

The Untouchable Ex Wife by Mizuki Sei

Chapter 461

When Jovan heard this, it sounded to him like somebody had finally pressed the start button for a long-awaited game. Obviously, he was very excited. "Don't worry. I'm not a pervert or a weirdo. I won't force you to do unspeakable things. You only need to accompany me to a certain place and spend some time there."

"If you're not a pervert, then perverts don't exist in the world!" Liam couldn't take it anymore. He grabbed Jovan by the collar and pinned him against the wall. "Jovan, you've never been a straight guy. I can tell you've been eyeing her for a long time. I'm warning you. If you lay a finger on her, I'll kill you!" Liam growled.

"What's the point of warning me? If you have what it takes, kill me now," Jovan replied.

He allowed Liam to press him against the wall. "Unfortunately, without her permission, you wouldn't even dare lay a finger on me. On the outside, there are rumors that you two have a close relationship. In my opinion, you're nothing but her slave. What's there to gloat about?" Jovan sneered.

"Shut up!" Liam was enraged. He immediately tightened his grip around Jovan's neck.

The employees were dumbfounded, and the security guards quickly stepped forward to stop him. However,

Liam was the devil incarnate of Beach City. Who would dare to really offend him?

In the end, Renee had to step in to put an end to this.

She looked sternly at Liam. "Liam, what did I tell you? I know what I'm doing. You haven't been able to keep your emotions in check lately. I hope this doesn't happen again."

Liam was really angry this time. He could no longer appear as cheerful and obedient as he always did. Instead, he started questioning her unhappily. "Does this mean you plan to spend the night with him?"

"I've always been a person who keeps my promises. I promised Mr. Hunt I'd do it. Naturally, I won't break the promise. I believe Mr. Hunt has no ill intentions either," Renee replied.

She felt that Jovan was a valuable ally, and the last thing she wanted was to miss this very rare opportunity.

She also believed that she and Liam had known each other for many years. He should understand her well enough to support her decision.

"Have you thought about how I feel?" Liam's was a little teary-eyed. He seemed even more handsome. "Have you ever thought about how your fiance feels?" He asked even more emotionally.

As soon as he said this, people around them started talking.

All the employees had their eyes wide open. They couldn't believe what they'd just heard.

It turned out that Renee hadn't returned to get back together with Mr. Hunt. Instead, it was to marry Mr. Osborne! Oh my god! Their hopes for the couple to get back together had thoroughly vanished!

Jovan frowned a little and watched them with a playful expression on his face.

Renee felt a little awkward. "You're acting like a child again. Don't you know me well enough? Can't you understand why I agreed to spend the night with him? We've known each other for so many years. Why can't you understand?" She yelled.

"I do understand, but I refuse to accept it!" Liam exclaimed.

Not a single man in this world would allow the woman he loved to spend the night with another man, even if nothing would happen throughout the night...

Liam no longer wanted to beg. He looked at Renee coldly. "Choose one. If you choose to leave with him tonight, we'll call off the wedding.

The Untouchable Ex Wife by Mizuki Sei

Chapter 462

Renee pressed her hand against her forehead. She felt exhausted on the inside. "I think you shouldn't be asking this," she said in a defeated tone.

From her perspective, Liam was the person who understood her more than anyone in the world. Why would he make her choose at such a critical juncture?

Liam's bright, charming eyes gradually dimmed as he lost hope.

He began to murmur in a self-deprecating way. "Alright, Boss. You don't have to answer my question. I already know the answer."

"Liam, don't do this. You know exactly how I feel. You're..." Renee trailed off.

"Just let it be!" Liam suppressed his hurt feelings and forced a smile upon his face. He then looked deeply at Renee. "From this moment on, I'm no longer your fiance. We'll be like siblings. I'll still do whatever I can to help you, but I'll no longer tie you down. You can live freely and choose the man you truly want to be with."

Every word he said felt like a piece of himself getting stripped away. But what could he do about it?

Nothing good would come out of a forced relationship. Although he and Renee had tried their best to be together, neither was happy.

Letting go was the only thing he could do for her!

