Married at First Sight Chapter 1987—"Mr. Queen, there are no vases in your office. I will send you some vases in the afternoon. I will put the flowers I give you in the vases, and the office will be more beautiful."

Hayden didn't want to accept Kevin's bouquet, but Kevin put the bouquet on her desk regardless of whether she liked it or not.

Kevin returned to Hayden's side, and stretched out his hand to pull Hayden, but Hayden avoided him.

Hayden: "Kevin, please respect yourself and don't touch my hands."

Kevin: "Didn't you always emphasize that you are a man? If a man holds a man's hand, no one will suffer. What are you afraid of?"

As Kevin spoke, he dragged Hayden to the sofa in the reception area.

Kevin: "I also bought you a set of clothes and a pair of shoes."

He picked up the bag containing the skirt and stuffed it into Hayden's arms, and the bag containing the high-heeled shoes, and he helped her take out the high-heeled shoes, put them on the ground, and said to her, "Sit down and try whether these shoes fit, I'm visually measuring the size of your feet, and the approximate size you bought."

When Hayden saw those high heels, her face darkened again.

She didn't take out the skirt, but she glanced at the clothes in the bag, and she knew it was women's clothes by the color.

D*mn Kevin actually gave her women's clothes and shoes!

Was he sure that she was a woman?

Hayden threw the bag containing the skirt back to Kevin, and said coldly: "Kevin, you should give it to the fiancée chosen by your grandma for you."

After finishing speaking, Hayden turned around, walked back to the desk, sat down, started to work, and didn't want to talk to Kevin any more.

Kevin took out the skirt from the bag, unfolded it, compared it to himself, and said, "Isn't this skirt pretty? I think it looks pretty. This is the first skirt I bought."

Holding the skirt in one hand and the high heels in the other, Kevin wanted to walk over.

But at this moment the secretary knocked on the door and entered.

The secretary came in with a document and wanted Hayden to sign it.

As soon as the secretary came in, he saw Kevin holding a long skirt and a pair of high heels. The uppers of the high heels were also studded with diamonds. They were very beautiful, but of course they would not be cheap.

This scene made the secretary stunned. He looked at Kevin and thought, the third young master York was not only gay, but also liked women's clothes and shoes. Was he planning to pretend to be a woman when he was with Mr. Queen in the future?

Soon, the secretary returned to normal. He walked over with the document and said to Hayden, "Mr. Queen, this document needs your signature."

Hayden took the document, read it, signed her name on it, and handed the document to the secretary.

After the secretary took the document, he hesitated to speak, but seeing Hayden's tense face, the secretary finally said nothing, and went out with the document signed by Hayden.

After Kevin waited for the secretary to go out, he walked over again with the skirt and high heels, put them on Hayden's desk, and said to Hayden, "Do you want to try it?"

Without raising her head, Hayden said coldly, "Kevin, please don't make me kick you out."

Kevin: "Don't you like it? I think this dress is pretty. It's the first time I've bought clothes for a girl."

Hayden was so angry that she snatched the skirt and threw it at Kevin.

The skirt was put on Kevin's head. Kevin quickly tore off the skirt and looked at Hayden who was itching with hatred and felt helpless at him.

Kevin said softly: "Well, if you don't want to wear a skirt yet, then don't wear it. You look good in a suit, but you look better than me in a suit, which makes me feel a little inferior in front of you."

"go out!"

No matter how good-tempered Hayden was, she couldn't bear Kevin.
