

I'm A Quadrillionaire

Chapter 2020

Chapter 2020

I'll be free if I die.

I don't have to think about anything, and I don't have to worry about anything.

It's all alone anyway.

'And no one truly cares about me.

'It's like this on Earth and it's also the same in Star Kingdom.'

Lorraine was not stupid.

She knew that Grant and Fred only treated her well on Earth because they were after her body.

After she left home for ten years, her family only wanted to use her status as a Krump disciple to develop their family power.

They did not really care about her.

Now, her four teachers were also very kind, but Lorraine was convinced of one thing.

There was no free lunch.

They must have a purpose, but she did not know what it was.

While suffering endless pain, Lorraine could not help laughing at herself.

'Lorraine, oh Lorraine!

'You were once so mighty and proud, but now, you've fallen to this point.'

In truth, when Eira found her and said that she would use the forbidden technique to improve her strength, Lorraine knew something was up.

Even so, she had no reason to refuse.

Of course, with her current identity, she could not refuse.

Even if both parties were master and disciple, they were not yet at the stage where her teachers would be willing to sacrifice themselves to help her achieve a goal.

Even when Celeste was raised by the four of them, they could still banish her to the ice cavern because of some trivial matter, let alone Lorraine.

How long had she been in Star Kingdom?

How could there be such a deep relationship between them?

Lorraine was self-aware.

When she recalled that Celeste had the same body as her, she knew it was likely because of their alluring bodies that they had received this treatment.

Her teachers needed their bodies, but they had to cultivate a certain strength first.

Sovereign Rank might not be enough since Celeste was a late Sovereign Ranker.

They might have to be a partial Saint, or even a Saint.

Anyway, Lorraine was ready to give up.

She did not want to be someone else's pawn anymore.

Her willpower was gradually weakening.

Eira and her sisters also discovered the change in Lorraine.

They were shocked, so they hurriedly told Lorraine to hold on.

Despite this, Lorraine had chosen to shield any interference from the outside world.

She was reminiscing about her short life.

She was born into the wealthy Lovewood family in Capital City of Somerland.

Since she was a child, she had attracted the favor of many descendants of Capital City with her shocking appearance and unique temperament.

It also made Stan and Clinton, the two best geniuses in Capital City at that time, turn against each other.

Later, she was discovered by her master and joined the hidden sect, The Krump, to cultivate. After that, she was favored by Fred and Grant.

It could be said that Lorraine was loved by thousands before meeting David.

Despite this, David rejected her in front of all the young chosen ones at the grand event of the chosen ones.

She felt insulted.

Because of her pride, she would not lower herself and throw herself at

David. 5

At that time, Lorraine only had one thought.

One day, she would stand in front of David, look down on him, and make him regret rejecting her.