"Liam, what do you mean by all this? Are you breaking up with me? Are you giving up on this relationship?" Renee was getting a little anxious. She grabbed him by his arm. "I spoke too hastily and didn't consider your feelings. I realize I was wrong... I won't choose anyone else but you. Don't be mad, and don't give up on me. Please?" She sounded a little too humble when she said this, but every word she said came from the bottom of her heart.

To her, Liam was like a pillar of hope that had always supported her and continued to support her until now. If he left, she honestly wouldn't know how to carry on through the darkness ahead...

Liam was a little teary-eyed. He shook his head and pushed her hand away one finger at a time. "Boss, I know you'll do much better without me. I don't want to hold you back or drag you down. If you choose me tonight, it'll be against your own desire. You'll regret it afterward and blame yourself for being too emotional and irrational. That's why... I'm willing to be the bad guy"

After saying that, Liam turned around and left. He seemed determined when he walked away, but tears were already falling from the corner of his eyes.

'...' Renee watched him leave, but she didn't run after him. She fell deep in thought.

The employees around them were all touched by Liam's heartfelt confession. In fact, some of them were even crying.

'Tsk, ts! It's so hard to find a perfect man with a high status these days. He even loves her with all his heart. How touching...' Everyone was rooting for this couple!

"Ms. Everheart, it looks like you're still reluctant to let go. Why don't you go after him?" Jovan asked playfully.

"Do you want me to?" Renee calmed herself down and put on a tough act. She smiled ambiguously at Jovan. "Of course not." Jovan returned a smile and extended his hand to her.

Since you're single now, I won't miss the opportunity to spend the night with you. Why don't we head out right away? I can't wait to bring you to that special place."

The Untouchable Ex Wife by Mizuki Sei

Chapter 463

Renee nodded calmly. "What are we waiting for? Let's go!"

Hence, the two left affectionately in front of all the employees of H Group. The employees sighed in disappointment.

"I can't believe how much Mrs. Hunt has changed in four years. She's no longer the kind, gentle, and naive Mrs. Hunt I knew. She has no morals to speak of, and she flirts with everyone she meets!"

"This means Hunt my Everheart has become completely irrelevant. I don't like her promiscuity. She doesn't deserve Mr. Hunt. He has been saving himself all these years, but she couldn't even refrain herself from a womanizer like Jovan. I feel sorry for Mr. Hunt..."

"It's not just Mr. Hunt I feel sorry for. I feel sorry for Liam too. He's completely innocent!"

The employees decided they no longer liked Renee. One of them even said, "Hey, have you heard? Mr. Hunt hasn't returned because he's severely injured. In fact, it was all thanks to Mrs. Hunt."

"It's not just that. According to a reliable source, the rescue failed, and Mr. Hunt might have..."

"Huh? Will Jovan replace him? That's horrifying! Although Mr. Hunt is a tough boss, at least he has the personality and charm. Jovan is some insignificant ant. If he takes over H Group, I'm quitting immediately!"

Everyone was chatting in excitement when they were suddenly startled by a stern voice. "Don't you have work to do?"

The voice belonged to someone who, like Stefan, had been absent from the company for a long time. He was none other than the secretary of H Group's CEO, Elijah.

"M-Mr. Young!"

Everyone immediately fell silent.

Being Stefan's personal aide, Elijah held a very high status in H Group. Sometimes, meeting Elijah was like meeting Stefan himself.

"What were you all talking about?" Elijah asked with a frown.

Having been away from H Group for a while, everything seemed to be a mess to him.

"Mr. Young, we were talking about..." An employee who was braver than the rest told Elijah about everything that had happened earlier.

"Mr. Young, if Mr. Hunt is fine, please get him to come back and keep things at bay. Now that Jovan is in charge of H Group, he's been doing many things he's not supposed to. Clearly, he wants to take over the company. In fact... In fact, he even dared to touch Stefan's wife, Ms. Everheart!"

This employee was a huge fan of Hunt my Everheart. Right then, he let out all his negative emotions while explaining what happened to Elijah.

"This kid even dared to touch his cousin-in-law. He must have a death wish! ' Elijah clenched his fists tightly.

"M-Mr. Young, may I know what happened to Mr. Hunt? Why has he been absent from H Group for so long? There are all sorts of nasty rumors out there! It's affecting our reputation!" Another employee mustered the courage to ask Elijah these questions.

