

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 2452

Chapter 2452

"It's fine. Elder Morrison, the chairman has left me in charge of this matter before I come to the western region. There's no way that you're getting fifty percent of the profit!" Leon said decisively.

"What do you propose, then?" Caleb's expression darkened as he was displeased by how difficult Leon was being.

"I'll repeat: if the Morrisons want to work with Cynthion Group, the profit will be divided by twenty-eighty! The Morrisons will have access to twenty percent of Cynthion Group's total profit made in the western region, but you will have no company share!" Leon said.

He initially planned to offer the Morrisons thirty percent of the profit as a gesture of courtesy. However, the Morrisons remained arrogant and greedy without any respect for the Cynthion Group.

It was clear that they did not treasure this opportunity.

Leon was mild-tempered but was still enraged by their attitude. Hence, he did not hold back and insisted on offering the Morrisons twenty percent of the profit.

If the Morrisons were willing to accept it, an agreement could be formed, but if they refused, Leon could simply search for another family to cooperate with.

Just like the southern region, there were plenty of powerful families in the area and the Morrisons were not his only option.

Considering the market value and influence of Cynthion Group, partnered with the magical effects of the alchemical pills, Leon was certain that other families would be pleased to work with him.

"Twenty-eighty? No way. That's too little. We won't agree to this!" Jayden chimed in, clearly displeased with Leon's terms.

"He's right!"

"Cynthion Group's offering too little. They don't respect us!"

"The Morrisons won't accept this!"

The elders were all furious as well and agreed along with Jayden.

"Elder Morrison, we can still be friends even if we don't do business with one another. Since the Morrisons don't want to collaborate, I won't overstay my welcome. Goodbye!" Seeing as the others continued to act arrogantly, Leon could not be bothered and stood to leave.

"Wait! Mister Wolf! Don't go!" Shocked, Hugo immediately stopped him.

"Grandpa, the alchemical pills in Cynthion Group work magic and they are respected in the southern region. I saw that with my own eyes! Mister Wolf proposed to divide the profit this way not because he disrespects us, but because we'll be gaining a tremendous amount of money even if we are getting twenty percent of the total profit." Hugo turned to Caleb.

He was the only one who had been to Cynthion Group's sales drive so no one knew just how profitable Cynthion Group's business was other than him.

According to what he saw, a single sales drive would get Cynthion Group a profit of 437 million or even more.

Though the Morrisons were the most powerful family in the western region with a total worth of a few billion, their annual profit was around 100 million. Collaborating with Cynthion Group would bring forth 650 million profit annually or even more.
