

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Chapter 36 Let Sarah Go!

“Silly girl, why are you so polite to me? Oh right, is that friend a male or female?” David was somewhat curious.

“He is Christian...” Sarah did not want to beat around the bush and directly said to David.

The other end of the phone was silent for a few seconds.

“Okay! Let him to the restaurant! It just so happens that I want to see him too!”

“Un...”

When Sarah hung up the phone, she found that Christian had already come out of the room with Remote-controlled wheelchairs. He changed into an army-green shirt. He looked much more energetic than before. Christian's wheelchair came in front of Sarah and he slightly raised his head to look at her.

“Can we leave now?”

Sarah slightly nodded her head. “Yes!”

Knowing that Sarah was coming, David first drove back to the restaurant. To be honest, the moment he heard Sarah was getting married, he wanted to see what the man in the wheelchair looked like.

Julian, that person, he had seen him a few years ago. But Christian, he had no impression of him! He had never even heard of this name.

But thinking about how he could convince Sarah to marry him in a few minutes, he must not be a simple person!

When Jayson drove the car to the restaurant and stopped, Christian saw the name to the restaurant through the window.

Savid Tower!

He turned his head and looked at Sarah, who was beside him and asked slowly, “Your neighbor, what is his name?”

Sarah looked at him and said, “David Brown!” Then she opened the door and got out of the car.

“Sarah... David...” Christian looked at the three words and muttered to himself.

David had been standing at the entrance of the restaurant. Seeing Sarah walk down from an SUV, he immediately smiled and went up to her.

“Sarah...”

“Mr. David...” Sarah looked at him and was a little embarrassed.

David smiled and looked at the man who had just been carried out of the car by Jayson. He had thick eyebrows, a sharp nose, and a pair of deep eyes that shone with a sharp light. Although he was sitting on a wheelchair, his body still emitted a domineering aura that was beyond ordinary.

Seeing his Remote-controlled wheelchair stopped beside Sarah, David immediately took a step forward and took the initiative to shake hands with Christian.

“Hello! I am David. You are Regimental Commander Cooper, right?”

Christian looked at him and smiled faintly. He extended his hand and politely shook hands with him. “Hello! I heard you are Sarah’s big brother, so I wanted to meet you...”

As he spoke, his gaze also quietly swept across David. The man in front of him was tall and handsome. Especially when he smiled, there was even a dimple on his face. It looked like this was Mr. David Sarah mentioned!

David immediately waved his hand generously, “Please come in.”

Christian nodded slightly. Jayson pushed him into the hotel.

Sarah looked at David and smiled apologetically.

“Let’s go!” David smiled and patted her shoulder. He strode into the restaurant and personally invited Christian into the luxurious private room.

Jayson didn't follow them. David asked someone to arrange a seat for him outside. Once the three of them walked into the private room, the hotel manager passionately handed over the menu.

Christian took the menu and took a look. Then he closed the menu and looked at Sarah. "Look and order!"

Sarah immediately ordered some and passed the menu to the hotel manager.

David waved his hand and signaled the manager to leave the room.

David looked at Christian and smiled. He took the tea pot and poured water for the two of them.

“Yesterday, when I came back from other places, I heard Sarah say she is getting married. I really didn’t expect when I left a few years ago, she was still a little girl and now she is getting married in the blink of an eye.” David first broke the silence, and chatted with the two of them.

When Christian heard this, he had a faint smile on his lips, “Yes, no one can say for sure about fate. Up until now, we have only known each other for four days. Perhaps this is the so-called fate...”

“Only four days?” David looked at Sarah thoughtfully and still could not help but say, “Marriage is not child’s play. Doesn’t Regimental Commander Cooper think that you guys have spent too little time together?”

“The time before the marriage is short, but we have a lifetime to understand each other!”

Sarah immediately looked at Christian when she heard him.

A lifetime?

He really dared to say it!

David heard his words and smiled, but he didn't say anything.

“When I got off the car, I saw that the name of the hotel is quite special, it is called Savid Tower! Does it have some special meaning?” This name was obviously the meaning of Sarah and David's names, so it was no wonder that Christian would ask.

Hearing Christian's question, Sarah instantly became nervous. Actually, when she first came to the restaurant, she already understood the meaning behind it. But she pretended not to know anything.

She did not expect that Christian to see it at first glance. She stared at David, not knowing how he would explain.

