I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1838—Among these six top forces, the Ginger family supported them.

Therefore, Roald's words were a little exaggerated.

However, one had to admit that the opponent was indeed powerful.

Therefore, it might be tough if the Lightfoot family wanted to catch the murderer, avenge the two dead heirs of the Lightfoot family under the witness of the entire Star Kingdom, and restore the family's reputation.

The murderer's background was beyond Koen's ability.

Hence, he could only pass the news back to the family and wait for the family's decision.

Moby had been listening to the tit-for-tat confrontation between the two and got a lot of useful information from it.

It seemed that things were not that easy.

"Who is this David person who suddenly appeared?"

'How can he have such a terrifying background?'

Of course, Moby did not really believe that the force behind David could destroy the Lightfoot family.

However, he would not doubt the strength of David's background.

'I'd really like to meet this guy if I get a chance.'

Seeing that Koen was silent, Moby knew that he was also weighing the pros and cons in his heart.

Then, Moby asked, "Roald, who is David? Is he really as amazing as you said?"

"Moby, it's not that I don't want to tell you, but that I can't. I believe you will know the truth soon." Roald shook his head and replied.

"Since you said so, then I won't force you anymore. I still have a small request. I hope you will agree."

“Please, ask away.”

“Isn’t David here at Treasure Trove? Can I meet him? Roald, don’t worry, I will meet him alone and I will never expose him.”

“I’m afraid I can’t let you do that now.” Roald shook his head.

“Why?” Moby asked, feeling puzzled.

“David said not to disturb him unless it’s absolutely necessary. Of course, I can ask for you, but I can’t guarantee that he will see you,” Roald thought for a while and said.

He did not want to offend Moby or David.

If he brought Moby to see David out of the blue, David might get upset.

By then, everything the Fellowes family had done would be in vain.

David was the only glimmer of hope that the Fellowes family had seen after so many years.

Regardless of whether he could help the Fellowes family get out of trouble in the end, they had to hang on to this glimmer of hope “Thank you, Roald,” Moby thanked.

At the same time, he smiled helplessly in his heart.

“When did I, a dignified member of the Saints Association who is directly under the Saints, need consent to meet a young man who is not even a thousand years old?

‘In the past, everyone would try their best to see me and ask me for favors.

‘Now, the roles have been reversed.’”

Moby could not help sighing in his heart.

‘What a turn of events!’”

However, it was his fault that he had such a strong curiosity about that young man named David.

If he did not meet David, he would feel like something was missing

“Moby, you’re too kind. It’s not certain whether I will be successful or not!” “I still have to thank you no regardless of whether you succeed, Roald.”
