

Life Debt 1041

Chapter 1041

Jay then continued in his attractive voice, “Zoe disappeared from my life ever since. I never went looking for her, nor did she come back to me—it seemed that we vanished from each other’s lives after our most intimate moment.

“However, we met again on the production stage of Actors on Set, when she made her return to showbiz. I was as overjoyed as I felt stressed when I saw her, because I did not dare to reveal to her how I felt, in fear of her disgust. However, I underestimate her influence on me... I couldn’t stop myself from getting close to her, to keep looking at her. Even if I didn’t want to impose on her life, my heart was plagued with a crazed obsession to bring her back to my side.”

“I’d always thought that destiny had been good to me, and I was offered light at the end of the tunnel because I met Yelena, this adorable girl on a certain day, who turned out to be Zoe’s daughter. I was afraid to believe that she was my daughter, but I certainly desired to be her daddy. So, when Zoe was exposed to being raising a child, I went to her immediately.

“I was well aware of how much she cared about showbiz since she did not hold back from fighting her own family just for a shot to build a career all by herself. Therefore, I deceived her, saying that I would announce our secret marriage and that Yelena is our child if she stayed with me, which in turn would resolve her scandal. She agreed to it, and I married the woman of my dreams as I wished.”

By now, the journalists present were left emotional from Jay’s profound love.

All the malice in the live comments were gone as well, as every netizen was left astounded that Zoe and Jay could still be together even after years of trials and tribulations.

It was as if they forgot they were there to slaughter Zoe and Jay!

Why was Jay so nice?

Why was he vehemently good?

She hated him so much during those years. How did he suffer through that period?

As a result, she cried profusely and vigorously, feeling greatly sorry for him.

She wanted nothing but to give all her heart to him now, and she also wanted to tell him that she loved him very much and had always been in love with him.

However, she could not stop crying, seemingly having suddenly lost control of her tears.

Jay was still holding Zoe's hand tightly with one hand. He then said to all the reporters, "Other than revealing the love affair between Zoe and me to everyone today, I want to declare my stand here to the Levines."

Soon the atmosphere became solemn, with the reporters also looking at Jay with slight anxiety.

Jay continued directly, saying, "I wasn't willing to talk about this in the past. I was used to suffering in silence for many things, or to me, many things are not that important except Zoe, including my feelings or me. Most of the time, I led a life emotionlessly. But today, I want to make myself clear.

'Firstly, Zoe isn't at fault for being your daughter. You had no reason to shift all the humiliation that you've suffered on Zoe. What's more, the things you've done to Zoe these years were because of your selfishness and cruelty.

“Secondly, I tolerated you these years because of our family relationship. I know that you’re very nice to your family and relatives, and I’m also very thankful for that. After you learned about my identity, you didn’t hesitate much or refuse it before you accepted me. But even so, I don’t accept moral coercion.

“Thirdly, I love Zoe more than my life, so I prohibit anyone from bullying her again, including you! I won’t accept any kind of threat from you. I can also tell you that I don’t want any property of the Levine family. As for the relationship between us as siblings, it’s all in your hands. If you can’t accept Zoe or even target her for the rest of your life, I’ll harm you just to protect her!

‘Lastly, I think I should remind you again. When Mr. Alan Levine died, he ordered you not to target Zoe again. Zoe did nothing wrong. By the way, let me tell you a secret. Before he died, he advised me to boldly pursue my happiness. You should know very well whom he was referring to when he talked about my so-called happiness!’”

Although Jay mentioned no names, everyone knew that he was talking to Nancy.

“So, can you bind me with moral coercion for the rest of my life just because of what you contributed to me?” Jay demanded coldly.

Sitting beside him, Zoe was stunned.

Frankly, she did not know if it was some kind of psychological shadow that was troubling her all that while, but she was always in awe of Nancy.

Although she encouraged Jay to pick up the call just now, it was because she did not want Nancy to pester them relentlessly. She knew Nancy too well, and Nancy would never give up until she achieved her goal. If Jay did not answer the call, she would not stop calling him. At last, she might even go to his house.

Zoe even mentally prepared herself the moment Jay answered the call. Jay was not Nancy's opponent again, and he would only be vigorously rebuked by Nancy. She even made up her mind to brace herself and helped Jay to stand against Nancy.

Unexpectedly, Jay was so powerful.

"Moral coercion? Do you even know what that is? We're a family. Jay, both you and I share the blood of the Levine family. Zoe is just an outsider!" Nancy became agitated.

