

Arabella 1604

Chapter 1604

In the past, vacations for Serena were bustling with life, as her friends would flock to her place, a giggling gaggle ready for fun. They'd hit up the local diner, catch the latest flick at the cinema, or pamper themselves with a spa day.

But this winter break, she found herself confined to the walls of her home.

Confined for so long that she and her friends barely crossed paths.

"I actually thought she realized her mistake and was considering giving her another chance. But it turns out, apologies are just part of her routine. They are just empty words."

Serena had sounded so sincere that Kenneth nearly fell for it!

Louisa was heartbroken and disappointed, never imagining Serena could turn out this way!

It was utterly disheartening!

too lenient sending her to the guesthouse to including the heartfelt message she had sent today were a scheme to escape the guesthouse and return to the main house, then her heart must didn't dare to think about it, because on closer thought, she realized Serena was nothing like the person in her memories.

left for home, or was it when Martha started stirring the and Mrs. Collins, I swear on my family's life that there is no falsehood in my words." Edith suddenly knelt down, raising her right hand to swear, "You treat me like your own, and Ms. Bella has always treated me with genuine respect and kindness. I can't bear to see you deceived any longer, and I can't your loyalty. Please stand up. The floor is cold." Louisa hurried to help her up, expressing her disappointment, "We had this image of her being gentle, well-mannered, and graceful, but now I'm starting to see her true to say they weren't disappointed and to Kenneth, "Let's not reply had always seen her as a daughter, intent to cover bullying their own

Serena waited in her room, time dragging on until Betty arrived with lunch, revealing she had been waiting for three whole hours!

Her parents weren't ones to sleep in; they'd rise with the sun, and by this hour, they should have been up and about, likely at lunch themselves.

Even if something urgent had come up, it was unthinkable that they'd leave her hanging without so much as a punctuation mark in reply.

What could be keeping Kenneth and Louisa so busy?

Could it be a poor network connection that they didn't receive her message?

It seemed unlikely; she had sent so many messages. It's unlikely that not a single one was received.

What could be the reason? Could Arabella be there, making it awkward for them to respond.?