"It's better not to ask. Are you obliged to find out about Mr. Hunt's situation?" Elijah replied before pondering for a moment. "Do you know where Mrs. Hunt and Jovan have gone?" Elijah asked

The Untouchable Ex Wife by Mizuki Sei

Chapter 464

Under the night sky, a silver Bugatti Veyron rumbled along the tarmac at a devilish speed.

Renee looked blankly ahead in the passenger's seat. Although she knew very well that Jovan, seated in the driver's seat, wasn't a good person, and there were definitely many traps ahead, she still remained calm.

She might not have been confident when dealing with other people, but she was experienced enough when it came to idiots like Jovan.

Upbeat music that sounded like rock blared in the car.

Jovan was visibly happy. He was smiling from ear to ear. With one hand on the steering wheel and the other tapping against the window to the beat of the music, he looked very handsome under the amber glow of the street lamps.

"If you haven't slept, if I haven't stopped chasing, if being awake is a crime, take these promises away, exchange them with..."

The man, swaying from side to side while humming along to the song, looked somewhat like Stefan. His facial features were exquisite, and he seemed extremely attractive.

For a second or two, Renee wondered if Jovan was possessed by a certain handsome guy. Why did he seem so attractive?

"You sing pretty well, Mr. Hunt. Five Accused's songs sound ordinary, but they're all challenging to sing. One could easily sound like a howling ghost or a wolf, but you made it sound just right. In fact, I prefer your rendition of this song over the original..."

Renee complimented from the bottom of her heart.

Although she didn't have a good impression of this idiot, she was amazed by his singing talent.

"Really?" Jovan's smile grew wider. He glanced at the woman next to him. "You're not the first to realize I sing well, but I think you're still the better singer."

"Have you ever heard me sing, Mr. Hunt?"

"That's not all. In fact, I consider myself a loyal fan..." Jovan frowned a little while he seemingly tried to recall something.

"Ocean's Word is much better than the bands we have today, like Five Accused, Sunset's Rollercoaster, and Orange Sea. They had countless fans. Unfortunately... They disbanded!"

Renee pinched her chin in surprise. "You actually know Ocean's Word! Kid... You're really something else!"

She had always thought Jovan was the thoughtless kind of kid who did whatever they wanted in Beach City just because their family was rich. To her surprise, he had good taste in music. This certainly impressed Renee!

"Anybody who plays rock likes Ocean's Word. After all, their lead singer can sing and write her own songs. She also has an angelic voice. Whenever I hear her singing, it feels like my soul has been cleansed. Who could possibly resist?"

Feeling inspired, Jovan closed his eyes to recall something. He then started singing. "The ocean, the ocean of your dreams, do our memories still exist..."

Renee's expression changed ever so slightly. Part of her memory was brought back. She couldn't help but sing along, "You're my long-lost child. You and I once ran on that ocean of our dreams. The ocean with a faint glow on its surface. Are you still there?"

"Yes, this is how it feels! I adore your voice. Ocean in a Dream by Ocean's Word is my favorite rock song!" Jovan's eyes lit up while he looked at Renee. He seemed like a passionate fan. The only thing missing was a glowing stick people waved around during concerts.

"Erk-hem!" Renee realized she was a little too excited and stopped singing. She flicked her hair and said helplessly, "It's all in the past. Ocean's Word no longer exists. You should become another band's fan!"

"As long as you're around, Ocean's Word will be. You're the lead singer and the band's soul!" Jovan was no longer in the mood to drive. He turned and looked at Renee like a passionate fan.

The Untouchable Ex Wife by Mizuki Sei

Chapter 465

Renee would never have guessed that her cousin-in-law, Jovan, who would hurl insults at her at any given opportunity, was actually her fan!

This was way too magical!

"Based on what you said, you've known me since before I even married your cousin. You're also my fan. Am I right?" Renee was still in a state of disbelief, but she wanted to find out if this was true.

Ocean's Word was a band she formed with a few friends from the lab back in college when she was bored. Neither she nor her friends were science freaks who'd only stay in the lab. They were all into music and dancing.

