

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss Chapter 1686

/ The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss

Chapter 1686 Be Mentally Prepared Clayton frowned slightly.

His arm around her shoulder tightened, and his voice was firm and low.

"It's okay. It'll be okay."

Clayton did not forget to take Nicole's phone before they left. He had never seen her so frazzled before. Her eyes were blank, which made his heart tighten.

Nicole's body was stiff and trembling.

She really hoped that it was a false alarm.

However, she also knew that Kai would never joke about Floyd's health.

Nicole trembled and wanted to call Kai to ask about the specifics, but Kai was also in a hurry. There was a lot of background noise, so she simply could not hear him clearly. Daily new chapters in Clayton comforted her with his deep voice.

"Don't be scared, Nicole. We'll be there soon."

He noticed her subconsciously tightened hands and immediately held them.

The driver drove very fast, and they arrived at the hospital in just ten minutes.

Grant's people were downstairs to pick them up.

Nicole followed with an unpleasant expression and saw Grant and Kai standing there, talking to Director Sven with a glum expression on their faces. Aida also looked sorrowful.

Floyd was still hale and hearty when Nicole last saw him. He even wanted to go fishing every day.

Nicole quickly ran over. "Uncle Sven, how's my dad?"

She was in a trance, but she could feel the bad premonition in her heart.

Director Sven sighed, looked at Grant, and then at Nicole.

“Ms. Stanton, you should be mentally prepared. Your father’s heart surgery fifteen years ago was successful, but recently, his health has been deteriorating day by day. Last night, his heartbeat suddenly accelerated. Daily new chapters in When he was taken to the hospital, he had another cardiac arrest. That’s not a good sign. All of his vitals are within the normal range, but heart problems aren’t a minor issue.”

Nicole pursed her lips. Her face was completely pale.

For so many years, Floyd had been living so simply and easily that she forgot that he had only come off the operating table after a narrow escape from death.

She stammered, “Then what do we do? What are we supposed to do now?”

Nicole was genuinely panicked. She could only put all her hopes on the doctor. Grant spoke up calmly from the side. “Let’s wait for the results to come out first. A comprehensive examination is being conducted right now. There was just a preliminary feeling that something wrong was happening. I’ve already asked the team of experts from Liberty to rush over. They’ll arrive in the afternoon at the earliest.”

Director Sven nodded and hesitated.

“That’s great, but...”

He paused and looked at Grant. ‘I don’t know if you remember, but the person who operated on your father fifteen years ago is the person who understands your father’s physical condition the best. If we can get him to come over personally, it would be the best.’

The surgery back then was considered very difficult in Mediana.

With the reputation and prestige of Stanton Corporation, it was not difficult to invite one of the world’s top experts to come for a consultation.

Thus, Stanton Corporation spent a lot of money to hire a team with a lot of experience in heart diseases to save the dying Floyd. Since then, they have been at ease for fifteen years.

Now, they almost forgot about the forces they mobilized in the past. Kai and Nicole’s eyes lit up. Nicole then looked at Grant.

“Big Brother, what are you waiting for? Hurry up and contact the people from fifteen years ago...”

Grant frowned, and his deep and gloomy gaze darkened.

He pursed his lips and did not speak for a while. To the side, Aida covered her slightly bulging belly. She walked over and could not help but speak up.

"Lil N, don't be anxious. Your brother contacted them immediately, but..."

Aida gritted her teeth and told Nicole the harsh truth.

"But not long ago, that doctor died in a car accident."

After those words were said, the surroundings were plunged into silence. Even Director Sven's eyes were clouded with a layer of gloom.

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss Chapter 1687

/ The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss
Chapter 1687 It's Very Bad

There was a moment of silence.

Kai held his head in his hands, and there was some impatience in his tone. "Isn't there anyone else?"

Grant glanced at him, suppressing the panic and helplessness in his gaze. He looked restrained and serious.

"Let's wait for the results first. If it's just a simple surgery, the current medical team I contacted should be able to handle it. It's not a big problem."

Director Sven nodded. "That's right. We still have forty minutes. I'll go and rush them."

Then, he turned around and went inside.

The rest of the people seemed to have stopped breathing. There was not the slightest sound in the entire room.

