

Chapter 863 Subdue The Gray Wolf

Trevor's breathing became a little heavy.

He was not afraid of the gray wolf, but he felt that the situation was a little tricky.

After all, he once fought a life-and-death battle with a pack of wolves before. ¹³

But that time, he had a dagger to kill a few wolves. ¹⁰

This time, he was unarmed. It was dangerous to deal with the gray wolf with his bare hands. ¹³

"Watch out!"

Irene shouted in panic when she saw that the wolf was about to attack Trevor. ¹

Trevor moved agilely. He arched his body, making a defensive posture.

When he saw the zoo billboard beside him, his eyes lit up. He quickly pulled it out.

It was a hollow metal rod buried in the soil, and it was light to swing. It was not solid enough to deal with a furious wolf.

However, Trevor had no choice. He could only use the billboard as a weapon to fight against the wolf. ¹

"What? Run!"

When Lemuel saw the wolf staring at Trevor angrily, he was so frightened that he screamed with a pale face. He hurriedly pushed away the person in front of him and ran off without looking back.

The members of the football team also panicked when they saw their captain flee in a panic. In the blink of an eye, they screamed and ran away, leaving the women behind.

"Fuck! This is all Trevor's fault," Lemuel cursed, not daring to stop running.

He seemed to have forgotten the bold words he had said just now that he would protect the girls.

At this moment, Trevor saw that the stinky wolf was dashing towards him. ⁶

He quickly waved the billboard and smashed it on the wolf's head. ⁵

But the billboard was so fragile that it deformed. The wolf stopped for a moment, but it was not injured at all.

"Run! All of you, run!" Trevor shouted, reminding the members of the cheerleading squad. "I will stop this beast!"

Cecelia was also flustered. Trevor's voice pulled her back to her senses. She ordered the cheerleaders to evacuate from the other direction.

With its sharp teeth covered with disgusting saliva, the wolf pounced on Trevor again. If he was bitten, he would probably lose a piece of meat.

Trevor hurriedly held up the billboard, blocked the wolf's mouth with its metal rod, and kicked the wolf on its stomach hard.

"Miss Norris, take the old man away!" Trevor shouted when he noticed that Irene and the old man just stood there in fright. ³

"Oh... Okay!" It was only then that Irene came back to her senses and quickly took the old man to the side with a panicked expression. "Be careful! Hold on for a while. I'll go call the staff now."

Trevor had gradually become familiar with the rhythm of the wolf's attack. ①

He adjusted his position flexibly, so he could fight back with the wolf. He used the billboard to deal with it. It was not enough to kill the wolf, but it made it feel pain and howl.

Trevor focused all his attention on the wolf. The old man hiding in the corner was more nervous than him.

By the time the staff of the zoo arrived fully armed, the wolf was already exhausted, putting out its tongue and gasping. It didn't even run away when they approached.

In the end, the wolf was shot with an anesthetic rifle by the zoo staff. Then they put it into a cage.

"Young man, you are too strong. It's my first time seeing a tourist fight with a wolf without being hurt. You even got the wolf exhausted."

Trevor amazed the zoo staff. When everything was settled, they all came to praise Trevor.

Trevor just smiled and wiped the sweat off his forehead. 5

One could say that what happened today was really strange.

Lemuel said that there would be no accidents in the zoo. But all of a sudden, a gray wolf ran out of the cage.

Trevor couldn't help wondering if he was a doomsayer.

What was more, Lemuel just ran like a coward mouse when the wolf escaped from the cage.

The corners of Trevor's mouth curved into a smile.

He wondered what would Lemuel's excuse be.
