

Arabella 108

Chapter 108

"Long time no see, Miss Serena! You've brought gifts again!"

"Did you get them from that fancy hotel down the street? Their stuff's a bit too rich for our blood. Makes us feel guilty eating it."

"We're so lucky to have you, Miss Serena. You keep treating us to these gourmet delicacies."

"Even after all this time, you're still a knockout, Miss Serena!"

"We're seriously blessed to have a boss like you! Not only are you generous and stunning, but you've also got talents that put other heiresses to shame."

Serena smiled at their compliments, then laughed and pretended to be mad, "There's no honey in the afternoon tea, but you all surely know how to lay it on thick." "Miss Serena, you just keep getting more beautiful. Could you share your secret?"

One of the receptionists stared at Serena, resting her chin in her hands, admiring her flawless skin without a single pimple to be seen.

"Don't get your hopes up. The skincare products Miss Serena uses are probably too expensive for us."

As Serena listened to their chit-chat, about to say something, she noticed they all suddenly stood up, frantically fixing themselves up, and respectfully greeted, "Good afternoon, Mr. McMillian!"

see

"Romeo—"

could approach him, several senior staff rushed over, bombarding Romeo with urgent matters, then swiftly heading towards Serena's way, "Miss Serena, you're looking

no one heard tea for Romeo. And for you too, Carl. I wanted to discuss something with Romeo." Serena glanced at the retreating figure, a little really need to has urgent matters to attend

wait for him."

while for Romeo to finish up. Perhaps you could go home first, Miss Serena. You can always call or upstairs. There are some things I want to tell him in her, "If there's something you need, Miss Serena, you can tell me. I can relay was getting on Serena's nerves. But considering her position, she smiled and said, "Carl, do you plan on blocking my way indefinitely?" "I apologize. I just didn't want you to no matter how long he's busy, I'll wait." Serena deftly sidestepped Carl and headed

A

Carl felt unease. He knew that Romeo only had eyes for Miss Bella and