Clayton walked over and hugged Nicole, making her sit on the sofa. She looked like she could faint at any moment

Kai could not help but pace back and forth and could not calm down at all. Daily new chapters in

On a rare occasion, Kai went home last night. Floyd came back after fishing as usual and scolded him. Kai even retorted loudly and went to bed.

When it was almost dawn, Kai heard the butler's panicked shout at home.

This was the time when the butler would wake Floyd up from bed. However, in the large mansion, only the butler's loud screams could be heard.

Kai ran over when he heard the sound and saw the butler fumbling for his phone.

When Mr. Anderson saw Kai, his eyes reddened.

Even at this moment, it felt so unreal.

How could the person who was scolding Kai just a few hours ago be hospitalized in the blink of an eye?

The rest of the time was spent waiting, and every second felt like torture.

Nicole could not sit still and stood by Floyd's door, watching. It was as if she could see through the thick wall and see her father's suffering.

At that thought, she wanted to cry even more.

Clayton stood by and watched. Forty minutes later, the results came out.

The best advice given by Director Sven's team was to re-operate.

However, considering Floyd's current physical condition, the risk of surgery was several times higher than that of fifteen years ago, so it was extremely risky.

If they did not opt for surgery, then Floyd would be in danger of cardiac arrest at any moment. For a while, everyone was immersed in this sorrowful atmosphere again. Daily new chapters in Aida stayed in the hospital for too long and felt a little unwell, so Grant arranged for her to rest in another room.

The remaining four people sat together and discussed.

Nicole's heart was in turmoil. She naturally supported the surgery, but the risks of the surgery could not be ignored.

Grant came back after answering a call, sighed in relief, and comforted Kai and Nicole.

"Don't worry. The experts' arrival went well. We'll listen to their professional advice."

Nicole nodded with red eyes.

Kai paused. "I just called Maverick. He's on an expedition to the Antarctic and won't be back for a while, but he has applied to come back."

Grant looked at him and frowned. "His situation is special. You..."

The words of blame that were about to be spoken were held back. Kai did not do anything wrong.

What if Maverick lost this opportunity and there was no next time?

Their family should be together at a time like this.

Nicole smiled. "We haven't seen Mav in a long time anyway. Dad misses him too..."

Kai shrugged nonchalantly.

It was obvious that everyone was pretending to be relaxed.

Clayton sighed and silently went out to make a phone call. No one noticed him.

In the afternoon, the expert team came over.

Floyd was fully examined for the second time. This time, not even a single detail was missed.

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss Chapter 1688

/ The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss

Chapter 1688 A Replacement

However, when they came out, their expressions were solemn and not very pleasant.

"Mr. Sloan, the chairman's health isn't good. Although the surgery fifteen years ago was successful, the valves of his heart have been damaged and are blocking the blood vessels, so the risk is extremely high. The best recommendation now is to operate."

Grant pursed his lips. His gaze was sunken and cold, "What's the success rate if you handle the surgery?"

The expert held his forehead and shrugged very honestly. "-40% This isn't an ordinary heart bypass surgery. It isn't even a simple surgery. It involves various aspects of linking and connecting vessels, and we can't cut open his heart to study the surgical procedure fifteen years ago, so we can't rule out any unexpected risks when conducting the surgery."

Plus, if it were an ordinary person, the success rate they gave might be a little higher

However, faced with the pressure from the Stanton family, they did not have that confidence.

The air froze for a moment.

Nicole looked up at that expert. "Then what if someone else did this surgery? Who would you recommend?"

There would always be experts and top talents in various fields that were well-respected, right?

That expert glanced at Nicole approvingly and smiled. Daily new chapters in

"Felix Ferguson. He's currently the top talent in the world for cardiology. The most important thing is that he's the apprentice of the attending physician who performed the surgery for Chairman Stanton fifteen years ago."

Everyone's eyes widened at once.

The expert continued, "He studied this heart condition relapsing with his mentor more than once in the past. He's very experienced and well-read. If he performs the surgery, I think the possibility of the surgery being successful will be very high."

All they heard was that Felix Ferguson was the apprentice of the attending surgeon who operated on Floyd fifteen years ago.

