Chapter 935 Goes By The Name Liam

---

As Ethan approached the Nightingale Villa Area, he couldn't shake off the growing anxiety.

He had bugged the driver at least ten times to speed up.

After all, this was Liam's command!

In Ethan's world, this directive ranked higher than his wife giving birth.

Being tardy and irking Liam would be a surefire recipe for a bumpy road ahead.

The driver, despite the relentless nudges, felt resigned.

On the highway, a convoy of police cars were ahead and behind them, rendering speeding impossible.

Ethan reluctantly recognized he had no other option.

After a few minutes, Ethan finally reached the gate of Nightingale Villa Area.

Surveying the parked police cars, his brows furrowed in speculation. "Did Mr. Hoffman summon me here to deal with these people?"

Aware of Liam's low-profile lifestyle, he considered the likelihood of all these police officers offending him.

Just then, the Deputy Director of the precinct leading the convoy of police cars, Floyd, spotted Ethan. He quickly trotted over, attempting some flattery.

"Sir, were you also summoned by Baldwin? I didn't expect you would be called here!" he said.

Hearing this, Ethan was confused. He glanced at Floyd and said, "What do you mean? What are you doing here? Driving side by side like that seriously disrupts traffic safety! Such antics damage the police force's image!"

Despite Ethan's stern tone, his true frustration lay in Floyd and his team obstructing him, disrupting his schedule to meet Liam.

Upon witnessing Ethan's reprimand, Floyd refrained from further conversation, swiftly offering an apology.

Then, it dawned on Floyd that Ethan hadn't come here with the same purpose as him.

Realizing this, Floyd clarified, "Sir, we're here because Baldwin is on a mission. We encountered a tough one. This guy seems to have some connections and is using them to resist arrest. So, Baldwin asked us to come and get him!"

Floyd's intention was clear that he wanted Ethan to accompany them.

Given Ethan's role as the Chief of the Salem Police Bureau, his presence would deter any unexpected events.

Upon hearing this, Ethan's countenance changed swiftly, and he urgently pressed, "Who's the person you're arresting?"

Floyd furrowed his brows, taking a moment to ponder, and then responded, "That guy goes by the name Liam! He was once the renowned young scion of the Hoffman family, but now, well, he's just a loser. Orders came through to mobilize the entire force and teach him a lesson he'll never forget! On another note, what led you here? Do you need some assistance?"

Hearing Floyd utter Liam's name, Ethan's heart sank.

It turned out Liam had sent him to Nightingale Villa Area to deal with this bunch of idiots!

Ethan felt a palpable sense of relief at the same time.

Thankfully, his timely arrival averted the potential mayhem these fools might have unleashed.

Despite being the Chief of the Bureau, Ethan knew he lacked the authority to execute an entire precinct.

Observing Ethan's silence, Floyd pressed once more, "Sir, what's on your mind?"

He clearly aimed to earn Ethan's approval.