In Renee's case, she was a lyricist and a composer. She also had an angelic voice.

In the beginning, Ocean's Word recorded its own single and published it online. After gaining a large fanbase, they started performing in underground bars. Every show had a full audience, and its fanbase kept growing.

Not getting married would've been much cooler, now that Renee thought about it. The feeling of being on the receiving end of flowers and applause was just amazing.

Later on, due to a change of circumstances in her family, she got married to Stefan. Ocean's Word disbanded on the spot. Now, her ex-bandmates had all become big shots in the field of research.

The glorious days they once had were etched forever in the flow of history ... Renee never expected Jovan to dig up the past.

"Of course, I knew who you were. At the time, you were the purest soul I knew. To me, you were an unattainable divine goddess. I even felt remorseful when I dreamed about you!"

"Pfft!" Renee burst into laughter. "Mr. Hunt, you shouldn't make unrealistic jokes like that. This romanticism doesn't suit you. Do you realize how ridiculous it sounds?"

"Do you doubt me?" Jovan seemed serious. "Wait. I'll show you proof."

After saying that, he pressed a few buttons on the car's display screen. After opening a file, a collection of every song and every performance by Ocean's Word appeared.

The most ridiculous part was that he took many photos of Renee while she performed. Only a genuine fan could snap those particular angles with such good lighting.

"This is... This is amazing!" Renee gasped.

While she went through those performance videos and photos, memories from years ago came flooding back to her.

Back then, she hadn't met Stefan yet. Her parents were still around, and her family was still a force to be reckoned with. As a genius in the world of academia, she could do whatever she wanted. Life was perfect.

Now, after an exhausting marriage with the man she shouldn't have even loved to begin with, the scars from her healed wounds were still there. She could still feel the pain and hopelessness!

"Mr. Hunt, I don't quite get it. Since you knew me back then and were also a fan of mine, why were you always against me? You'd insult me at any given chance and leave me in embarrassing situations. Are you schizophrenic?" Renee asked out of curiosity.

After spending only a short amount of time with him, she already had a completely different opinion of him.

Perhaps, he wasn't as corrupted on the inside as she had thought. Perhaps ... he just wasn't that easy to deal with

The Untouchable Ex Wife by Mizuki Sei

Chapter 466

For that reason, Renee had to refrain from appearing too curious. She sat quietly in the passenger's seat.

Soon, the traffic began to ease as they gradually entered the suburbs. The surroundings gradually got darker. There weren't even street lamps to light the road. It only got creepier by the second. Unsurprisingly, this was the kind of place where bad people did terrible things.

Renee wasn't afraid, however. With her abilities, she could fight ten more Jovans even if her legs had only just recovered. "Hey... Where are you taking me?" Renee was getting a little impatient. She was visibly unhappy.

"Be patient. We'll be arriving soon." Jovan said before making a turn onto a small, dark road. There were lush cypress trees on both sides of the road, which stood upright like triangular flags.

Renee rolled down the window and looked around. Why did this place seem a little familiar?

After that, she suddenly recalled that this was the gravesite where she and Stefan had fallen and gotten hurt.

According to rumors, this was an elite gravesite. Those who were buried here were said to be able to have a luxurious lifestyle in the afterlife. However, for the living, being here for too long would run the risk of bumping into unholy things. It was a taboo for most.

Why did Jovan bring her to a creepy place like this in the middle of the night? Her cast had only just been removed. She didn't want to fall again!

"Turn around!" Renee commanded. "I don't like it here. I want you to turn around right now."

However, Jovan refused to cooperate. He sneered. "I'm behind the wheel now. What if I refuse?"

"In that case, don't blame me for having to do this!" Renee glared at him coldly before pressing a pocket knife against his neck. "We're in the middle of nowhere anyway. There are more ghosts than humans. When push comes to shove, I'll have no choice but to slit your throat and bury you right where we are!"

Jovan was nowhere near a coward. On the contrary, he appeared excited. His eyes lit up while he stared at Renee. "In that case, do it. I'd willingly die in the hands of a beauty!"

"Do you think I'm incapable?"

"Of course, you are... If it's too hard, I'll help you!" Jovan exclaimed before suddenly grabbing Renee's hand and pulling it into his neck. This instantly left an open wound on his neck, and he started bleeding.

