Chapter 71

Alyssa felt her breathing stopped.

The bracelet was a gift from Newton, and Liana destroyed it. In an instant, fury surged throughout her veins. She had the urge to break every bone in Liana's body.

"Liana Gardner!" Alyssa shrieked, her eyes red with anger.

Liana was frightened but regained her composure. "So what if I broke your bracelet? Only the two of us are here. I can say you hurt me. Who do you think Jasper will believe?"

Liana smiled wickedly. She picked up a piece of the broken bracelet. Then, she extended her delicate wrist.

Alyssa realized what was happening. She wanted to stop her. But it was too late.

Liana yelped, and Alyssa watched as she slit her wrist with the broken bracelet.

Perhaps it was her first time inflicting a wound, so she was able to avoid any major arteries. But the cut was deep. Blood gushed out of her wound in an instant.

Even Liana was scared by her actions. But she knew if she were to play the victim, she had to commit to her role fully. Otherwise, her injuries would be in vain. So, she cried and screamed while running out of the restroom.

Alyssa was shocked. Tears welled in her eyes as she picked up the broken bracelet pieces and held them dearly.

As she left the restroom, someone quietly pushed open the cubicle door in the corner, leaving a narrow gap.

Liana clutched her bloodied wrist and ran down the corridor while crying hysterically.

The auction had ended, and the guests were leaving the venue. Many people avoided her when they saw her approach. They thought she was mentally unstable.

"Jasper! Mom! Aunt Sophie! Save me!" Liana shouted while trembling.

She had become the center of attention, just as she had hoped. She wanted Alice to pay for coming between her and Jasper. She would ruin her reputation and make her into a jealous and malicious woman in Jasper's eyes.

The Kirkman sisters and Betty heard the commotion and rushed over. They screamed in panic when they saw the mess.

*Liai My daughter, what happened to your hand? Who hurt you?" Rosaline was filled with distress and fear

Her performance was worthy of an Oscar.

She

w Liana following Alice into the restroom. So she knew her daughter was going after the wicked woman. Thus, she could respond promptly and assist in Liana's act.

However, she remembered Liana was afraid of pain. Even a simple needle prick would send her into a crying frenzy. She didn't expect her to hurt herself this time.

Liana was becoming more and more like Sophia when she was young.

Sophia captured Javier's heart by acting weak and innocent. She framed others by hurting herself. She had stolen the position of Mrs. Beckett, which belonged to Jasper's mother. It made him completely despise her.

Liana was currently following in Sophia's footsteps, and she almost succeeded. Time was of the essences. They must tread carefully to avoid unforeseen circumstances.

Alice White was a troublemaker. And they had to get rid of her at all costs.

Liana noticed people in the crowd were starting to take out their phones and record. She instantly became even more hysterical, putting on the full act of a vulnerable victim.

At this moment, Alyssa walked toward them with a blank face, and everyone around moved aside. It was as if a beam of sunlight had pierced the stormy clouds, radiant and unrivaled.

Her striking appearance carried a cold atmosphere that left everyone in awe. She seemed to radiate righteousness as if she were here to vanquish all evil.

Coincidentally, Jasper and Landon both headed toward them as well.

"Jasper..." Liana cast him a pitiful glance.

He furrowed his brow and strode over when he saw the deep, frightening wound

Rosaline smirked and shoved Liana into Jasper's embrace.

"What happened?" Jasper asked urgently.

"Jasper. It hurts. Am I going to die?" Liana sobbed like a baby in his arms.

"You won't. Don't scare yourself." Jasper's eyes filled with concern as he looked at the vicious wound on her wrist. He knitted his eyebrows tightly.

Alyssa watched the, with a cold sneer. She was unable to hold back a scornful chuckle.

The prelude was over, and the main act of the show "Alyssa Tears Apart The Wicked Family" was

By now, some people have taken out their phones to record the scene. Landon responded swiftly and sent a group of bodyguards to clear the onlookers.

"Liana, Jasper is here. No one could hurt you anymore."
