

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 1899

Chapter 1899

"You won't get away!"

The two Golans' guards scoffed.

They were both in the Emperor State and were far superior in terms of speed when compared to Iris.

As soon as Iris opened the car door, one of the guards reached out and grabbed Iris by the shoulder, effectively restraining her.

"It's over!" Seeing how her plan to escape failed, Iris's expression darkened as she was retrained once again.

She heard footsteps approaching and Seth was hurrying outside, all the while suppressing the pain of his injury.

He sighed a breath of relief when he saw that Iris was captured by the guards.

"Iris Young, you b*tch! How dare you attack me?! You must have a death wish!" Seth was livid and strode over viciously.

"W- What do you want?" Fear overwhelmed Iris when she sensed Seth's anger.

She knew that she provoked Seth by injuring him and since she was once again captured, she was bound to suffer for her actions.

"B*tch, I'm going to destroy you!" Enraged, Seth raised his arm to slap Iris across the ace.

"You-" Iris paled and her heart sank as she uncontrollably thought of Leon.

Leon would always appear before her whenever she was in danger, but the current circumstances were different as both Snow and Iris were captured, and Leon was only one man.

Though Iris left a trail behind, Leon might not be able to make it to her in time; even if he did manage to arrive in time, there were countless formidable martial artists guarding the Golans Mansion and since the Golans were far more powerful than the Libertons and Scammells, Leon could hardly fight everyone on his own.

If Leon arrived on his own, not only would he fail to rescue her, he might be captured alongside Iris.

Iris's heart was instantly filled with despite, and that was when things took a sharp turn.

Following noises of something piercing through the air, three daggers darted toward Seth.

"What the-" Seth was stunned and jumped in fear when he turned around to spot the daggers.

He wanted to move away but was slowed down by his injury and the daggers were simply approaching at too high a speed, so he could only watch as they approached.

"Mister Seth, watch out!" Two of the Golans' guards gaped.

One of them acted swiftly and stood before Seth to block the daggers.