Renee immediately pulled away and yelled angrily, "Are you crazy, Jovan? Kill yourself if you want to, but don't do it while I'm here. You've gone completely mad!"

Her Swiss knife had a sharp blade that could even cut through some steel. It was only several inches in length, but it was highly lethal. This was the first weapon she had ever received from her grandfather.

All these years, she had kept it with her for self-defense. Normally, she wouldn't even have to use it.

There was a saying that once a pocket knife like this was opened, it had to draw blood, or it would become blunt. Although Jovan was a madman, he fulfilled the criteria for this saying. His blood wasn't drawn in vain.

"It's getting late. If you wanted to pull a prank on me, you've succeeded. Unfortunately, I have no intention of playing along any further," Renee put her pocket knife away. She tried to open the door to get out, but she realized Jovan had already locked the car.

"We haven't arrived at our destination. Why are you in such a hurry? Wouldn't all these miles we've traveled go to waste?" Jovan sneered before calmly turning on the engine.

His neck was still bleeding, but it was as if he couldn't even feel it. He couldn't be bothered to tend to it.

"Are you sure you don't want to stop the bleeding first?" Renee asked in a disgusted tone while she stared at him.

Imagine a man smiling creepily in the middle of the night while driving through a remote cemetery. His neck bled, dyeing his shirt in red... It was honestly nothing short of bizarre

The Untouchable Ex Wife by Mizuki Sei

Chapter 467

Jovan's smile broadened. He stared at Renee with glistening eyes. "Are you worried about me?" Renee remained silent.

"If bleeding a little can make you worry for me, I don't mind getting beheaded just to see you smile," he added. "Go to hell!" Renee rolled her eyes before tossing him a handkerchief.

Jovan dangled the handkerchief in front of his nose and took a big whiff at it. He then reluctantly wrapped it around his bleeding neck before tying a knot. "Such a wonderful handkerchief. It's a pity," he said with a sigh.

"You've truly gone mad!" Renee rubbed her temples. She regretted her decision.

At first, she thought Jovan was a big idiot, and she could easily extract important information about H Group from him. To her surprise... He was only pretending to be dumb all this time. He was a mad person and not as easy to manipulate as she had thought.

Playing along would only delay her own plan. It even resulted in conflict between her and Liam. 'I made a huge mistake!'

This guy was crazy. She could only let him drive to their destination before she tried to escape. They made a left turn before arriving in front of a wide platform.

"We're here." Jovan stopped the car and looked at Renee. There was a mysterious look on his face. "Trust me. You won't regret coming here."

"Yeah, I sure wish so!" Renee replied with fake enthusiasm, but she already had something else planned.

She saw Jovan getting out of the car, and she did the same. When Jovan started walking toward her, she kicked him in the stomach and snatched the car key from him.

"It's my bedtime. I don't have time to waste here with you. If you like it here, you can stay. I'm going home," Renee said before unlocking the car and getting in from the driver's side. She prepared to turn on the engine.

After being kicked, Jovan felt as if his internal organs were crushed. Blood spilled out from his mouth.

However, he seemed even more excited than before. He licked the blood from the corner of his mouth and stared at her. "Are you sure you want to leave? Can't my proud and handsome cousin make you stay?"

Renee's facial expression froze. She stepped on the brake and asked, "What do you mean? Be specific!"

"Haven't you heard?" Jovan propped up his upper body with his long arms. He had a creepy smile on his face. "Many people have been speculating where Stefan had gone. He hasn't been seen in public for two weeks. Why was I suddenly asked to return to the country to hold the fort? Aren't you curious at all?"

"H-He was heavily injured. He's probably recuperating now. That's why there hasn't been any news from him." Renee's eyes glistened. When she connected the dots to this unusual place, she had a bad feeling about what might have happened. However, she refused to believe it.

"Are you sure he's merely recuperating?"

"C-Could there be some other reason?" Renee asked. She seemed perplexed.

She kept telling herself that Stefan was a tough man. Nothing could kill him. She was certain nothing had happened to him. Jovan sneered. "What are you afraid of? Make a wild guess. I believe... you already have the answer, don't you?"

