

Chapter 101

Reins

"Who are you to demand to speak with a prisoner? What just causes you on the council you think it makes you god?"

Autumn's voice came from behind me, causing us to turn and look. But it wasn't only Autumn Gem who had come forward as well, but this time she wasn't angry. Instead, she looked to be calm.

She stepped forward. She placed her hands on her hips while holding her eyes on the man in front of us.

"No, I'm not god young lady, but the fact is, as council members hold higher ranks than anyone in a pack, including the Alpha and Luna."

"How so, this is our pack lands our territory. Our prisoner. The head council leader is coming to deal with the one who broke the law and oath. This isn't for a regular member to handle, as it is the law for a head leader to assign all punishments given to his followers."

She sounded so confident in her words. Never did she falter. Even Sophia and Keaton had surprised looks on their faces.

"Yes, but in an event such as this one. I do have the right to speak with him if he wishes to."

"Ahh, Yes shall we ask him if he wishes to speak with you because all I heard was you were demanding that you should have been told so you could speak with him."

The man just snarled at her words. He did not like the fact that she pointed out how wrong he was, but I was not letting him snarl at her like that, stepping in front of her. Letting my wolf come to the surface and feeling the rumble leave my chest

"You will not do that again. I'm ordering you to leave now. If you refuse, I will personally lock you in a cell so you can wait for the others. This is my pack and you will follow my rules and my orders."

Taking a few steps back, his face paled. I could feel the fur sprouting and going back to the skin on my arms. I am fed up with these people coming in thinking they can do whatever they want on my land and then having the nerve to snarl at my mate.

Stepping towards him as he stepped back, I felt a small hand loop around my arm. Snapping my head at the person, I knew it was her by the tingles that shot through my arm,

Leaning up on her toes, she whispers close to my ear,

"Calm down, my mate. " She says as she kisses my cheek, running her nose along my jaw, then back up to my ear.

"Even though I like this side of you, maybe we should just forget these people and go back to our room Alpha,"

"Gem!" I heard next and couldn't help but chuckle to myself.

Sliding an arm around her waist, pulling her straight against me, leaning my face close to hers.

"Don't tempt me little wolf, I will throw you over my shoulder and go upstairs and show you how much of an Alpha I can be."

Hearing a small purr leave her, it took all I had to hold back, but if Gem wanted to play, I could play right back. I had forgotten about the man who had driven me into a rage. All I heard was someone clearing their throats,

"Um, Alpha Luna?" It was Keaton. Looking at him, he stood there rubbing the back of his neck while Sophia just grinned at us.

I lifted my brows at him as he tipped his head toward the guy. Kissing her nose, I let her go and faced the annoying man.

Turning my attention back to the member. He stood frozen, his eyes held fear. Good. I liked seeing that he should be afraid,

"Have you decided?" I asked. Feeling annoyed that he was still standing there.

"I think I will return to my room for now and wait for the others." He stuttered out, peeking to the side and looking at the other one who sat quietly in his cell.

"I think that is a wise decision."

He spun on his heel, wasting no time in making his exit.

"Keaton."

"Alpha,"

"I want double guards at the entrance and keep all four guards stationed here at this cell."

"Yes, Alpha."

"Morgan,"

"Yes, Alpha,"

"If anyone other than me or Keaton comes down here, you will lock them in the next empty cell and notify me instantly."

"Yes, Alpha." She says, then turns clapping her hands at the others so they get into their spots,

Grabbing Autumn's hand and tugging her against me, I wrapped my arm around her back, leading her out of there,

Just as we reached the doors to go out, Zach came running up to us,

"Alpha. The other council members have arrived. Aunt Anna took them up to your office."

Groaning a little, I was becoming very annoyed with these people after what just went on. I wanted to be alone with my little mate.

Hearing a small giggle, I looked down to see her laughing.

"Looks like you are gonna have to wait, Mr. Alpha," she whispered.

Everyone busted out laughing. She must not have said it as low as she thought!

"I'll be there in a minute."

Zach bowed and then spun around, taking off for the house. I'm sure he didn't wait to hear what I had planned for his sister,

"Come, Sophia, let's go." Keaton grabs her hand, pulling her off with him all while holding his laughter in.

"Wait for me Sophia," Autumn calls out as she tries to take off.

"Oh no you don't," I grabbed her around her waist, pulling her so her back flushed against my front.

I got close to her ear, letting my breath linger there for a moment. I felt her body shudder.

"Where did you think you were going?"

"You have people that you need to attend to Alpha,"

Growling lowly at her words, I pulled her tighter against me. I don't know what it was, but every time she called me that, it was driving me and my wolf crazy. Just the sound of her voice while she said it was the biggest turn-on, I could feel my wolf prancing in my head. It was affecting him just as badly as me, And the fact Gem was still present was making it even harder for us,

"Keep calling me that little one and we may just have to skip this meeting."

She started giggling and turning in my arms. She slid her little hands up my chest and around my neck.

"Is that a threat or a promise, Alpha," She started to kiss my jaw. I know this is mostly Gem, as my Autumn is more conserved.

too, being more in private than out in the open, but I also like this open side once in a while. Let people see and know how much we love each other and it shows the males linger about that she is all mine,

"Its a promise,"

Leaning down, I captured her lips. Sliding my hand up behind her neck, fisting my fingers in her hair, I deepened the kiss and licked her bottom lip. She parted her lips instantly. I waste no time. I invaded her mouth, tasting every inch of it. She let out a small moan which earned a growl from me. I turned her and walked her backwards until her back hit the wall.

Letting go of her hair, I let my hands slide down her body till they were at her hips leaning down a bit. I didn't break the kiss. I grabbed her behind her thighs, lifting her. She wrapped her legs around my waist, keeping one hand under her leg. I grabbed her neck, putting a little pressure. Not enough to hurt her. Kissing her a little rougher, she grabbed my hair, pulling it just a little,

Breaking the kiss so we both could breathe, I moved to her neck, kissing and nibbling at it. Reaching her mark, I bit down a little harder.

"Reins", she gasped out.

Pushing my hip forward a bit, I wanted her to feel me. I could feel the heat from her through our clothes,

It was starting to get heavy and quick if we didn't stop. I was not going to keep control. I would end up ripping her clothes off and taking her right there against the building out in the open.

She pulled my hair, making my head tip back. She latched ahold of my lips with hers again.

Even though I'm thoroughly enjoying this, I know Autumn would be embarrassed if something more happened out in the open,

Breaking the kiss. She looked at me, her eyes completely black,

"Maybe we should stop before we get too carried away."

She blinked a few times then tilted her head to the side,

"What's the matter?" Her forehead scrunched up a bit.

"Nothing, I just didn't think you would enjoy me taking you while holding you against the wall of a building and we are out in the open."

Leaning forward, she kissed my lips softly, then taking her tongue, she tracked them. Letting her lips rub against my cheek as she slid closer to my ear.

"Then maybe you should take me somewhere, my Alpha."
