The Ex-Husband's Revenge Chapter 178

"I need to clarify one thing though. Madam Shear's condition is almost fully recovered, but she's not completely cured." Leon smiled bitterly.

Since he was only 60-70 percent sure on that occasion and had no control over the situation, there were some unpleasant incidents during the treatment.

"Not completely cured? Did you only treat the symptoms rather than the root cause, leaving room for the possibility of a recurrence in the future?" Benedict was startled, and the joy in his heart dwindled slightly as a result.

Harvey and Cynthia felt the same and were a little uneasy about the entire situation.

"That's not what I mean! I completely cured her brain infection earlier, so there's basically no chance of a future recurrence. However, there's only so much I can do. I'm not able to help her repair her damaged nerves, and she may have to live with using a wheelchair or crutches..." Leon said ashamedly.

According to the collection of medical records in his mind, he could actually use spiritual energy to repair Phoebe's damaged nerves if his refinement was high enough. However, his current refinement state was too low, and he was still some ways from achieving that.
