Chapter 228 Lack Of Discipline

The commotion at the front desk drew the attention of a group of patients.

Jaiden was an expert of this hospital. Occasionally, he would come to work at here. Today, he came here as he was in good spirits. [1]

When he heard a familiar voice, he strode over and squeezed into the crowd to see the commotion.

"What the hell are you talking about?"

Jaiden's eyes lit up when he saw Trevor. With a smile on his face, he said, "Trevor, it's really you. I saw a Bugatti Chiron parked at the gate so, I guessed that you are here."

Hearing this, the doctors and nurses standing beside them were dumbfounded! [1]

It turned out that the man in front of them really owned a Bugatti Chiron and he even knew Doctor Jaiden!

With wide eyes, the nurse froze and she felt extremely regretful in her heart. [2]

If she had known that Trevor was a rich man, she wouldn't have treated him that way. Instead, she would have flattered him.

Well, the doctor who just humiliated Trevor was even more terrified. After all, Jaiden had heard what he just said. What the hell should he do now?

Noticing the expressions on their faces, Jaiden realized that something must have happened.

Furrowing his eyebrows, Jaiden asked, "Trevor, what happened?"

A scum like the young doctor shouldn't exist in the hospital. Therefore, Trevor wasn't planning to be polite or generous towards them.

Pointing at Dilan, Trevor said, "This boy's name is Dilan. His leg is injured badly and as you can see, it's swollen. So, we took him to the emergency room." After that, he nodded his head towards the nurse and the doctor and said, "But those people stopped us and said that we didn't deserve to go to the emergency room since we didn't pay money first. She even let the others cut the queue in front of us."

While talking, Trevor shot daggers at the doctor and the nurse.

Hearing his words, Jaiden's face darkened instantly. He just glared at them without saying anything.

At that time, the young doctor trembled so much that his glasses fell off. After all, he knew that Jaiden was going to be angry.

If he had known that Trevor was this capable, he wouldn't have stood up for his girlfriend in the first place!

Just as they expected, Jaiden didn't even hold back his anger and snapped, "How many times do I have to tell you to cultivate your moral ethics before becoming a doctor? Since when does our hospital refuse to perform emergency treatment to unpaid patients? Don't you have any work ethics? Both of you are fired!"

Once they heard the final sentence, the doctor and nurse seemed to have lost their strength and fell directly to the floor.

Well, they were doomed!

Jaiden didn't work here full-time and was a nominal expert in this hospital.

Honestly, it seemed like he wasn't that important.

However, with his authority in the medical industry of Jork, it was easy for Jaiden to fire a doctor in charge, let alone a young doctor like him.

With a sad look on his face, he immediately bowed to Trevor and confessed, "Sir, I'm so sorry. Please help me. If I get fired, my career will be ruined!"

Only then did the nurse come back to her senses and stopped being saucy.

Crawling towards Trevor, she held his thigh and pleaded, "Sir, please forgive us!"

Ignoring their pleas, Trevor dodged her hand in disgust.

After all, the two of them said vicious words when he was begging for a long time.

Why on earth should he forgive them?

Repaying grievances with virtue was never Trevor's character.

They deserved to be punished since they had done bad things.

When Trevor just ignored them, they got so anxious that they started blaming and cursing each other.

Seeing this, Jaiden's face darkened and he immediately called the security and dragged them out.

After dealing with the matter in his hands, Jaiden said apologetically, "It's all my fault, Trevor. I'm sorry."

Waving his hand dismissively, Trevor said to Jaiden, "Doctor Jaiden, don't blame yourself! Never mind about them! Please check Dilan's condition right now."