The Untouchable Ex Wife by Mizuki Sei

Chapter 468

Renee shook her head. "I don't have an answer, and I don't want to make a guess. I'm also not in the mood to listen to your nonsense. You'd better get out of the way, or I'll run you over!"

Jovan sat lazily in front of the car. He ignored Renee's warning completely. "I thought you've grown much stronger in the past few years, but you're still as much of a coward as ever. You don't even have the guts to face the truth. Don't you think it's sad that you have to lie to yourself like this?"

"I don't know what you're talking about!" Renee exclaimed. "I'm saying this for the last time. Get out of the way!"

She placed her foot on the gas pedal. All she needed to do was step on it lightly, and Jovan would be crushed into a pulp of flesh.

"Hehe. Do you think you'll be able to change my dying cousin's fate by running me over?" Jovan slowly got up. He propped his arms on the hood and smiled creepily at her.

"Weren't you curious why I brought you to the middle of nowhere? Look around. Don't you think this gravesite has very good feng shui? I heard the Hunt family specifically chose this place for Stefan. Once it's time to bury him, my proud, aloof cousin will be trapped here forever..."

Renee's head was pounding. Her mind went blank.

She couldn't understand what he was saying and couldn't be bothered to try. She kept repeating the phrase 'my dying cousin' in her head!

'No. This isn't possible. How could Stefan be dead? If a cat has nine lives, he has ten!' Renee refused to believe Stefan was dead.

"You know very well whether I'm lying or not. If you don't believe me, you can come and look at this grave. His tomb has already been erected in advance. The irony is... Since you're his wife, your name was also inscribed on it. It's hilarious!" Jovan crossed his arms and looked at the large tomb ahead. There was a sarcastic look in his eyes.

"When I think about it, sometimes, life can be quite meaningless. It doesn't bother how capable or amazing someone is; at the end of the day, one is still a mere mortal. Once a person dies, he's no different from an insect or a pest. Everything goes back to dust. I can step on him if I so wish!" He added before stepping on Stefan's black-and-white photo on the tomb.

"Stefan, aren't you all that amazing? Haven't you always been number one? Why don't you get up and fight back?"

"Do you have any idea how I've always lived in your shadow? When other people get a score of 99 on an exam, they receive praise. When I did the same, I got beaten up. It's all because you'd always get a score of 100!"

"I lost sleep and skipped meals to make H Group one of the top three players in the market, but I was transferred abroad to work on sideline projects all because of something you said!"

"Everyone criticized me for being an idiot and a womanizer. They said I brought shame to the family, but nobody knew I had to be compared to you at all times. How was I supposed to ever stand out?"

"Fortunately, God is fair. You died for a woman. It gave me an opportunity to come back. From now on, I'll reclaim everything that I once lost, including the woman of my dreams!" Jovan uttered excitedly. The smile on his face was becoming cold and twisted.

He stomped fervently on Stefan's photo, letting out all those years of jealousy he had concealed!

"Stop it!" Renee had gotten out of the car at some point. "You're insulting a dead person. Can you even call yourself a gentleman?"

"Do you feel bad for him?"

The Untouchable Ex Wife by Mizuki Sei

Chapter 469

Jovan lifted his foot and turned sideways to look at Renee. He smiled. "I was never a gentleman, to begin with. I bring shame to the family. It's not like you've never heard about that... I couldn't do anything to Stefan when he was alive, but I can insult him all I want now that he's dead!"

Renee's eyes filled with tears. "You're mad. Even if Stefan's dead, he'll always be stronger than you!"

Jovan's eyes glistened briefly. He approached Renee one step at a time. "Is that so? What can he do right now? My footsteps are on his face, and I'm about to sleep with his wife in front of him. All he can do is watch. Do you call that strong?"

"Shameless!" Renee slapped Jovan hard across the face. "You're a loser. Don't ever think you can get close to me!"

Renee still felt angry even though she'd said those things. She lifted one leg and kicked Jovan in the stomach.

"Hmph!" Jovan curled up and kneeled in front of the tomb.

Renee stood behind him and stepped on his back. "This is how you should behave in front of your brother. If you can't seem to learn it, I don't mind teaching you again."

