

Chapter 1012 Cheap Killers

The killers from the Hidden Assassins came.

Trevor didn't panic. Even if those killers had guns, it wasn't an effective threat to him.

Just when he looked back, the hotel door suddenly swung open, and three people were standing at the door.

"Oh? Are you the one we're supposed to deal with?"

The leader of the killers eyed Trevor from head to toe. He let out a contemptuous smile as he did so.

He believed that it'd be easy for them to deal with Trevor because there were three of them.

Trevor also looked at three killers while they were looking at him.

He noticed that none of them brought a gun with them. Their pockets were slightly bulged, however, and he assumed that they had daggers in their pockets.

Although that was the case, Trevor stayed vigilant and fixed his gaze on the three of them.

All of them were killers, and it was a no-brainer that they might have other means to assassinate him.

Zakai's eyes lit up as he shouted, "Hurry up and kill him! I have money! Kill that asshole right now!"

"Don't be in such a hurry, Mr. Sanderson," the leader of the killers said as he chuckled. "Before we do that, let's talk about the price first."

"Haven't we already discussed the price?" Zakai asked in disbelief.

"That's the previous price," the leader replied. "I can't believe you two are so useless. You got kidnapped by your enemy, and that made it all the more difficult for us to save you. We also have to avoid hurting you, and I'm afraid that'll be very difficult in our case."

Dooley frowned. "What do you mean?"

The leader chuckled. "What I mean to say is that the situation has become complicated, so you have to pay more."

Trevor looked at the killers in amusement.

They seemed like amateurs. In fact, they were more like hooligans rather than actual killers.

Trevor even wondered if Zakai had been deceived. But now that he thought about it, it wasn't surprising for an idiot like Zakai to do something stupid.

Ever since Pearce trained him, Trevor became much more insightful and sensitive.

His gut feeling told him that the killers were far from powerful.

At least, they weren't as good as the killers from the Hidden Assassins who ambushed him in the manor in Dreles.

"How much do you want?" Zakai asked with a frown.

"The previous price was two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, but now, we want five hundred thousand!" the leader exclaimed.

Zakai's face turned red as soon as he heard what the leader said.

He didn't dare speak and secretly glanced at his father.

Dooley, on the other hand, was furious as he looked at his son. "You idiot! I gave you six million dollars to hire killers! I can't believe you still wanted to make money from that!"

His face turned red with anger as veins stood out on his neck.

He couldn't believe that Zakai wanted to get a commission after he gave him money to hire killers.

"You are so funny, guys!" Trevor shook his head.

Zakai's stupidity made him want to laugh.

In order to kill Trevor, Rudolph had hired killers from the Hidden Assassins at a sky-high price.

However, these three killers were hired for only two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Dooley, of course, understood that, but he still had his hopes up. He tried to restrain his anger as he looked at the killers and said, "I'll give you six million dollars if you kill Dragon!"

"Yeah! Hurry up!" Zakai also urged.

The leader's eyes lit up in excitement as soon as he heard that.

He glanced back at his companions before they closely followed behind him and closed the door.

"Hey, just a word of advice. If you surrender, we won't torture you. Otherwise, we'll make sure you'll have a miserable death," the leader said, attempting to threaten Trevor.

Another killer let out a sinister laugh before he took out a dagger from his pocket and added, "If you resist, I'll slowly cut off your limbs."

All three of the killers glared at Trevor before they surrounded him.

"Cut the crap." Trevor sneered and took the initiative to step forward before he lifted his fist and threw a punch at one of them.

Before the killers could react, Trevor managed to land a blow on each of them, causing them to get knocked out one by one.

After that, they fainted on the floor.

All three of the killers got knocked down in less than three seconds.

Trevor then sneered as he calmly walked toward Dooley and Zakai. "Cheap killers are not reliable, you know?"
