

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 1970

Chapter 1970

"I know!" "But Gordon is still my husband in the end. What will I do in the future if you kill him?" Dawn said with reddened eyes. Tears started to fall.

"Dawn, listen to me. Gordon is an incredibly vile and evil man. He's not worthy of you at all! He dared to poison me this time. In the future, he might end up harming you just for the sake of his benefits. He might even end up harming the whole family! In the end, with how powerful our family is and how amazing you are, you won't have a difficult time finding a new husband without him! You don't have to cry for someone like him. He's not worth it!" Darius said weakly.

"Yes, Darius is right! Someone like Gordon will only bring disaster if we keep him around. You never know what he's thinking! Whether it's for the sake of your future or the sake of the family, I have to kill him today!" Alan said with murderous intent. His tone was very firm, leaving no room for doubt!

"But-"

Dawn was still reluctant to give up. However, before he could say anything, Alan interrupted him!

"There is nothing else to talk about! Men, bring Dawn away!" Alan coldly said to the experts from the Hughes.

"Yes!"

A few of the experts acknowledged the order. Two of them walked forward and pulled Dawn away.

"How could this be?"

Seeing as Dawn's pleading was useless, Gordon felt despair. His heart immediately sank.

However, when he saw Joel, who was standing not far away, he suddenly felt some hope in his heart!

"Mister Hiltons, please help me!"

Gordon hurriedly asked Joel for help.

He knew that the Hiltons were one of the major families in the Southern region. They were very comparable to the Hughes!

As long as Joel and the Hiltons were willing to protect him, he would still stand a chance!

"That-"

Joel's heart skipped a beat.

He did not expect Gordon to ask him for help. It caught him by surprise.

However, Seth and him already decided to give up on Gordon!

Gordon trying to poison Darius already deeply angered the Hughes!

He had no reason to make an enemy of the Hughes for someone as insignificant as Gordon!

He was not that stupid!

So, he looked away, acting like he did not hear Gordon at all!

"You-"

Gordon looked like he had a bucket of cold water poured over him when he saw that Joel was not going to help. He lost all hope!

He finally understood that he was probably discarded by Joel!

Suddenly, he felt like the sliver of hope he had just now was completely extinguished!

"Gordon, no one can save you today! Just accept your death!" Alan said angrily.

After that, he no longer wasted anytime as he raised his hand and aimed it at Gordon's head, slamming it down without any mercy!

"Grandfather, wait!"

"I still have something to say. I was ordered by someone else," Gordon said in a hurry when he realized that his life was in danger. He tried to make one last struggle.

"What? Who was the one that ordered you?" Alan was shocked to hear that. His fist stopped in the air.

"It's Joel! He was the one who ordered me and Seth to attack Iris and Snow. I was just blinded by him, and that led to me poisoning Darius!"

Gordon said viciously. After that, he explained the situation.

He was always a petty person. Since Joel was not going to help him, he started to hate Joel!

Since Joel was not going to be honorable, he would not be either!