"Hahaha! Keep treating me like this. Don't stop. I like you when you're like this!"

Although Jovan was clearly almost beaten to death, he seemed unusually excited. In fact, his eyes were even glistening.

"You asked me why I admired you so much but insulted you at every given opportunity after you married Stefan. I'll tell you why. It's because you let me down!" Jovan exclaimed with his eyes closed.

"You're evidently a capable, talented, bright, and divine being, but you married the man I hated and looked down on the most! Stefan is an emotionless robot, but you were willing to disband Ocean's Word and become a boring, rich housewife for him. You carefully sucked up to everyone in the Hunt family and stayed with a man who didn't even love you. You had huge potential in life, but you wasted it away. It felt like watching the person you love falling into a pool of disgusting waste. Who else should I humiliate but you?"

Jovan's words left Renee in shock.

"Y-You're unbelievable! You're an absolute pervert!" Renee exclaimed.

She never realized that a man she barely knew would think of her so highly ... Was this a case of a fan turning into a hater?

Anyway, he was as mad as a hatter!

"From your reaction, it seems that you probably haven't moved on. Unfortunately, Stefan is already dead. You have no choice but to move on. Why don't you consider me? It won't be long before the entire H Group falls into my hands. I can give you everything you want!"

Although Renee was still stepping on Jovan, he sounded fully confident.

Renee appeared annoyed. "I can fight for what I want. I don't need anyone else to give me anything. I refuse to believe Stefan is dead. It's all in your head!"

"If you don't believe me, you can ask Liam to verify the truth. That is... If he's still willing to talk to you." Jovan smiled arrogantly. He eliminated two rivals in romance in a single night. This excited him far more than taking over H Group

The Untouchable Ex Wife by Mizuki Sei

Chapter 470

Renee couldn't be bothered to waste any more time with Jovan. She turned around, entered the car, and drove away from the gravesite.

She didn't once look at Stefan's so-called tomb.

That was because she believed from the bottom of her heart that he was still alive...

Under the moonlight, Renee returned to Leia's apartment in the city center as quickly as she could.

She had been through too much today. She was exhausted, and she could barely keep her eyes open. She wanted nothing else but a good night's sleep.

As soon as she opened the door, she realized that Liam was also there, apart from Leia.

After their fight in H Group, it felt a little awkward when they locked eyes.

"Renee, you're finally home. Liam almost called the cops," Leia said with a long sigh. She wrapped her arms around Renee's arm. "Are you hungry? I'll cook something for you if you are."

Renee shook her head. She looked tired. "I'm not hungry. I'm just a little sleepy. I think I need a good, good rest. Goodnight."

After finishing her sentence, she walked past Liam and headed toward her own room.

"Sleep?" Leia sensed something was amiss while she looked at Renee from behind.

Had Renee received news about Adie?

Knowing Renee, she wouldn't be in the mood to sleep right now and would definitely be trying everything she could to find Adie!

"Renee, did Jovan bully you? Why do I sense that something's wrong with you?" Leia asked out of concern.

She knew Renee and Liam had already broken up. In fact, she also knew that it was all because of Jovan. She felt that it wasn't fair for Liam.

After all, Liam had sacrificed a lot for this relationship.

If Stefan was the one who won, it would've been fair game. However, if Jovan was the one who stood in their way, even Leia, who was an outsider, felt it wasn't justifiable.

Leia initially planned to lecture Renee on this, but she didn't have the heart to do it after seeing the state Renee was in.

"Tell us if he bullied you. Liam and I won't let him off the hook!" Leia said angrily while holding onto Renee's shoulder.

Renee looked up and smiled bitterly. "Do you think I'm someone he can bully?"

"That's true. You're strong enough to fend that loser off!" Leia felt even more confused now.

"So, what exactly is wrong? Did you receive bad news about Adie?" Leia asked.

"It has nothing to do with Adie. I'm just tired. I want to stop thinking and have a good night's sleep." Renee's voice got weaker and weaker. It sounded as if she was struggling to even breathe. This was completely unlike her usually energetic self.

"Don't worry. I'll be fine after a good night's sleep." Renee forced a smile and reached for the door's handle. She then walked in lifelessly