to have a chat?" Valerio asked with a grin.

"No, but I'm just curious. You don't know him, do you?"

"I didn't, but I do now after the chat."

"What did you talk about?"

"I wanted to know more about his identity and background. However, even though he was young, he was very smart. Aside from learning he has a master, I know nothing else. I think he might have purposely let us know about his master," Valerio shook his head and said.

David was certainly the smartest young person he had ever met.

It was hard to get any useful information from someone like that.

To put it bluntly, even if Valerio got something from him, it was because David wanted him to know. Even so, he was not sure if what he learned was true.

"So you only talked, right? There weren't any disagreements or conflicts between you two, right?" Alba asked worriedly.

"Alba, do I look like I lack sense? No matter what, David is a huge client of Treasure Trove, so how could I have any disagreements with him? The company is unstable right now. I might even start worshiping him."

"Grandpa Val, don't misunderstand. I didn't mean that. However, David is not simple. I'm worried there will be some disagreements between you two. It won't be good even if there is a small disagreement," Alba quickly explained.

"Of course, I know that. He's so young and yet he can take out more than 10 trillion Star Dollars without batting an eyelid. He must have a very strong force supporting him. Moreover, I can't even see through this kid's strength. There won't be more than ten young people like this in the entire Star Kingdom, both in the light and the dark. Archimedes is still one level below those guys," Valerio lamented.

“No way! You can’t see through David? You’re a partial Saint, Grandpa Val!” Alba widened her gorgeous eyes and asked in surprise.

“What’s so surprising about that? Anyone below Saint Realm is an ant, and partial Saints are just slightly stronger ants.”

“B-But David looks so young. How can you not see through him?” Alba was still in disbelief.

“Just because you’re young doesn’t mean you’re weak. Some extremely talented geniuses will break through the realms as easily as eating or drinking. To them, there are no obstacles. Of course, there is another possibility. David might have a hidden treasure, or he knows the concealing technique,” Valerio explained.

“I think it might be the latter,” Alba said affirmatively.

“Oh? How are you so sure?”

“It’s a woman’s intuition.” Alba looked certain.

‘Intuition?’

Valerio smiled and did not say anything.

He was very curious about that young man named David.

He never seen anyone like that in Star Kingdom.

Perhaps David was just as he said. He had always trained with his master and was only recently released.

If not, he would already be popular. He would not be able to hide so well.

For example, what happened at the auction today.

Archimedes and David were fighting and raised a mid-level Soulbound Weapon to 11 trillion, a sky-high price.

This would surely spread across the Central Sacred Continent soon.

Then, it would spread throughout Star Kingdom.

David’s name would enter a lot of people’s ears, and soon, there would be people who dug out his identity and background.

Even if they could not find the real details, there would be a lot of different versions of fake news floating around.

“Alba, I have a question for you,” Valerio asked suddenly.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 1750

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1750—“What do you want to know? Please ask me and I will answer honestly,” Alba answered.

“The last time you told me there’s a chance to solve the family’s predicament and help us get out of the Palmore family’s control. Is this related to David?”

After Valerio asked that, his eyes were fixed on Alba.

When Alba heard this question, she froze. She could not come back to her senses after a long time to answer the question.

Valerio’s question was too sudden.

She never expected that Grandpa Val would guess that David was related to what she told him last time just from this short conversation.

These old men had lived for so long, so none of them were simple.

After coming back to her senses, Alba knew she could not hide anymore.

Since Grandpa Val asked her that, he should have a reason for doing so.

Besides, it might not be a bad thing even if he found out.

As long as they had his help, the time it would take for East League Trading Company to rise would shorten. She could also quickly accomplish her cooperation with David.

“Yes, Grandpa Val, David is the opportunity I previously mentioned,” Alba answered honestly.

Valerio was not shocked by this result. Instead, he expected it.

“Oh? Tell me, how can he fight the Palmore family? Even though he’s not weak in terms of identity and background, Alba, you must know that the Pamore family is one of the six top forces in Star Kingdom with Sacred Saints. You can even say they are at the top of Star Kingdom’s pyramid. No one can shake their position.”

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-