The Secret Heir Return To Wealth And Love Chapter 1732

Chapter 1732

Rosalynn's thought process was pretty straightforward right now.

Though the old man's method might fast-track Wayne's memory recovery.

But to her, it seemed a bit too much like taking shortcuts.

The old man had been vague, implying that not all of Wayne's past memories were necessarily good ones.

So, she chose not to gamble on it anymore.

Rosalynn decided to take it slow, focus on getting healthier first. As for memory, whether it came back or not, it didn't matter much to her anymore.

Let bygones be bygones. She cared more about the future of their family.

Wayne opened his mouth.

Seemed like he wanted to say something, but ended up saying nothing, just nodded obediently.

Ever since Paige announced that she was returning to Norhaven to have her baby, Kate had been preparing everything she could.

Despite having been preparing for a while, she still felt like something was missing.

As Paige's due date coming close, her legs had started to swell a bit.

Paige wanted a natural birth, so to ensure a smooth delivery, she'd go for a walk for an hour every evening after dinner.

While in H City, she'd stroll around in Rosalynn's garden.

But in Norhaven, she had more options.

At dusk.

Six adults and four kids would head out to the nearby river to watch the sunset.

Before they left, Newell ran out and stopped Baillie.

“Baillie, can you help me with something?” he asked.

Baillie looked at Paige.

Paige smiled and nudged him gently. “Go help Newell. I can go for a walk with Rosalynn and the others.”

“Don’t go too far. I’ll come to you soon.” Baillie’s big hand softly caressed Paige’s lower back, then he followed Newell.

Erica said in a low voice, “Newell seems so down-to-earth, can’t believe he’s running such a big company!”

Now, the Scott family’s business was mainly divided into four parts.

Newell and Luke each managed one part, while Blake and Kate each handled another.

“At home, they’re like this, but I’ve been to a shareholders’ meeting with Baillie, and I couldn’t even recognize those two power-players there!” Paige said proudly. “That’s when I understood why Luna chose them”

Luna was also a very capable woman, she didn’t work at the Scott family’s company, but started her own enterprise.

Once they were outside, the kids were like little birds set free.

The usually quiet Molly also joined Ivy in a playful water fight by the riverside.

Rosalynn was momentarily distracted and found four soaking wet kids in front of her, including her own son.

Erica worried the kids might catch a cold, "Should we go back and change clothes?"

Rosalynn waved it off, "don't worry. If they get sick, they'll learn not to play like this next time."

As she was speaking, Wayne suddenly shouted, "Max!"

Just as his words fell, there was a loud splash.

Max had gleefully jumped off a small bridge and into the river.

Then he frolicked happily in the clear water.

Wayne was speechless

He and Ivy had just gone through all the trouble to give him a bath a couple of days ago!!

"Max, you're awesome!!"

Ivy was initially startled when she saw Max jump into the river, then she saw him turn around and start swimming back, and she let out a sigh of relief.

The little girl jumped up and down excitedly, shouting, "Max can swim!"

Soon, Max was back on shore.

Chapter 1733

Walking on the cobblestones, under the setting sun, the dog was eagerly shaking its fur

For a moment, it seemed like a rainbow halo appeared around him.

He shook off the water from his body, his tongue hanging out, and happily ran towards the children,

Just when the adults thought he was about to knock over the two kids, he dashed right past them, back to the bridge, and jumped off again. Paige couldn't help but laugh.

Rosalynn and the others had a good chuckle as well

She linked arms with Wayne and whispered, "Wayne, if you hadn't saved Max back then, we wouldn't have this heartwarming scene"

Wayne suddenly felt that giving Max baths, no matter how tiring, was worth it

Rosalynn loved it so much, they'd have to bring Max here to take a dip every day.

"Mommy! I want to jump too!"

Wayne's thoughts came to an abrupt halt.

He watched his daughter run back happily, "Dad, can I jump in the water?"

"No!"

"Absolutely not?"

Several adults spoke at the same time.

Ivy immediately lowered her head.

