

Chapter 914 You're Fired

Upon hearing Emmitt address Liam with such respect, Lennox felt a wave of worry wash over him.

Beluga Hospital's director, Emmitt, just called this young man a 'teacher' in public!

Realizing he had offended someone important, Lennox quickly tried to blend into the background and escape unnoticed.

The police officers guarding the operating room had noted the police chief Ethan's careful interaction with Liam, signaling that Liam was no ordinary individual.

They saw Lennox, who had earlier criticized Liam, attempting to sneak away and immediately intervened to stop him.

Lennox was taken aback and filled with panic, trying hard to break loose, but his attempts proved futile.

Emmitt, catching onto Lennox's distressed state, quickly understood that Lennox must have offended Liam. He urgently asked, "Teacher Hoff, can you tell me what happened here."

Liam, with a scoff, recounted the events truthfully. He then looked at Emmitt and commented, "Emmitt, it seems your doctors are involved in shady dealings. This certainly changes my view of you!"

Liam's words caused Emmitt's face to change dramatically. He had no idea such practices existed in

Furthermore, Lennox had inflated the complexity of the mid-stage leukemia surgery, all in a bid to secure a hefty one-million-dollar surgical fee.

Emmitt was boiling with rage. Fixing a fierce glare on Lennox, he scolded him, saying, "Lennox! The evidence is solid. Do you have any words to defend yourself?"

This was Lennox's first time seeing Emmitt, usually so composed, erupt in anger. Stunned, he stood speechless, unable to form a response.

"Good for you! You're quite the expert in exploiting patients. This can't be your first time! Pack your things and leave Beluga Hospital, now! You're fired! Following this, my hospital will take legal action against you! Get ready to go to trial!" Emmitt said angrily.

He was furious, realizing that because of Lennox's actions, he had almost offended a respected figure like teacher Hoff.

Hearing Emmitt's verdict, Lennox's face lost all its color. His earlier confidence disappeared, and he desperately pleaded, "Director! Please, I admit my mistake! Give me another chance! I'll change! I swear I won't do it again! I know I was wrong!"

Lennox's tearful pleas were ignored by everyone around.

In that instant, Ethan, eager to please Liam, quickly assured, "Director Jensen, you can count on our police department to thoroughly investigate Lennox's illegal gains. Every penny will be seized and donated to charity!"

Emmitt, picking up on Ethan's efforts to impress Liam and equally keen to stay in Liam's good graces, promptly added, "Such an incident shouldn't have happened at Beluga Hospital! I announce that for the next month, we'll provide free medical services! No patient will be charged for any treatment!"

Liam was content with their actions and nodded without saying anything.

Soon, Watkins emerged from the crowd, visibly anxious. "Liam, how is my wife doing?"

Liam smiled and said, "Don't worry, the surgery went well. She just needs rest and observation for a full recovery."

Watkins was overjoyed at the news and quickly expressed his gratitude to Liam.

Liam waved it away, not wanting Watkins to be too formal.

Relieved, Watkins suddenly recalled that the director of Beluga Hospital had called Liam a teacher.

He asked Liam about it, driven by curiosity.

Liam just smiled and turned his attention to Emmitt, signaling him to explain.

Emmitt quickly responded, "That's because Teacher Hoff's medical expertise is unparalleled! Mr. Vasquez, rest assured. With Teacher Hoff here, even the gravest of patients stand a chance!"

Liam added, "While the surgery went well, we still need to check the patient's condition after the operation. Here's a blood sample I took from your wife, which needs analysis. Get a biochemical lab ready for me."

As he spoke, Liam handed over a sample vial of Watkins's wife's blood to Emmitt.

Upon hearing this, Emmitt felt he had been granted a

Chapter 914 You're Fired

 +120 Points at most favor. He nodded right away and personally organized the most advanced biochemical lab for Liam.