This meant that they were one step closer to success.

Nicole looked at Grant excitedly. Kai also looked at Grant.

"What are we waiting for? Hurry up and contact that person..."

Grant paused before nodding hesitantly and looking at the expert.

"How is your relationship with Felix Ferguson? Can you introduce us?"

If they could be introduced through someone Felix knew well, the result would be better,

The expert readily agreed of course I have a good relationship with him. I'll call him now."

Everyone sighed in relief

To the side, Clayton frowned, "That person's name sounds a little familiar..."

He spoke so softly that Nicole did not catch what he said. "What?"

"Nothing."

Clayton shook his head with a smile. It was best if they could find a doctor.

He hoped that he was just overthinking

Before long, the expert came in with a blank and bewildered face.

"I'm sorry, but he refused me. He declined to come to Mediania to operate on Chairman Stanton."

Grant's eyes instantly became cold and stern.

Nicole was stunned, "What? He can state any condition he wants. We'll agree to them."

The expert was also confused.

"I already told him the situation, but he still refused me very decisively. Daily new chapters in No matter what conditions I put out, he said that he would not operate on anyone from the Stanton family."

Grant's expression was very glum.

Nicole was also pale. She frowned slightly. "Why?"

The expert shook his head. He also did not know why. In his impression, Felix was a professional who also loved fame and fortune.

If Felix could operate on Floyd, the benefits he could get might be higher than his remuneration.

Grant's gaze flashed. He frowned and immediately took out his phone. "I'll have someone investigate it."

Clayton suddenly spoke from the side.

"No need. I know this person."

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress

Boss Chapter 1689

/ The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss
Chapter 1689 The Only Brother-In-Law

in His Heart Everyone looked at Clayton.

Clayton's face was grave. "Felix is Eric Ferguson's uncle, Charles Ferguson's cousin. He's a member of the Ferguson family."

The sentence was like a boulder that crumbled and shattered on them.

The relationship between the Stantons and Fergusons was stiff, so there was no way Felix Ferguson would treat Floyd.

When met with hope, despair lurked around the corner.

Kai suddenly stood up. "I'll go and drag him here! Even if I have to force him, I'll make him come over!"

There was no time to worry about anything else now. Nothing was as important as Floyd's life.

Grant frowned and looked at him in dissatisfaction.

"Even if you tie him to the operating table, will he be obedient? Don't forget that he's the main surgeon. Any little accident during the operation can easily be fatal."

Therefore, not only did they have to make Felix come willingly, but they also have to make him come without any mental burden.

That was too difficult.

Grant glanced at Nicole and hesitated. In the end, despite Clayton's presence, Grant still calmly spoke.

"Eric might have a way."

Right now, using Eric's guilt to get Felix to operate on Floyd was the best option.

However, they clearly wanted to draw a clear line with the Ferguson family and did not want to deal with them anymore.

Putting aside Nicole's good relationship with Clayton, even if it were someone else, they would never give even the slightest chance to Eric ever again.

However, if they took the initiative to contact Eric, he would definitely have something over them.

If Eric took the opportunity to mention any conditions, would they agree or refuse?

Clayton was silent with a grim expression, as if deep in thought.

Nicole's heart sank. When she heard that name, she subconsciously felt disgusted.

It was an uncomfortable feeling.

Grant sighed. "I'll contact him. If he wants to make conditions, I'll see to it as long as they're not too excessive."

After he finished, Grant pushed the door open and walked out.

Only if he stepped in would Eric feel like negotiating.

Kai looked at Nicole and Clayton, then lowered his head without saying anything.

After a while, the doctor came to say that Floyd had woken up, so Nicole hurriedly went over.

Claytons sat there, unmoving. Kai also wanted to go over, but he thought about how rough Nicole's relationship was. It had not been easy to find someone who listened. If Clayton broke up with her because of this matter, it would be a pity.

Thinking that way, Kai resisted his footsteps of going to see Floyd and went to Clayton instead.

"Brother-in-law..."

Clayton's eyelids twitched, and he subconsciously raised his head.

Kai patted his shoulder. Before he thought out his script, his mouth had already spoken all the words he wanted to say.