"Honey, if you want to play in the water, we can do it at home. Kate's house has a large swimming pool, and the water is heated!" Paige comforted Ivy "Okay"

Ivy was as easy to coax as ever.

She was disappointed for a moment, but quickly turned back to watch Max swim ashore, chuckling.

"Kids, you can play by the river, but don't get too close to the water. If you fall in, it would be very dangerous. Got it?"

Rosalynn warned her.

The kids all nodded their heads.

Molly nodded too, but she was full of rebellion inside

She wouldn't drown. She was good at swimming and could hold her breath for a minute and a half underwater!

But, Molly's attitude wasn't the same as before.

She found herself liking being treated as an ordinary child by Rosalynn.

The setting sun in the sky slowly turned into a single, full yolk-like orb.

Rosalynn was with Paige, and Wayne was with her.

“How many times do you think Max will jump?” Paige curiously watched Max running towards the bridge again.

This was his fourth time.

The dog seemed never to tire.

No wonder he could outdo Calvin in strength!

Rosalynn recorded Max’s diving process and sent it to Hilaria.

Soon enough, a video call from Calvin came in.

“Ivy”

Rosalynn called to her daughter who was picking up pebbles.

“Here”

“Come here, live stream Max’s diving for Calvin’

As soon as Ivy heard this, she ran back right away, enthusiastically answering the video call “Uncle Calvin!”

“Ivy!” Calvin’s serious face broke into a smile when he saw Ivy, “Are you having fun?”

“I’m having so much fun! Calvin, I’m live-streaming Max’s diving for you!” Ivy reassured Calvin while talking, “Don’t worry, this is his fourth dive! Max’s swimming skills are great!”

Rosalynn watched her daughter with amusement, chatting away while live-streaming for Calvin and heading towards the riverbank.

“Baby,” Paige suddenly patted her round belly. “Look at Ivy! Take a good look!”

Chapter 1734

Some say that during pregnancy, whoever you spend the most time looking at, your kid will end up resembling. Paige loves Ivy. To her, Ivy was as precious as a treasure. Even though Ivy was getting more and more active, and Paige’s energy was struggling to keep up, she still adored her. She kept wishing that her own child would be as cute as Ivy. Of course, even if her kid didn’t turn out as lively and adorable as Ivy, that was okay. As long as they were healthy and happy, that was all that mattered

Rosalynn found the whole thing hilarious. She spotted Ivy finding a big rock and sitting down obediently. Her round head looked like a little mushroom. She was facing her phone, doing a live stream seriously. Rosalynn could imagine her mouth must be constantly talking. Just when the atmosphere was the best, a fawning voice broke the silence.

“Hey, are you Mr. and Mrs. Silverman?” The three of them involuntarily turned their heads toward the source of the voice.

There were actually many private estates nearby the Scott family’s property, and it was common to see people from other families out for a walk. At first, Rosalynn thought they were probably neighbors, so she was planning to nod politely. But the next moment, she noticed one of the two people approaching, a young woman, was staring at Paige.

“Who are you?” she asked coldly

Wayne glanced at his wife and concluded, yup, she didn’t like these two. So he didn’t bother to put on a friendly face either.

“My name’s Regina, and this is my daughter Jennifer. We’re related to Luna Regina had dealt with a lot of big shots, so she was used to their aloofness

“Oh, hello,” Rosalynn’s hand, which had been resting on Paige’s waist, tightened at the mention of their names.

Paige looked at her in confusion. Rosalynn’s reaction didn’t escape Regina’s eyes. Everyone knew Paige’s friend had a big background – the heir of the Jared Group and the lady of the Bane Corporation.

“Ah, you must be Baillie’s new wife, right?” Regina finally shifted her gaze to Paige.

“Hello” Paige nodded.

“Paige?” Jennifer, with a insincere smile on her face, said, “I was thinking, I could meet you at your wedding with Baillie. But I’ve been waiting and waiting. and the wedding never came. Instead, I hear you’re expecting. Baillie really should’ve gotten married to you first, having a baby before the wedding, who knows how much gossip that’s gonna stir!”

