

Chapter 870 Special Ride

In the end, Decker had to lower the unconscious Beckett from the crane with gritted teeth. Tossing his grandson into the car, Decker gave Beckett a hard kick before facing Trevor and Cecelia.

"Mr. Sanderson and Miss Wright, I apologize on behalf of my grandson. I assure you that I'll discipline him from now on. If he still doesn't learn to behave, I'll lock him up at home for the rest of his life."

Flashing a flattering smile and rubbing his hands together nervously, Decker tried to pacify them.

"What happened today is a big misunderstanding. It's all my stupid grandson's fault, of course. Please forgive him for offending you. Once he wakes up, I'll teach him a lesson and order him to apologize to you."

Trevor waved his hand dismissively. Since Beckett only offended him once, he wasn't that mad at him.

"There's no need for him to apologize. Just tell him to behave himself. He should stop being rude and arrogant."

Decker almost jumped up in relief after hearing Trevor's words. He turned on his heel and hopped in his car while ordering his people to leave the place at once.

While watching the cars drive away, Harmoni still felt scared and wanted to say something.

Trevor patted her on the shoulder, his expression stern.

"I know what you have in mind, Harmoni, but I think you should stop. Learn to stand on your own rather than waste your time seducing rich men. I can see that you are not a bad person, and it's not too late for you to change. I hope that the next time we meet, I'll see a different you."

Harmoni bit her lower lip as her face reddened with shame.

But what happened today made her realize a lot of things.

Tears welled up in her eyes and fell down her cheeks.

"Thank you so much, Trevor. I know what to do..."

After a few more reassuring words, Trevor clapped his palms together and said, "Alright. Let's all go back."

Trevor and the girls walked out of the zoo.

Outside, Lemuel and his friends were waiting for them impatiently.

Lemuel was glowering in annoyance the whole time. Every time his mind drifted to the humiliating scene earlier, his annoyance intensified.

He kept kicking the pebbles on the ground to vent his anger. When he saw Trevor and the girls come out, he immediately complained, "What took you so long to come out? Do you take the zoo as your home that you can just do as you please, Trevor?"

Instead of responding, Trevor gave Lemuel a cold stare, sickened by the latter's audacity to act arrogantly toward him.

He still had yet to teach Lemuel a lesson for cutting the power in the elevator off earlier. Being reminded of this, he snickered inwardly.

He took out his phone and typed a message to Milo.

"Come and take these bastards away. They were the ones responsible for the power outage in the elevator earlier. Make sure they get punished. I'll just take the bus back to the hotel."

Lemuel clenched his jaw when Trevor ignored him. Annoyed, he muttered to himself, "You just got lucky! You would have been dead meat if a tiger or a lion escaped earlier!"

He was still bitter that Trevor got a lot of attention.

Just then, Milo's car arrived at the gate.

Honking the horn twice, Milo rolled down the car window and flashed a fake smile at Lemuel. "You're Lemuel, right? I'm here to pick you up on behalf of the hotel."

Lemuel poked him a quizzical look for a moment, and then his face lit up.

He straightened his back arrogantly and spoke loudly for everyone to hear.

"I can't believe Blake is this influential. Even the hotel manager came to pick me up! All of you can wait for the bus. I'll ride in this expensive car."

After that, he cast a boastful glance in Trevor's way.

Milo called the others who were Lemuel's accomplices in cutting the power off in the elevator. Like Lemuel, they were elated and unsuspecting of Milo's true motive for picking them up.

Lemuel fully believed that Milo was being kind to them because of Blake's order.

With boosted ego, he flashed a taunting smile at Trevor.

"Can't you see how different we are from each other, Trevor? This is the power of connections that you won't ever understand because you don't have them!"

Trevor raised an eyebrow and almost cracked up.

Lemuel had no idea what he was getting himself into that he even offered Cecelia a ride.

"Do you want to come with us back to the hotel, Cecelia?"

Cecelia cast a playful glance at Trevor before turning Lemuel's offer down. "No, thanks. I'd better go back with the others."

Cecelia caught on to what was happening when she remembered Trevor asking her about Lemuel after the elevator incident earlier.

If her hunch was correct, Lemuel would be in trouble.

Lemuel frowned at Cecelia's refusal, but he still hopped in the car excitedly.

He even poked his head out of the car window to give Trevor the finger, completely
