Impulsive Vow to an Enigmatic Husband (Cornelia Stewart) Chapter 1368

Chapter 1368

“Steven, do you need me to pretend to have feelings for you? Do you actually think I have feelings for you?” Hannah asked.

“That’s not what you said in bed just now.” Steven retorted.

“And you actually believed what I said in bed? Since when did you become so naive, President Dixon?” Hannah said. These were the same words Steven used on Hannah before. Now, she could finally throw them back at him with pride. To let him know that Hannah was no longer a plaything to be manipulated, and that Hannah had completely shut him out from her heart.

Steven raised an eyebrow, got up, and went back to his room. Not long after, he came out dressed and left without even sparing Hannah a glance.

Listening to the sound of the door closing, Hannah smirked and continued to dig into her salad. People needed to learn to let go in order to grow. Only by letting go could she find freedom and live the life she wanted.

After the male lead was replaced, everything on set went smoothly. Daniela and Steven stopped bothering Hannah. Cornelia’s work was also progressing well. Cornelia and Hannah worked and chatted together. Inside the production, information was somewhat insulated, making life seem like a utopia.

Soon it was April, and Cornelia was less than a month away from her due date. Cornelia felt her belly growing heavier and heavier, as if her baby could come out at any moment.

For safety's sake, Grandpa Augustine arranged for a nanny for Cornelia. Due to the tight room situation in the production hotel, the nanny had no room, so Grandpa Augustine rented a two-bedroom apartment nearby.

Cornelia and the nanny each had their own room.

The nanny was a long-time employee of the Duran family, having worked for the Durans for many years. She was very good at taking care of people. Not only could she cook nutritious and delicious meals, but her massage skills were also excellent.

In the past month, Cornelia felt that she had gained a lot of weight. During her regular pregnancy check-ups, the doctors advised Cornelia to control her diet, or else a natural birth would be difficult.

Not only did she eat well this month, but she also slept well. The nanny always massaged Cornelia, and work was much easier.

Today, the production crew had to work overtime to catch up, and Cornelia also worked until 11 p.m. Because she stood for a long time, her feet swelled again. The biggest problem Cornelia had during her pregnancy was that her feet would swell easily. If she stood for a long time, they would swell badly.

The nanny picked her up and brought her home. Cornelia couldn't walk fast, and by the time she got home, it was already midnight.

After a quick wash, Cornelia went to bed. In her drowsy state, Cornelia felt the nanny massaging her feet again.

"It's late, you don't have to massage me anymore, go to bed. Cornelia said.

The nanny didn't respond nor stop her hands.

Always bothering people in the middle of the night, Cornelia felt sorry. She tried to open her eyes to tell the nanny to rest, but the person in front of her didn't seem to be the nanny.
