

Chapter 916 Someone Is Peeping

The bronze statue had a light grey interior. It was only deformed, not broken under Trevor's stick.

It was made of metal.

With vigilance, Trevor examined the material.

If he wasn't mistaken, it was lead.

His pupils dilated and his breathing came into a halt.

Lead was used to block radiation.

His intuition told him that his theory was correct.

Gazing at the bronze statues, Trevor's heart sank.

How many dangerous items did Rudolph and Isaias bring? Maybe this warehouse was just one of the places wherein they hid their stuff.

Did they intend to use radiation to harm people when the entire Sanderson family were expected to attend the meeting?

The thought of it gave Trevor goose bumps.

Rudolph was a dangerous man. He was like a poisonous snake hidden in the dark.

His methods were more lethal than Trevor had anticipated.

Who would have thought that he would bring radioactive statues to Zayden?

The Sanderson family reunion was happening soon.

But radioactive statues were placed near the castle of the Sanderson family, and this made Trevor ill at ease.

Thinking of this, Trevor couldn't help but pace back and forth in front of the warehouse.

Suddenly, he felt a presence not far away.

Someone was secretly peeping at the warehouse.

"Damn it!" Although his heart was beating fast, Trevor still rushed over to see who it was.

The person peeping at the warehouse was shocked to see Trevor approaching. He quickly stood up and ran away.

"Stop!" Trevor shouted.

The first thing he thought was that Rudolph assigned this man to secretly guard the warehouse. If Rudolph found out that Trevor investigated the warehouse behind his back, no one knew what would happen.

All Trevor's efforts in the past would be in vain. Therefore, Trevor ran after the man like he was running for his life.

But the man was also fast. He even accelerated when he heard Trevor shout. The man was as nimble as a monkey. Since he was familiar with the surroundings, he easily fled to dark areas and blocked Trevor from using the shelves.

The gap between the two men grew wider and wider.

The large warehouse was barely lit. If someone who was not familiar with this place ran aimlessly, he might hit the shelf and hurt himself.

"Damn!" Trevor cursed.

Through the dark, he could see faintly see the man in front of him, the shelves, and all kinds of goods.

But as seconds passed, Trevor was losing sight of him.

That person was quick, and most importantly, he was familiar with the surroundings.

"Go back!"

A loud voice suddenly came from the darkness.

Then Trevor noticed a figure fly back and fall to the floor, covering his chest and groaning.

At the same time, Bradly ran over from a corner. Trevor was ecstatic since Bradly helped him catch the evasive man.

"Let me see where you can go!" Bradly scolded as he twisted the man's arms behind his back.

Meanwhile, Trevor, who was exhausted from all the running, took a few deep breaths to relax.

Then he asked Bradly, "Why are you here?"

Bradly gave him a small smile. "I found this man sneaking around just now. I guessed that there must be something wrong with him. So I watched him in secret. I didn't expect this guy to be so fast. He almost got away from us."