With that comment, she might as well have said straight out that Baillie didn’t value Paige enough to marry her first, and that getting pregnant before marriage was shameless. Paige finally understood why Rosalynn was so cold towards these two, and why she had pulled her close.

Chapter 1735

Paige didn’t like this Jennifer chick.

“You got it.” Rosalynn replied with a smirk, TI tell Baillie exactly what you said. Man, what on earth was he thinking? Thanks for the heads-up, Ms. Baldie.”

Jennifer and Regina immediately lost color in their faces.

“What are you blabbing about, girl? Of course Baillie knows what he’s doing!” Regina exclaimed, torn between anger and amusement. She then turned to Rosalynn with a smile, “Mrs. Silverman, my daughter tends to talk without thinking. I’m aware of the bereavement in Paige’s family which delayed the wedding. Please don’t bring it up with Baillie, we don’t want to cause misunderstandings...”

“Oh right, sorry about that, Paige. I totally forgot about the tragedy in your family. I shouldn’t have said what I did!” Jennifer apologized overly quickly. before her mother could finish.

Regina felt like giving her a good kick.

“Running your mouth isn’t a good habit.” Paige glared at Jennifer, “Haven’t you heard the rumors about me online? I’m known to have a bad temper. With my family spoiling me, even I’m scared of my outbursts.”

Jennifer’s face stiffened.

“Next time you spew nonsense in front of me, I might just lose it. Then you’ll be running to Baillie with tears in your eyes!” Paige continued.

She was naturally cute and unthreatening

But such words from her seemed rather odd.

“You!”

This was Jennifer’s first encounter with Paige.

She seemed even smaller in person than in her online pictures.

Rumors had circulated online

About how she had been badly bullied in her previous home.

Jennifer had assumed she would be easy to handle

But her words were sharper than expected!

“Sorry, I’m sorry!” Regina held Jennifer back. “You’re right, we’ve spoiled this child. I’ll give her a good talking-to when we get home. You guys go ahead and enjoy your walk. We won’t bother you anymore!”

With that, Regina dragged the disgruntled Jennifer away

Once they were a little further away, Regina muttered under her breath, "How dare you show discontent towards Paige in front of Rosalynn? Haven't you heard, you don't mess with the Jared's. They're notorious for their vengeful streak."

"How vengeful can they be, if I roll my eyes at them will they wish death upon my entire family?" Jennifer snapped back, "What tricks did Paige use to trick Baillie into marrying her? Did you see how weird she was acting just now?"

"Enough!" Regina shot her daughter a furious glance, "Can't you learn from your mother to have a little patience? When I was with your father, wasn't he also seeing Luna's mother? And look where am I now?"

Jennifer kept silent

Regina continued, "There's no such thing as a man who doesn't cheat. Don't focus on Baillie's wife, focus on Baillie himself. Once you've won his heart, that woman won't matter. Get it?"

Jennifer huffed in annoyance.

Who in their right mind would want to be the other woman?

But right now, there were no other options.

it's all your fault!" Jennifer snapped, "If you had been stricter, how would Baillie have ended up married to someone else?"

"Who could've known he was so eager to get hitched early, he didn't even complete his studies before getting married!" Regina paused, "I have a hunch Luna had something to do with it behind the scenes. Everyone knows Baillie is the most likely heir to the Scott family fortune. She just doesn't want us to have a better life or higher status than her!"

The fact that Luna had married the eldest son of the Scott family, even after more than a decade, was something Regina couldn't comprehend or accept.

Sometimes, it kept her up at night, fuming

She had carefully plotted, driving Luna's mother to her death, and deliberately stopped her from continue studying

If it hadn't been for Luna's grandmother suddenly showing up at the Baldie's and taking Luna away, she would've sold Luna off to some random family. having pocketed the money

The year Luna was taken away, she had already found a man for Luna who was eighteen years her older than her and suffered from infantile paralysis!
