I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2117-Not long after he started walking, David noticed something wrong.

He could only see the details properly after he got close.

It was two human corpses.

There were also slight signs of a struggle nearby.

He looked around and found three more corpses not far away.

There were a total of five human corpses.

The five just died not long ago and they had conflicted expressions on their faces.

After checking the cause of death, David found that all five of them had been murdered.

It was normal to have fights and for dead people to appear in such a remote and dense forest.

What really puzzled David was that these people should have let their mind power enter The Spirit Cage through special equipment from the real world, right?

So why were their corpses still here after they died?

What would happen to a person in the real world if they died in The Spirit Cage?

Would they wake up?

Or would they sleep forever and never wake up?

Mind power was also called soul power, so under normal circumstances, when a person's soul died in the real world, they would be completely dead, leaving behind only a shell.

David's body shuddered violently.

The Spirit Cage was almost indistinguishable from the real world.

'If I die here, does it mean I'll also die in the real world?'

Judging from the state of these corpses, it was very possible!

It meant that even though one could increase their mind power in The Spirit Cage, there were also huge dangers lurking around every corner.

If David died in The Spirit Cage, he would never wake up in the real world.

How would he wake up if he lost his soul?

Of course, this was just David's guess.

However, he figured that this was likely the case.

If not, how would he explain the corpses not disappearing?

At this moment, David noticed another problem.

How should he go back?

If he did not go back, his body in the real world would not wake up either.

He impatiently checked if he could open the system and thankfully, found that he could.

It was indeed the product of a God Tier Civilization.

Even The Spirit Cage could not limit the system.

David was about to scour the system to learn how to exit The Spirit Cage.

He spotted the option to exit The Spirit Cage immediately.

So, he chose to quit without hesitation.

Then, his vision went dark, and he felt dizzy again.

When David opened his eyes again, he had returned to the real world.

"Hiss... Huh..."

David took a deep breath and let it out.

David felt that what he had just experienced was truly incredible.

Fortunately, he could come back to reality.

'Why didn't the few people who died just now return to the real world at the last moment?

'Could there be certain restrictions there?'

Shaking his head, David realized that he was still clueless about a lot of things, and he needed to find the answer slowly in The Spirit Cage.

Perhaps dying in The Spirit Cage had no effect on the real world at all.

David figured he did not have anything to take care of in the real world, so he entered The Spirit Cage using the system again.

He once again reappeared where he had earlier left The Spirit Cage.

This time, there was no bloody mouth welcoming him.
