

Chapter 1454 Are You Pregnant

After a flurry of questions from Janet, the car sank into a heavy silence.

Brandon regarded her with an affectionate gaze.

He was clueless about her recent experiences. Observing her, once a woman who had placed absolute trust in him, now on guard against everything around her, he surmised that she must have had a difficult time.

The mere thought caused a profound ache in his heart.

Janet couldn't decipher why this stranger peered at her with such sorrowful eyes, nor could she comprehend her own sympathetic response upon seeing his melancholy, as if she was sharing in his sorrow.

But he was simply a stranger she had met today. Had they known each other previously?

After a flurry of questions from Janet, the car sank into a heavy silence.

Brandon regarded her with an affectionate gaze.

He was clueless about her recent experiences. Observing her, once a woman who had placed absolute trust in him, now on guard against everything around her, he surmised that she must have had a difficult time.

The mere thought caused a profound ache in his heart.

Janet couldn't decipher why this stranger peered at her with such sorrowful eyes, nor could she comprehend her own sympathetic response upon seeing his melancholy, as if she was sharing in his sorrow.

But he was simply a stranger she had met today. Had they known each other previously?

Janet tried to dredge up any memories of him, but no matter how strenuously she attempted, she found no trace of him in her recollections.

Eventually, Brandon disrupted the silence. He think I am? Why do you think I saved you? Maybe I acted purely out of kindness."

Noticing the affection in his gaze, Janet swiftly averted her eyes, shook her head slightly, and remained silent.

She felt an inexplicable familiarity with this man, almost as if they shared a deep-rooted intimacy.

However, she didn't dare entertain such thoughts seriously. It might merely be an unwarranted illusion. If she voiced her feelings, he might misconstrue her intentions.

Moreover, it was evident that he was no ordinary individual. She didn't want to divulge too much personal information to avoid potentially endangering herself or her brother.

The atmosphere turned awkward once more. Understanding her heightened alertness and knowing he wouldn't extract any valuable information, Brandon ceased his probing and focused on driving.

Just as she was about to breathe a sigh of relief, he declared, "You've lost your memory."

It was not an inquiry, but a confirmation.

He was certain that her aberrant behavior was a result of memory loss.

The only unresolved mystery was whether the memory loss was orchestrated or accidental.

That could only be established by a medical professional.

Hearing Brandon's confident proclamation, Janet spun her head around, her eyes wide with disbelief. "How do you know I've lost my memory?"

Brandon merely smiled.

Just as he had anticipated.

His firm expression put her on guard. She vigilantly scrutinized him while subtly grabbing a water bottle, as if she was ready to confront this potentially dangerous man.

Her current demeanor reminded him of a frightened rabbit, her eyes filled with wariness. Despite her memory loss, she retained a sense of adorability that drew him in. 2

He chuckled, "I'm your husband. Do you believe that?"

Janet was taken aback.

Observing her deep in thought, Brandon continued, his voice filled with affection, "I'm your husband. You were abducted, and I've been searching for you. Fortunately, I've found you. From now on, I will protect you..."

Janet cut him off, scoffing, "You're my husband? What's next, are you going to claim you're the father of my child?" 3

Her words caught the usually composed Brandon off guard. His gaze dropped to her stomach, his voice trembling as he asked, "Are you pregnant?"

The atmosphere within the car abruptly turned stifling. The previously relaxed Brandon was visibly rattled by her statement.

Visions of Janet falling for another man flashed through his mind. The thought was intolerable.

Chapter 1454 Are You Pregnant

 +90 Points at most

It was a possibility he absolutely could not endure. Although the probability was slim, it did not equate to impossibility.

 I want no ads >

13:52

100.0%

  84%