

My Baby's Daddy Chapter 1758

"I am a cop, Cornelius. This is not a joke. I need you to come here right now." Not too long after the cops called the Constantines, the ambulance arrived. There was no need for the doctors to do anything, however. Lucy's artery had been cut and she had bled to death.

At the same time, another lady was also in the ER—Eva. Eva's parents had divorced. Her father died while her mother remarried a foreigner, hence the cops called her manager to let her know what was going on. Sera was in disbelief, but then she called Louie. Louie set aside all his work immediately and sped to the hospital.

Louie tried to barge into the emergency room, but a nurse stopped him. "Sir, the patient is still under medical attention. Please, wait outside. Do not disturb the doctors."

Louie's heart sank. She was fine this morning. What happened? Why is she hurt? "What happened? Why did she go out all by herself? Did you find the perpetrator?"

shook her head. "I came as soon as I got the cops' call. I haven't had time to wait as nothing was unfolding. The Constantines rushed all the way to the crime scene. They couldn't believe their daughter was dead, but when they saw their daughter's corpse lying a huge sum of money a couple of days ago. We suspect that a shame. She could have gotten married to Louie and helped the family immensely, but now she's dead. The marriage is annulled. It was a crying her heart out. "My girl! Why... Why did the hospital. Fortunately, the doctors worked their best, and her heart was finally beating as normal. A sliver of color had returned operation was a success. The moment the doctors emerged from the emergency room, someone hurried operation is a success. She's stable, but we'll have to keep her