David seemed to notice her nervousness. He looked at the two of them and smiled brightly, “Speaking of names. At that time, I really had a headache. I didn’t feel good with any names. Finally, I thought of Sarah’s name and took a word from her name at the last minute. I didn’t expect that when the name came out together, everyone would agree. So it was decided. Sarah, you’re not angry with me, are you?”

Sarah smiled and shook her head. “How could it be? When you opened the restaurant, I was not there. I am also very happy to be able to help you by my name.”

Christian looked at Sarah, who was beside him and then looked at David, who was opposite to him and said with a faint smile.

“It seems that Mr. Brown and Sarah really have a deep brotherly relationship...”

David smiled. “Yes! Although we have been separated for such a long time, our relationship is still the same as before. Right, Sarah?”

Sarah smiled and nodded her head.

Sarah was a little nervous and frightened during the lunch. She did not know Christian very well. She did not have a good impression of him since they had been together for the past few days.

Sometimes, she even regretted the decision she made at that time. It was said that impulsiveness was the devil, but now it seemed like...

When she looked at David opposite her, she felt an unspeakable guilt in her heart.

After lunch, Sarah was ready to leave with Christian, but just as she stood up, she heard David say to her, "Sarah, go outside and wait for Regimental Commander Cooper. I have something to say to him alone."

Sarah immediately looked at him nervously!

"Go! Let's talk about men!" Christian waved at her.

Sarah looked at the expressions of the two men. Although she was nervous, she could only nod and leave the room with her bag.

Once the door of the room was closed, the air in the room immediately became tense.

Christian looked at David and smiled. “What does Mr. Brown want to talk to me about?”

David looked serious. He thought for a while and then looked at Christian.

“I want to ask Regimental Commander for one thing. I hope you can be magnanimous.”

“Tell me! Although I am sitting in a wheelchair, there are some things I can do.”

“Sarah registering for marriage with you was completely out of impulse. You do not have any relationship foundation. Even if you get married in the future, you won’t have any happiness to talk about. So I hope Regimental Commander Cooper can let her go.” He knew this was a wrong decision. He couldn’t just watch the woman he liked to continue to be in the wrong!

“Let her go?” Christian slightly blinked his eyes. He suddenly smiled at David. “This is not a battlefield. What Mr. Brown said is too serious! And why are you so sure that we are not happy?”

“A marriage without feelings, what kind of happiness are you talking about?”

“Like I said, we have a lifetime to understand each other! How do you know that I can’t give her happiness? The wedding hasn’t even been held yet. It’s too early for Mr. Brown to come to this conclusion!”

“Although I have left this place for a few years, I have always understood Sarah’s personality. She is actually a lively and cheerful girl. Most of the time, there are no complex thoughts in her mind. Perhaps it was because of this personality that she was abandoned by Julian. Sarah used to have a happy smile on her face every day, but today she sat beside you, I only saw nervousness and fear. She was not the same Sarah as before when she was with you. Do you still dare to say that you can give her happiness?”

Christian looked at him in silence. He did not say anything.

Seeing that he did not speak, David continued, “I more or less understand the relationship between you and her. Your lover betrayed you at the same time, and your younger brother was with your fiancée. So there is no happiness in the union between the two of you!”

“Regimental Commander Cooper, I know you are a soldier. You are now married to your brother’s original girlfriend. Even if Sarah married into your family, she won't be happy. So please let her go, okay?"

Christian finally smiled faintly.

"Mr. Brown you have talked so much with me. Are you hinting something?"

"What is it?"

"You liked Sarah." Christian said with a faint smile.

"That's right! I came back this time to compete fairly with Julian. I like Sarah! But I didn't expect that she would register and marry you before I came back!"

He originally thought that he still had a chance, but he never would have thought that she didn't even leave him a single chance!

“Thank you for telling me so frankly. You also let me know that this picked up wife of mine is actually still remembered by someone! I admire your personality very much. I think Sarah definitely likes you too. Although that kind of liking is not love, I still have to apologize and tell you today.”

“I’m married to this marriage. Although my leg is injured, my brain isn’t damaged. Marriage isn’t child’s play. From when I first walked into the Marriage Registration Centre with her, I never thought of leaving her. So today I can only regretfully tell you, if you want me to give up on her, I can’t do it!”

After saying that, he looked coldly at David and controlled his wheelchair to leave the private room.
