

Chapter 1668 I Will Agree To Whatever You Ask

Frank was well aware of Janet's true physical condition and believed that she indeed needed a bodyguard's protection. "Nightingale, you need some time for your body to recover too. Why not stay on temporarily?" he chimed in.

Nightingale blinked, as if considering Frank's words.

Seeing Nightingale's hesitation, Frank continued, "Though your services may not be cheap, I'm sure Brandon can afford it. Besides, you get along quite well with Janet. Having you as her bodyguard would be the best arrangement for everyone."

Meanwhile, Janet hesitated as she was suddenly appointed a bodyguard. Although she felt the arrangement to be unnecessary, she didn't want to reject the proposal outright as Brandon and Frank were discussing it rather seriously.

As such, Janet turned to Brandon with pleading eyes, hoping Brandon could catch her intention. Besides, Nightingale was an elite bodyguard who served many high-ranking billionaires. Her fees would undoubtedly be expensive.

The more Janet thought about it, the more unnecessary she thought a bodyguard was.

However, Brandon simply reassured her by holding her hand gently. His gaze was filled with tender affection, indicating that she shouldn't worry and could just leave the arrangements to him.

Faced with a tough decision, Nightingale was having an internal struggle. She was torn between conflicting thoughts as she furrowed her brow, contemplating the pros and cons.

After thinking some thought, Nightingale said hesitantly, "I can stay and be Janet's bodyguard while I recover, but..."

Nightingale trailed off and glanced at Brandon meaningfully.

Frank and Janet fixed their attention on Nightingale, awaiting curiously for her to continue.

"But I hope you can pay me in another form," she said to Brandon.

Brandon immediately agreed. "Sure, tell me what you need."

Nightingale was straightforward and stated her terms clearly, "I want to prompt updates as soon as you receive any news about Jeremy. And of course, if you ever organize a pursuit team to apprehend Jeremy during my time by Janet's side, I insist on being involved. You cannot refuse."

"Deal. I agree to your conditions." Brandon readily agreed to her demands.

Just as Brandon finished speaking, Frank's phone rang.

Frank quickly answered the call when he saw that it was from the hospital. After a few words, he hastily ended the call and glanced at Brandon and the others. "The hospital is urging me to go back. I will be taking my leave."

With that, Frank prepared to leave.

Meanwhile, Nightingale quickly stood up and picked up her black helmet by her side. She followed behind Frank and said indifferently, "I'll give you a ride on my motorcycle."

Then, she turned back to Brandon and said, "If there's anything else, we can discuss it later."

"Okay," Brandon replied with a nod as he watched them leave.

After Frank and Nightingale left, Janet frowned and asked, "Brandon, why didn't you discuss with me beforehand about hiring a private bodyguard?"

Brandon hesitated as he contemplated how to answer Janet's question. He feared that she might notice the secret he was keeping in his heart.

Just as Brandon finished speaking, Frank's phone rang.

Frank quickly answered the call when he saw that it was from the hospital. After a few words, he hastily ended the call and glanced at Brandon and the others. "The hospital is urging me to go back. I will be taking my leave."