

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 2180

Chapter 2180

"How are you feeling now, Chandler? Have you gotten cured? " Henry was stunned by the sight of Chandler strutting around without his cane. He knew full well how severe Chandler's injury was; he got crippled during combat against the Scarlet Thief and had a minuscule if any at all, chance of recovering!

He never once imagined that Leon would be able to cure Chandler with just a few minutes of pressure point treatment!

He never saw such an impressive feat before, and he would never have believed it to be true if he did not witness it with his own two eyes!

"Yes, more or less. Apart from some prickling sensation in my calf, everything seems to be fine," Chandler replied in excitement. He was grinning from ear to ear in sheer joy, a stark contrast from his hostility as displayed before.

He finally realized that Leon told the truth and that he was truly capable of curing him entirely!

However, he jumped to conclusions and underestimated this young man!

"Elder Quinn, the prickling sensation you mentioned is a result of longstanding nerve damage, and to fix this, I need to get my hands on a two-hundred-year-old Panax ginseng with other valuable herbs. Unfortunately, I don't have them with me now and thus cannot begin treating you yet, but don't worry, I'll return once I've gathered the necessary ingredients and continue treating you. In a week, or ten days at most, your leg will be as good as new," Leon explained, smiling.

"Splendid! I mean. President Wolf, thank you for curing me! I'll keep your kindness to heart and forever be grateful for your help," Chandler's delight was written all over his face. With that, he gave Leon a bow to display his gratitude.

"Don't thank me, Elder Quinn! Now that I've already started curing your leg, I'll continue to do so until you've fully recovered! Of course, keeping in mind our agreement just now, I sincerely hope you'll stick to your end of the promise and join Cynthion Group," Leon tried to change the subject.

"Um," Chandler felt all his joy and excitement dissipate at the mention of this.

"What's wrong? Is there a problem?" Leon could not help wondering when he sensed Chandler's hesitation.

"President Wolf, I'm afraid I won't be able to do that," Chandler finally muttered after some hesitation.

"You won't be able to do that? Why? Are you going back on your word?" Leon asked sharply. He initially thought that after curing Chandler, he would stick to his word and join Cynthion Group. He never once imagined that Chandler would turn back on his promise!

This was way beyond his expectations, and he could not help feeling displeased at Chandler for this!

"What's going on, Chandler? How can you betray Mister Wolf like this when he's been so kind to you?" Henry was equally as displeased by this. He was friends with Chandler for so long that he knew how highly Chandler held his integrity, so he could not understand why Chandler would do such a thing!

"President Wolf, please hear me out. I'm not trying to go back on my word. It's just that the Scarlet Thief is so powerful and so ruthless. I'm worried my joining Cynthion Group will bring you only harm and chaos. You've been so kind as to cure my leg for me, and I can't possibly repay you with this," Chandler explained, sighing.
