

Chapter 892 Nolan's Humble Apology

---

When Liam heard this, his heart tightened.

The gang?

What on earth was it?

But Cowan only possessed fragments of information. The rest remained a mystery to him.

Once informed, Liam swiftly instructed the SWAT team members to alert the others to do a thorough search of the gangs in Salem.

Liam's eyes transformed into pools of cold gloom, an undercurrent of rage simmering just beneath the surface of his mind.

Cowan also confessed to Liam about his involvement in the abduction of Asher.

Unable to contain his fury, Liam unleashed a direct kick to Cowan's stomach, eliciting a pained and anguished wail.

Liam didn't stop there. He proceeded to step on Cowan's hand, grinding it beneath the pressure of his shoe soles.

Amidst Cowan's cries of agony, Liam uttered in a chilling tone, "Cowan, you brought this upon yourself!"

Covered in blood, Cowan was in a pitiful state. He pleaded for mercy. "Liam, I admit my fault! Please forgive me! Liam... No, Mr. Hoffman, I was wrong! Please give me another chance!"

Observing Liam's brutal assault, Klein involuntarily shuddered. He swallowed hard and stammered, "Liam, can you let me go this time? In return, I'll can put the past behind us."

In response, Liam lifted his head with an impassive expression and retorted coldly, "Klein, you nearly did something to Julie. Do you honestly believe I'll just let you walk away?"

Faced with Liam's unwavering resolve, Klein felt a surge of panic and hastily said, "Liam! My father, Nolan, is the vice president at the Red Murray Group! Taking you down is a simple matter, you know? Liam, let's not blow this out of proportion. Otherwise, you stand to lose way more than I do."

Although Klein was scared of Liam, he had been raised in a wealthy family and had maintained his usual arrogance in his speech.

Upon hearing Klein's words, a hint of disdain crossed Liam's face, and he scoffed, "Klein, why not call Nolan over here? I'm curious to see how your father will handle this situation."

Klein adopted a scornful expression, preparing to respond. But his attention was abruptly diverted by the entrance of a group of people into room 808.

A wave of delight washed over Klein as he recognized the leader's face among the approaching throng.

"Dad, I'm here! Help me!"

It was none other than Nolan, Klein's father, who led his entourage to this location.

Upon receiving information from Bowen, Nolan had set out to talk to Klein. But when he found that Klein was not at home, he had sensed trouble and mobilized his men to locate Klein.

Eventually, Nolan tracked Klein down to Room 808 of the Von Merri Hotel.

Nolan observed, much to his distress, that the room was surrounded by a SWAT team.

There was a dramatic shift in his expression when he laid eyes on Liam inside the room.

He had arrived too late.

Surveying the room's tense atmosphere, Nolan deduced that Klein had provoked Liam.

Noticing his father's silence, Klein urgently interjected, "Dad, I'm here! Get someone to rescue me right now! This jerk Liam is going to attack me!"

Nolan, having learned of Liam's identity through his brother Tristan, was already well aware of the imminent danger.

Liam was a five-star general.

Upon learning that Klein had dared to cross Liam, Nolan's face drained of color.

Worried that Klein would say something to further offend Liam, Nolan hurried forward, extending his hand under Klein's eager gaze.

A resounding slap echoed through the air.

Covering his burning cheek, Klein stared at Nolan in disbelief.

Why would his father slap him?

Before he could say anything, Nolan erupted into a tirade of a curses. "You rascal! How many times have I warned you? Didn't I explicitly tell you to avoid trouble with Mr. Hoffman? How could you provoke Mr. Hoffman? Apologize to him immediately!"

After admonishing his son, Nolan, who had beads of sweat on his forehead, anxiously turned to Liam. He pleaded, "Mr. Hoffman, Klein didn't intend to disrespect you! He's just an idiot. Can you find it in your heart to forgive him this one time?"

Nolan's apology to Liam sent shockwaves through Klein and the onlookers.

Julie looked at Liam in utter disbelief.

As Salem's vice president, Nolan held a remarkably prestigious position in the city.

Yet, in this moment, this powerful man was extending an apology to Liam, with such an unexpected display of humility.

Observing his father's uncharacteristic demeanor, Klein couldn't resist interjecting, "Dad, Liam's just a loser. Why are you being so polite to him?"

Nolan, caught off guard, delivered another swift slap to his son's face.

"You fool! The man you're insulting is a five-star general! Got it?"
