

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 2193

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2193-After Thor left, David and Beanie entered the private room.

The facilities inside were pretty complete.

The more David looked, the more he saw that they were prepared for lustful men.

Maybe something indescribable happened in this room just now.

And more than once.

Just imagining it made David a little uncomfortable.

He chose to sit on the chair next to him while Beanie sat across from him.

There was no outside noise here.

Since they did not have anything going on, David chatted with Beanie about The Spirit Cage.

What he recently heard and learned from the adventurers was all basic information.

Beanie was also the number two of her family in Nightingale City, so she definitely knew more than the adventurers.

Time passed quickly as the two chatted.

Not long after, the two heard a knock on the door.

Knock knock knock!

“Come in!” David said.

Thor pushed the door open and entered.

“Master David, the trade fair is about to start. Please follow me to the hall.”

“Let’s go!” David said, standing up.

The three left the room together and went to the hall.

When they go in, it was completely different from before.

The originally noisy hall had turned quiet.

Everyone had gathered and the scantily clad waitresses were gone.

Thor joined the crowd with them.

Soon, a masked man walked up to a slightly higher platform.

Everyone looked at him and David was no exception.

He figured that this person might be the organizer of the underground trade fair.

If not, he was a spokesperson.

“Everyone, welcome to the Sole Underground trade fair. I am the organizer, Black Fox. My original intention was to provide you with a small place where you can trade while hiding your identity. Thanks to everyone’s support, the fair has grown bigger and stronger, and I’d like to thank everyone for that. Without your support, the underground fair would not be what it is today. Thank you!”

Black Fox bowed.

Then, he continued, “We have some new friends here today and they are still very shy, but it’s okay. You will get used to this after you come a few more times. Now, it’s still the same old rules. Everyone will trade on their own first and then I will show you some good stuff. This time, I will definitely surprise you.”

After a few words, Black Fox blended into the crowd, making it difficult to find him.

It was because there were so many people with the same mask, same figure, and clothes as him.

It could be seen how careful this person was.

David thought there would be a long speech, but he did not expect it to be so fast, beyond his expectation.

“Master David, we can trade freely next. That is, everyone will choose their trading partner. After a while, Lord Black Fox will take out something precious for auction. Every time an underground fair is held, Lord Black Fox will take out at least three precious treasures for everyone to bid on,” Thor explained in a low voice from the side.

David nodded to show he understood.

The trading among the participants started.

Soon, someone hollered, “I would like to buy a stalk of Spirit Grass. I’ll name my price based on the quality. As long as it’s good, money is no problem.”

As soon as he said that, someone went up to him to talk about the trade. Then, the two went to a private room to negotiate the price.

“I’m selling a Soul Drop!”

“I’m looking for...”

Voices like this kept sounding in the room.

Anyone looking for those things would go into a private room to negotiate.

When David saw this, he thought, ‘What’s the difference between this and a market on Earth?’

‘They’re also selling things but at a higher price.

‘It’s still the same modus operandi.’