Chapter 1903

"Leon, it's been some time since Snow was captured. You need to get to her before it's too late," Iris said worriedly.

"Yeah. I know. Let's go!" Leon wrapped his arm around Iris and charged outside.

He knew that Iris was right and it was not the time for him to act on impulse.

Though he had more than enough tricks and had nothing to fear from the Golans, the Golans were a far more powerful family compared to the Scammells and the Libertons. If he insisted on hurting Seth, the Golans would have time to assemble and surround him, making it more challenging for Leon and Iris to escape.

Should that happen, Snow would remain in danger.

Rescuing Snow was their priority at the moment before anything bad happened to her, so Leon decided that he could always make Seth pay for what he did when he had the chance in the future.

"You won't get away!" Seth's eyes lit up and sneered when he saw Leon running away with Iris in his arms.

Though he had no clue as to how Leon found him, he knew that breaking into a house to injure someone was a great crime in the community of martial artists.

Not only did Leon break into the Golans Mansion, but he also injured a few members of the family and no matter the motive behind his actions, Leon was at fault.

Even if the Golans killed Leon by mistake, their actions could be justified and they would not have to worry about facing the Thompsons' wrath afterward.

In conclusion, it was the best chance for the Golans to get rid of Leon and Seth refused to let it slip.

"Noah, stall him, and don't let him get away! I'm going to gather everyone here. He isn't walking out of here alive today!" Seth commanded coldly.

"Yes!" Noah said, before darting toward Leon.

Leon was in the Peak Overlord State and could not compare with Noah in terms of speed, not to mention when he was carrying Iris.

Before he had the chance to get out of the yard, Noah caught up with him.

"Take this, kid!* Noah roared, before launching a punch from behind Leon's back.

"Damn, you!" Leon was furious.

He was already on the edge of an outburst since Seth captured Iris, and Seth should have considered himself lucky that Leon was in a hurry to leave to rescue Snow.

Not only was Seth not grateful for the chance, but he also insisted on holding Leon in the Golans Mansion.

For a moment, Leon lost control of his anger and turned around to counter Noah's attack.

Noah knew that Leon had a defensive tool and would never face Leon directly, so he simply dodged Leon's attack with a case, before targeting Iris instead to stall Leon.

"Damn it!" Furious, Leon gave up on taking a defensive position and titled his body to face the Mirror of Sovereign toward the attack, but Noah did not fall for it and simply changed his position again.

Noah continued to skilfully attack and retreat, and since Leon fell short in speed, he could not escape Noah even though he would not get hurt under the protection of the Mirror of Sovereign.
