

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 2397

Chapter 2397

The Southern Boss nodded in agreement. "Yeah, that has to be the case! How lucky can he be to obtain a tressure in the Semi-Saint State?"

He learned that Leon had a defensive tool in the Intermediate Almighty State from the battle earlier and that there was no limit to its usage.

Tressures were scarce, especially the ones that contained great power, so the Southern Boss was displeased that Leon had a defensive tool in the Intermediate Almighty State and a tressure in the Semi-Saint State.

"Forget about him! I need to ask you something. How did the Poisonwielder, Asmodeus, and the Scarlet Thief die?" Hades changed the subject.

"I'm not sure, but I think Leon was the one who killed the Scarlet Thief," The Southern Boss explained thoughtfully.

He did not know what happened with the Poisonwielder and Asmodeus, but the circumstances were different for the Scarlet Thief, who was ordered by the Southern Boss to assassinate Leon, only to die suddenly.

The Southern Boss was baffled at the time as to how someone as formidable as the Scarlet Thief would fail to kill Leon and get killed himself. However, upon witnessing what Leon was capable of, the Southern Boss finally realized that the Scarlet Thief was killed by Leon.

"Him, again?!" Hades's heart sank.

Upon learning that both the Demon Lord and the Scarlet Thief died at the hand of Leon, he instinctively knew that Asmodeus and the Poisonwielder likely suffered the same fate as well. If that was truly the case, Leon was the enemy of all criminals and with the powerful weapon he owned, Hades knew that he would have to watch out for Leon from now on, or he might be the next to perish.

"Hades, I need your help with something," the Southern Boss said abruptly.

"What is it? Hades asked, casting his thoughts about Leon aside for the time being.

"Leon killed my Four Apostles and destroyed my entire clan. He's officially my nemesis and my son, Rodney, is being held hostage by Leon and the Thompsons. I want your help killing him and rescuing my son," The Southern Boss pleaded.

His eyes glimmered with extreme hatred upon mentioning Leon's name as he desperately wished he could tear Leon apart.

"What?" Hades was shocked by his request. "Southern Boss, have you gone insane? Leon has a tressure in the Semi-Saint State, and I'm no match for him! If I help you with that, I'll die too!" Hades reprimanded coldly.

He only came to the southern region to look into the deaths of the Poisonwielder, Asmodeus, and the Scarlet Thief.

Now that he found out Leon was responsible, he achieved what he came for.

Upon learning about what Leon was capable of, he swore to stay out of Leon's way and would rather maintain a distance from Leon; yet the Southern Boss asked for his help to take Leon down, which was just the equivalence of telling him to commit suicide, i