She was used to feeling superior from when she was young. All she ever heard were praises showered on her. No one had ever treated her that way, so she could not accept it.

Similarly, she could not accept it because of Jay's companionship.

Except for breathing, there was only the sound of their heartbeats in the quiet space.

'Zoe.' Jay finally spoke up.

When he spoke, he caught Zoe off guard, so she trembled slightly.

Consequently, Jay laughed.

Suddenly, his eyes seemed to have lit up brightly.

He was at such an age, but he had such clear and bright eyes. Well, he was indeed devastatingly bewitching.

"Did I scare you?" he asked gently.

'I was thinking. Of course you scared me when you suddenly spoke," Zoe answered grumpily.

'I was referring to the thing I said at the press conference today.'

Zoe's heart skipped a beat.

They hugged each other tightly until they reached home.

When Yelena saw her parents come home, she crawled up from the floor excitedly, asking Jay for a hug.

So, Jay let go of his crutch to hug Yelena, but Zoe yanked him.

Yelena then looked at them eagerly, and Jay became slightly shocked.

However, Zoe told Yelena very solemnly, "Your daddy is mine today. No one can snatch him away from me."

"Why?" When Yelena heard that, her eyes turned red.

Her aggrieved expression looked too pitiful.

"There's no reason why." Zoe sounded very firm.

'He's my daddy! You can't be too overbearing!' Yelena stated in a childishly fierce manner.

'He's my husband.' Zoe refused Yelena.

'I don't want that. Daddy, you won't abandon me, will you?' Yelena looked at Jay.

It seemed that not many people could turn Yelena down, given her look.

Jay was moved, but Zoe was not fooled at all.

Her great passion was put off out of the blue.

She felt that she had given birth to a young rival in love.

When Jay heard Yelena call after him, he was about to get up.

"Don't go." Zoe held his hand and appeared very aggrieved.

"I'll ask Yelena why she called for me."

"She just wants to seize you for herself."

Jay was amused by Zoe.

"Are you jealous of your daughter?"

"Yes, I'm jealous," Zoe admitted. "I didn't even get to enjoy some time with you. Why should I let her have you? We've finally resolved our past grudges, so I don't care-I want you to be mine alone now."

"You're an adult." Jay became helpless, but his eyes were full of adoration.

Her current look reminded him of the time when she was young.

For a very long time, Zoe kept a distant and cold front in front of him.

No one knew how much he missed having her following him around and pestering him to play with her.

So, he was slightly persuaded.

“Daddy,” Yelena spoke up again at the door.

“Be good. I’ll be right back.”

Zoe and Jay enjoyed the great romance in the room throughout the day.

They were woken up by the alarm the next day.

Both of them had put their phones on silent mode and ignored the news. Although they knew that the effects were rather good at the scene, no one knew how the incident would end in the end. However, that seemed not to be their concern at all. They cared more about how to get a basketball team.

However, Zoe had forgotten to turn off her alarm, as she had previously set it for the shooting of the show.

She knitted her brows.

Though her whole body was greatly sore, she still forced herself to narrow her eyes and fish for her phone.

At that instant, Jay was also awakened by the noise. He was about to get up to turn off the alarm for her, but Zoe got it first.

She half narrowed her eyes to turn it off. When she was about to continue sleeping, she noticed quite a lot of missed calls on her phone.

After dwelling on it briefly, she casually checked on them.

The most recent call was from Cordy.

Seeing Jay’s action, Zoe got up from bed.

Even if she was still sleepy and exhausted, she did not hesitate at all, as she wanted to go with Jay.

When Jay noticed her action, he said, “You can rest at home...”

“I want to go with you.” Zoe sounded firm.

“You don’t have to worry about the Levine family’s affairs,” Jay uttered seriously. “Don’t worry. I’ll come back even if it’s a serious incident.”

“I won’t be worried that you’ll be threatened by Nancy, let alone worried that you’ll abandon me. After all, you’ve loved me for so many years. You can’t bear to part with me,” Zoe explained smugly. “It’s just that I’m your wife. I have the obligation to share your difficulties.”

However, Jay was still slightly hesitant.

He was reluctant to see Zoe suffer any grievances in front of the Levines.

“We’re a married couple. Your affairs are my concerns too. Although the Levine family holds a deep grudge against me, they’re your family. So, I’m willing to accept them for you.’

Jay stared at Zoe in disbelief.