"Don't fight with my sister because of this matter. This is all for my dad, and we're doing this out of convenience. Nothing's more important than my dad's life, right?"

A few seconds later, Clayton's frown loosened. He understood what Kai meant.

"Of course, I understand. Nothing else is important now. If Eric can really persuade Felix to operate on Uncle Floyd, Nicole will be happy, and so will I."

Kai sighed in relief. He could not help but sigh when he looked at Clayton, who was still so understanding.

“That’s good. In my heart, you’re my one and only brother-in-law!”

Clayton smiled warmly and nodded. “Thank you.”

Kai turned around reassuringly and went to look for Nicole.

Nicole would be so touched if she knew that Kai was so worried about her relationship.

Clayton sat alone in the room, and silence gradually engulfed him.

Suddenly, he thought of something and took out his phone to call Roland.

“I remember investing in an R&D patent for a medical team researching heart diseases a few years ago....”

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss Chapter 1690

/ The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss
Chapter 1690 Eric Ferguson’s Uncle

Roland had not yet come to his senses when he received Clayton’s call, but he remembered that there was indeed such a matter.

A few years ago, various countries attached great importance to the medical industry, and they took the lead in investing in various specialties.

That naturally included cardiology. Daily new chapters in

Roland responded blankly, “Yes, but as you know, medical research and development is slow, and profits aren’t objective. Although you’ve been throwing money into it all these years, there are only a few times they were able to recover the capital...”

Even so, they could not give up halfway. This kind of investment was good news to all of mankind. It was an opportunity to make progress for the entire human race.

Clayton interrupted his report and immediately asked.

“Who spearheaded the team for cardiology research?”

Roland immediately recalled. "Professor Phillip? But he passed away a few days ago due to a car accident. The one who took over now is his apprentice, Felix Ferguson..."

He only had a simple understanding of these things. After all, they were just investors.

They would not intervene in who was in charge of the team.

Thus, the change of power and authority within the team was managed internally.

The investors were only interested in the projects and outcomes.

Clayton's face changed a few times, and his tone became deep and unfamiliar.

"Felix is a member of the Ferguson family? He's Eric Ferguson's uncle, right?"

Daily new chapters in When Clayton first got the information about this team, he had a general understanding of the team's structure.

Felix was Phillip's assistant and had excellent abilities.

The other assistants were also quite good, but it was because of Felix's family background that made an impression on Clayton.

Roland paused. "That's right."

Clayton's memory was much better than Roland's. However, at the mention of the Ferguson family, Roland instantly became vigilant.

Clayton said, "Go investigate something for me..."

In Floyd's ward.

Floyd was hooked up to all kinds of tubes. In just one night, Floyd seemed to have lost a lot of hair, and he looked like he aged more than a decade.

Nicole was heartbroken at the sight and could not help but sob as she lay her head on his arm.

"Don't cry, Lil N. Daddy's fine."

Floyd's voice when he spoke was not as energetic as before. Nicole became even more heartbroken when she heard him.

She sobbed and looked up at her father with a firm gaze.

"Dad, ru find you the best doctor. I'll definitely cure you." Floyd sighed with a look of resignation.

"I've already lived to this age, so it doesn't matter. Daily new chapters in I thought that was it for me fifteen years ago, but I ended up living fifteen more years. That's enough for me. You should try to accept that too."

Nicole opened her mouth, but tears streamed down her face before she could speak.

Before she could say anything, the door behind opened, and Kai went over. He sat on Floyd's hospital bed and sobbed.

"Dad... What other wishes do you have? I'll definitely fulfill them for you. I'll never make you angry again!"

Nicole looked at this scene and was instantly shocked speechless.

The next second, she saw Floyd's miserably pale face tinge red as if he was furious. His lips were trembling. If Floyd was not lying on the bed with Kai pressing down on his body, he would have swung his fist at Kai the next second.

"You little sh*t. Get out of here!"

Floyd gasped in anger, gritting his teeth and glaring at Kai. The cozy atmosphere from seeing Nicole came to an abrupt end with Kai's presence.

Kai did not understand and looked up blankly. "Dad, at a time like this, you should stop scolding me. Lil N and I both love you the same. Even if you're biased, I won't get angry with you!"