The Ex-Husband's Revenge Chapter 691

"It's fine. I'll help you inside." Snow grabbed Leon by his arm and dragged him into the mansion, before leading him into her room and setting him down onto her bed.

Footsteps approached and Vincent strode in.

A few of the guards noticed that something was wrong when Snow and Leon returned and immediately reported what they saw to Vincent, who hurried over to check on his daughter.

"Snow, what happened to him? What happened?" Vincent was shocked when he saw Leon laying on the bed.

"Dad, three masked men attacked us on our way back," Snow explained, before proceeding to describe the situation.

"What? You're saying that a martial artist in the Peak Supreme State attacked the two of you with the help of two other martial artists in the Advanced Supreme State, and that Leon beat them?" Vincent repeated what he heard in disbelief.

"Yeah." Snow nodded.

"Seriously?" Leon gaped. He propped himself up using his arms, but struggled to do so without falling back to the bed as all his strength was drained.

Snow noticed that he was trying to get up and walked over to help him up, before putting a pillow behind his back to support his weight so that he could sit up.

"It's true. According to what I've found, Harold disappeared to god knows where with a dozen martial artists that reached the Realm of a Supreme Master and didn't show up again until three to four hours later. That's too much of a coincidence to even call it that. I'm at least eighty percent sure that he was the one who ambushed Quinton Hunt!" Vincent said.

Both Vincent and Harold were two powerful figures among martial artists and the two were always rivals, so he would not let Harold's disappearance go unnoticed.

However, he was slightly weaker compared to Harold and would not be able to do anything even if he challenged Harold by himself; hence, he planned to work with the Shears.

Not only was Snow injured, Leon clearly suffered worse injuries and considering Leon's connection with the Shears, Benedict would not stand idly by..

He was blinded by anger and assumed that Harold was responsible for the attack, but immediately regained his composure at Benedict's words.

As Benedict mentioned, Harold did not have a direct conflict with Leon and killing Leon would not do him any good. All things aside, everyone in Springfield City knew about the partnership between Leon and the Shears, so Harold definitely knew that he would be facing the Shears' wrath if he killed Leon.

Based on what they knew about Harold, he would have never done anything that did not benefit the Lo wes.

"Mister Poole, are you certain that Harold's men attacked Leon?" Benedict asked as he could not seem to think of a reason that Harold would attempt to kill Leon.

Leon was no longer the nameless orphan as he once was and though Harold might do whatever he could to suppress Leon, he would never risk crossing the Shears by killing Leon.

“Morgan has reached the Peak Supreme State a few years ago, and both Johnny and Daniel are in the Advanced Supreme State,” Brad continued.

The Fields and the Shears were enemies for years, so Brad knew all the major members of the Fields like the back of his hand.

“A martial artist in the Peak Supreme State along with two other men in the Advanced Supreme State? What a coincidence! Did those three attack Leon and my daughter?” Vincent’s expression darkened.

Snow described the power levels of the attackers and it matched with the three members of Fields who disappeared during the time of the attack. However, he assumed that Leon risked his life and barely escaped, so he was confused as to why the attackers were injured.

“That’s not possible, right? If Morgan and the other two did this, Leon could not have possibly escaped them!” Benedict gasped.

“Brad, gather all the skilled martial artists in the family. I’m going to pay the Fields a visit to seek justice for Leon!” Benedict commanded coldly, his eyes glittered maliciously.

“Yes,” Brad said, before turning to leave.

Leon opened his mouth to speak, but could not decide on what to say.

The Fields were far more powerful compared to the Northern King and he could not hope to defeat the Fields on his own; he just started building his own army and attempting to face the Fields on his own would not have been realistic at all. His only option was to rely on the Shears in hope that Benedict could seek justice

Morgan thought that Walter was being far too careful and only started to realize that it was Walter’s wisdom that saved him from being killed by Leon.

Everyone in the room was frozen in shock.

“Is Leon Wolf even human?”

“How did he manage to reach the Semi Overlord State at such a young age?”

“Who knows? During the sales drive organized by Cynthion Group, I thought that reaching the Advanced Supreme State at his age was terrifying enough. Who would ever think that he is actually far more powerful than we anticipated? He sure hides his strength well!”

“Yeah! Do you think that he’s still hiding something? Maybe he’s already reached the Overlord State!”

An hour ago, they were attacking Leon with the full intention of killing him, yet in the end, they needed the alchemical pills produced by Leon to treat their internal injuries.

The irony in it brought strange looks on everyone's face.

Knowing how effective the pills were, Morgan grabbed the flask and gritted out, "we bought this with our money and we can use it however we want!" He then proceeded to leave with Daniel.

"Come on, everyone. Back to the living room with me! Johnny, you are in better shape compared to those two, so come along. I have a lot of questions for you," Walter said.

The others agreed along.

The Fields did not have many martial artists in the Semi Overlord State at their disposal. There were five in total and two of them needed to remain within the Fields' properties to protect the others, so sending three of them would be the best that the Fields could do.

The fact that they were willing to send three martial artists in the Semi Overlord State under such a circumstance showed how much they resented and feared Leon.

"Hm," Walter ran his fingers through his beard thoughtfully. He knew that sending three martial artists in the Semi Overlord State would guarantee success, but the previous failure alerted Leon and the Shears might send their men in the Semi Overlord State to protect Leon so it would not be as easy as the Fields thought it might be.

"It's bad out there. Bad news!" Another direct descendent of the Fields rushed in.

"What happened?" Walter scowled
