

Chapter 130

Chapter 130

Alyssa squinted coldly at Silas, "You called me earlier tonight and womed that Axel would make a move on Jasper. Why the sudden change in your attitude?"

so it was you who called me out! Silas, you little shift Avel scrunched up his eyes and gritted his teeth tear you into piecest

"How dare you speak to your brother like that? You little rascal! Lyse, don't hold back. What he needs is a good lesson. You should haveE thrown him into the fire."

Silas decided to add fuel to the fire since Alyssa wouldn't listen to him anyway. Knowing Axel was in grave trouble, he wanted to stay but of it.

"Axel, are you not ashamed of yourself for talking to Silas like that? Aren't you going to admit your fault? She was incensed.

"What fault? I beat up Jasper just for you!" Axel was adamant and rebellious.

"You wretched thing! Alyssa slapped the armrest but accidentally pulled on her wound. She moaned in pain and finched a little

"What's wrong, Lyse?"

"Are you okay? You're scaring me."

"Ms. Alyssa, are you alright? I'll get a car to the hospital!"

Jonah, Silas, Sean, and Axel immediately surrounded Alyssa like mother hens, looking nervous as if she was about to give birth Kneeling on a knee, Axel carefully held her hand against his chest with a pale face. "Did you pull on your wound? It's my taut t's al my fault! Scold me and hit me as much as you want!" 1

"So, you admit that you're in the wrong?" She panted softly as her forehead turned sweaty.

"The thought of Alyssa taking the bullet for him brought him a lot of pain and guilt.

"Lyse, I fell bad for you. I couldn't watch you suffer because of that bastard! We didn't dote on you and raise you with love just for him to hurt you. He needs to pay for it!"

"Axel, I will say this one last time." Tears brimming, she said word for word, "I willingly married Jasper Beckett. No one forced me to. I know he had someone else in his mind. I knew that he was a cold-hearted man. I thought that with my passionate love, I could met his heart and make him fall for me. But I failed."

She went on, "I should be responsible for my choice. It's all my fault, not his. So, you'd better not give him any trouble or hurt him?"

Axel's gaze wavered in shock.

"Axel it's hard for me to get over this relationship." She let out a long sigh with pain in her eyes. "To be honest with you, Jasper stil matters a lot to me after the divorce because I've loved him for years. Can't we let bygones be bygones?"

"Why would you create a scene when I'm ready to start anew? It will only complicate things between Jasper and me, forcing us to but each other! Did you consider my feelings when you beat him up?"

*Lyse, I'm at fault! Please give me another chance! I'll do anything for you! I won't find trouble with Jasper anymore." Axel pleaded to her with shimmery eyes.

He had never once frowned when he went on dangerous missions. However, the thought of not receiving forgiveness from his sister slee him with dread.

"Lyse..."

A sly twinkle appeared in Alyssa's woeful gaze. She pouted and demanded, "Two days later, go home with me and have dinner with Dad before you leave."

Jonah and Silas exchanged silent, knowing looks. Axel was reluctant to go home. He had no choice but to oblige to cheer Assau "Alright! I'll go home with you!"