Married at First Sight Chapter 2659-After Mrs. Lewis left with Sonny, Duncan asked Serenity, "Did your sister really ask you to come see me when she went out? Is she in a good mood? Am I too sensitive and emotional, which affects her? Serenity, do you think I'm making trouble unreasonably? I am almost thirty-seven years old, and I still act like a child."

The more Duncan talked, the more he blamed himself.

He felt that he was really being unreasonable this time.

"Brother Duncan, my sister really couldn't worry about you. It's just that she was in a hurry, so she didn't come over to see you. She told me and Zachary a lot that we must come and enlighten you. Sonny is the most honest child; don't you still believe what he said?"

Brother Duncan, I'm not afraid of your anger or of your fragile heart. I think you are really unreasonable this time. Look at you like this. Lock yourself in your room for a day without eating or thirsting. When my sister goes out, not only is she worried about you, but so is my aunt, and you are in a bad mood as well. It's really your fault, and the people around you who care about you are equally faulty."

Duncan was silent.

Zachary also said to him, "Duncan, how do you want us to say hello to you? We said it repeatedly until we were speechless. Some time ago, you returned to a normal life. If my sister dislikes you, she will be too sluggish to pay you any attention.

To be honest, she is getting better and better. As long as she is willing, more and more men want to be with her and marry her. Do you think she has been close to other men? She didn't explicitly say that she was your sister. My friend, isn't the way you two get along with each other already that of a lover?"

She works so hard to shorten the gap with you. You feel that you are dragging her down, but she feels that even if you are in a wheelchair, she can't catch up with you. You two are running in both directions, and she is for you. While you and Sonny work hard to develop your careers, you should also smile at life for her and Sonny.

Don't get into trouble over trivial matters in the future. Your phone is still turned off, right? Turn it on and take a look. My sister has sent you a lot of messages."

Liberty said that Duncan didn't answer calls or text messages.

It was like this at first, and then it turned off.

He didn't read the message at all.

When Zachary said this, Duncan hurriedly touched his trouser pocket to take out his mobile phone, but couldn't find it. Remembering that he had thrown it away, he quickly said, "Zachary, go into my bedroom and help me find my mobile phone. I threw it away in the morning; I don't know where it fell; let's see if it's broken."

Zachary said to him, "You really become more and more like a child as you get older. People say that old people are like children, so they are called old children. But you are not yet as old as my grandma, and you are still far from being an old child."

After talking about him, Zachary got up and went into his bedroom to help him find his mobile phone.

After a while, Zachary came out of the bedroom with Duncan's mobile phone in his hand.

As he walked over, he said, "You broke the screen of your mobile phone. You need to buy a few more mobile phones to avoid having them broken and no longer available."

Duncan was a rough guy and rarely blushed. Zachary was now making fun of him, and his face was turning red.

Zachary handed him the phone.

Seeing that the protective screen of the mobile phone was badly broken, Duncan had no choice but to remove the protective screen and say, "As long as the mobile phone is not broken."

After turning on the phone, soon the phone kept ringing, all of which were message notification tones.

He clicked through and discovered that Liberty had sent almost all of them.

He read the messages one by one, and from between the lines, he could feel Liberty's concern for him.

After a long while, he said, "I'm not as good as Sonny."

When Liberty went on a business trip, Sonny didn't cry or make trouble, but instead he made trouble and got into trouble.

Zachary: "It's good to know. My sister probably hasn't arrived in Jensburg yet. You can call her later to reassure her. Now, do you want to go downstairs to do some activities?"

Married at First Sight Chapter 2660- "Okay, I'll go downstairs by myself; you don't need to help me." Duncan's mood had changed from heavy snow to sunny weather.

The span was a bit big, haha.

He grabbed the armrest of the sofa and stood up, then took a step and sat in the wheelchair.

Zachary said, "I won't help you; let you go by yourself."

Having said that, he still pushed the wheelchair in a different direction, allowing Duncan to control the wheelchair himself.

The three of them left the room together and walked towards the elevator.

Zachary said, "You take the elevator downstairs, and Serenity and I take the stairs."

Duncan hummed, "You can do whatever you want; I still need to use the elevator for the time being."

The elevator at home would be able to rest once Duncan could walk normally.

After Duncan entered the elevator, Zachary pulled Serenity and turned towards the stairs, saying, "Duncan cares too much about my sister, so he can't help but think wildly."

Serenity said, "I hope he gets better soon. My sister has actually accepted him from the bottom of her heart. It's not my sister's problem now. It's Brother Duncan who can't pass his own test. He insists on waiting for him to fully recover before he is willing to be with my sister.

Zach said: "Next year, I think next year, or the end of next year at the latest, we should call him brother-in-law when we see him. Oh my, my good friend has become my brother-in-law; it's a bit hard to say."

Serenity smiled and said, "You can call me Elisa's cousin, but you can't call him brother Duncan or brother-in-law Duncan if you change your name?"

Zachary said, "That's different. Elisa can choke my throat at any time and kill me. If I don't change my name, I call her cousin. She always talks badly about me in front of you. What should I do? I don't call him brother-in-law Duncan; he can't do anything to me.

It won't affect our relationship as a couple, so it's different."

Recalling the time when he changed his name to Elisa's cousin for her sake, Elisa was shocked. Serenity smiled. "It's just a title. Brother Duncan won't argue with you."

Duncan has always been generous, but he was in a mood of anger recently because the car accident left him disabled. When he recovered, he would definitely turn back into the generous Fourth Young Master Lewis.

Serenity said, "I don't know what time my sister will arrive in Jensburg. She hasn't sent me a message yet."

Zachary: "I notified Kevin to wait at the airport. Don't worry, nothing will happen. Sister is not a child anymore."

Serenity said, "I don't worry about other things. I only worry about safety issues. I can only rest assured if she lands safely."

"They'll definitely arrive when it gets dark. It's six o'clock and getting dark."

The flight was in the afternoon, and it happened to be dinner time when they arrived in Jensburg.

Liberty was indeed still on the plane at this moment. She was leaning on the back of her chair, closing her eyes, and relaxing.

She kept thinking about Sonny and Duncan, so she was unable to sleep.

She wondered:

–If Duncan, the grown man who has become extremely sensitive, was willing to eat?

–Was he still angry that she didn't take him to Jensburg?

–Zachary should be able to solve him, right?

–I sent him hundreds of messages and explained them repeatedly, but I don't know if he read them.
