

Chapter 115

"Come on gal show me what you've got". Alanna shoved my shoulder.

She had dragged me to the training ground and we had been here since 6am. It was cold, wet and just started to rain again.

"We could be inside drinking coffee and keeping warm right now". I huffed.

"It's just a little rain". She grinned. "Now come on let's try and bring her out".

"What's the point". I sighed.

"The point is we need to get her to come out and you're the only one that can do it".

"How?".

"That's what we're trying to figure out". She shoved my shoulder again. "Come on". And again with the shoving.

"Stop that".

"Why?". She nipped at my forearms. "Is it annoying?". Again she nipped.

"Alanna". I yelled. It wasn't as much annoying as it was sore.

"What?". She shoved. "Can't little Leah handle it?".

I knew what she was doing and I didn't like it. They were all desperate for my wolf to come out but forcing her wasn't the answer.

"You think you'll be enough for him if you can't shift?". She laughed.

I could feel the anger building inside. That was a low blow.

"Poor little Leah. What Luna on this earth can't shift?".

I didn't want for my first shift to be brought out by anger. "Don't do this". I begged. I could feel the burning on my skin, the itching heat spreading all over my body.

"Maybe he would be better off with someone else".

Okay that one hit a nerve. Hands balling into fists I could feel my top lip pulling back into a snarl.

"Someone like-...".

"Don't even say it". I barked through gritted teeth. I could feel the power radiating through my body. The tightness of my skin, the pain building.

Hearing a crack I fell to my knees. "Alanna". I cried out.

"Someone like Jessica or maybe even Sarah. I mean she's human but she's still tougher than you".

I don't know how it happened but it did. A growl fell from my lips before my four paws stomped off the ground in front of her.

I was snarling and snapping.

She did me dirty.

"God your wolf sure is beautiful". As she went to touch me I snapped my teeth. "Wow beautiful girl. I'm not here to harm you".

It was then I realised she was talking to my wolf.

A whine slipped from my lips. This was weird.

"If I knew bringing them bitches up would get you to shift I'd have done it days ago". She laughed.

This wasn't funny and I was still pissed as hell by her actions. She forced my wolf out by anger. The things she said stuck on my mind.

I know she didn't mean it but it still struck a nerve.

Watching as she scratched the back of her head a nervous laugh fell from her lips. "I didn't really think about you changing back".

Tell me this wasn't happening.

"Let me call Jake".

I ran.

"Leah". She yelled.

I don't know what came over me but I took off. Sprinting through the forest, ducking and diving past trees. I was becoming one with the feral animal inside me.

Her voice was nothing but an echo in the back ground.

I felt free, liberated and let me tell you nothing had ever felt better. The soft ground under my paws, the wind rustling through my fur.

I realised now that I had nothing to worry about. My wolf was apart of me, she was me and if anything she wasn't the one I needed to be afraid of.

..

I don't know how long my little adventure lasted but when I returned to the training ground Alanna wasn't there.

But he was.

I could smell him, his scent hitting me like a train. My ears perked up, my head turning to the side, my eyes focused on the double doors in front of me.

I was surprised he didn't come looking for me.

As the doors opened my stance changed, I was on guard preparing myself for anything coming my way.

"Easy princess I'm not going to hurt you".

I couldn't help the small growl that slipped past my lips as he began to approach me. I knew he wouldn't hurt me and yet I still bared my teeth.

"You sure are beautiful". He whispered.

A whine fell from my lips before I took a step towards him. I wanted to change back. Reaching his hand out I leaned my head against it closing my eyes.

"Only you can make the change back Leah. Think of your human form, your human traits. It'll help".

That's exactly what I did or at least tried to. This was my first ever time trying to change back. I didn't have a clue what...".

"Hey baby".

His voice broke through my thoughts. How did I manage to... a gasp fell from my lips when I realised I was lying on the cold wet ground naked.

I scrambled to my feet grabbing the hoodie he was holding for me. I couldn't get it on fast enough. How embarrassing was this whole situation.

"Come inside and dry off. I'll get you clean clothes".

"What happened to my clothes?". I frowned following him inside.

"If we don't take our clothes off before we shift they end up shredded. You want some coffee?".

So Alanna made me ruin a perfectly good pair of jeans.

Great.

"Yes please". I took a seat on the couch that was in the office. I felt weird. Everything seemed different. Even now in my human form I could hear and see better than ever before.

"You okay?". I took the cup of coffee from him.

"I don't know". That was the truth. I wasn't sure if I was okay. It all felt so strange.

"It'll take some time before it feels normal". He smiled.

"I have four legs and a tail. I don't think it'll ever feel normal".

A chuckle fell from his lips. "It has its advantages but we'll take it as it comes. This is all new to you, it's a learning process".

"I'll take your word for it". I took a sip of my coffee. I could feel his eyes bore into the side of my head.

"I am curious on how she got you to shift though".

And there it was. Was he mad that he wasn't the one to do it, or was he really just curious?

"Oh she didn't tell you?".

"What did she do?". His face hardened, his features changing.

"Calm down macho man. No need to brake bones over it".

"Haha you're funny". He glared.

"I know". I smirked.

"But seriously what did she do?".

"She pissed me off that's what she did but it worked so it doesn't really matter". He didn't need to know what she said. It would only cause him to punish her and there was no need for that.

"If you say so". He took his phone from his jean pocket. "Jacks here with clean clothes. You can change and then we'll head home".

That's the best thing he's said since he got here. I was sore, my bones were sore and let's not forget how hungry I was. Alanna dragged me out here so damn early you're lucky I got the chance to pee.

As he disappeared outside I realised then that I didn't have my phone. Said phone was in my jeans that I had on.

Just my bloody luck.

"Here".

I took the bag from him frowning when I opened it. "These are your clothes". How was I expected to wear his clothes when I knew they wouldn't fit.

"You think I was letting Jack rake through your panty drawer. Absolutely fucking not".

I rolled my eyes. Always playing the protective sometimes overbearing Alpha. "Of course not because that would be such a sin".

"Watch your mouth princess".

Pulling the clothes from the bag I headed for the bathroom. The quicker I got changed the quicker I got to go home, eat and possibly take a nap.

This werewolf stuff was tiring.

He was waiting for me by the door.

"You ready?".

"I have no shoes".

"Guess I'll just have to carry you then". It was the smirk for me. That playful smirk and those big beautiful brown eyes.

I knew there and then I would do anything for him.

My heart fluttered the heat spreading across my cheeks.

I was so screwed.

Swallowing the lump in my throat I dropped my gaze to the floor. Now wasn't the time for inappropriate thoughts.

"You coming princess?".