Chapter 55

Allison came back home safely and shifted back. The moment she entered her bedroom, she immediately began to reflect on what Ryan had said. Was he talking about her? Did they really get close to each other?

She remembered their meeting at the club when he returned the pack. He was an arrogant boy in her eyes. But now she felt that he had a different side too.

How did he change her perception of him?

The next morning, she woke up late.

Teresa called her, and she woke up by the call.

"Allison, where are you?"

"Teresa, let me sl-"

"No, I need to tell you something. I'm in school.

Hurry up and come to the school."

Allison rubbed her eyes and sat up. She checked the time and hurriedly got ready. She could not get proper sleep last night.

"Allison, first have breakfast." Joey shouted behind her when she saw her running to the main door.

"No, no. I'm late, Mom. I will have something in the canteen."

"Don't forget to come back early today."

"Okay, Mom."

Allison hailed a cab to go to school. She had no idea why her mother told her to go back early today, but she would do that since her mother asked for it.

When she arrived at school, she hurriedly walked to the entrance.

However, many students stopped her in the middle of the way.

"Sorry, Allison."

"Yeah, we are sorry."

"Really, Sorry. We didn't know about you."

She looked at those boys and girls with a frown.

"Allison"

She heard Tetesa's voice. Teresa came into the crowd and grabbed her wrist. She pulled her out of the gathering.

"What's happening?" Allison asked her.

"Let's go to the class first. We will talk there." Teresa replied and pulled her to the classroom.

The professor had not entered the classroom yet. It was the third class on their schedule. She missed two classes.

Allison furrowed her brows when all the students looked at her. She could see fear in their eyes.

Allison sat in her seat and asked Teresa,

"Care to explain?"

"Someone exposed your identity."

"Wait what?"

"Yeah, now everyone knows that you are Beta Glen's daughter."

Allison glanced at everyone, and all of them still peeked at her as if she were a harmful creature.

"Who did this?" She inquired.

"I don't know. But you are a hot topic now."

She rolled her eyes. "As if I wasn't two days ago. You know what? Whoever did this, I should thank them now."

"So you are okay with it now?"

"Not okay. But I did not like when everyone talked bullshit about how my upbringing was. They badmouth my parents for letting me go to the pack house for parties."

Teresa nodded her head. A smirk shuffled across her face. "Now they will know what they did.

They talked about Beta Glen. No one would try to talk now."

Allison chuckled and rested her hands on the bench.

"Why are you in a not so good mood today?" Teresa asked.

"I went for a run last night."

"How is your wolf? Is she okay?"

Allison thought about what her wolf did last night.

Memories came to her mind like a flashback.

"She did something I had never thought of."

"What did she do?"

"I met Ryan in the forest." She did not tell her about Ryan's secret place.

"Again? Honey, don't you think you are meeting this guy everywhere?"

"You think so?"

"Yeah."

"He could not recognize my wolf. So I was silent about it."

The professor entered the room, and they stopped chatting.

Teresa suddenly spoke out,

"Allison, don't you think Ryan is strange?"

"Huh? Strange?"

"Yeah, I mean, from what I've heard from you about him, he is not a bad guy. But he forcibly created a negative image of him."

Allison gave it some thought. Teresa was right. Why was Ryan doing that? She was confused about one thing.

'Why are he and his family so distant from each other? What is the reason?' She thought.

"Where are you lost?"

She came out of her thoughts by Teresa. "Nothing. Just thinking about what you've said."

"What about your Ethan?"

"M-My Ethan? Hey! What are you saying?"

Teresa chuckled but stopped when she saw the professor taking glances at them. They did not want to take any detention.

After all the classes, Allison thought of going home directly. But Teresa dragged her to the cafeteria to have lunch with her.

Allison sat at the table, and Teresa went to order for them.

Allison could hear others mumbling about her.

Before today, no one was aware of the fact that she was their Beta's daughter.

"Thinking about something?"

She heard a voice and turned her head.

Ethan smiled at her and pulled out a chair to sit beside her.

"Hi." He greeted her.

"Hmm."

She let out a sigh and looked down at her hand.

"Are you upset?" He asked.

"Why would I?"

"Everyone knows about you now."

She lifted her head and looked at him. "Did you do that?"

"No, I wasn't the one who did it."

"Then who was it?"

While he was looking at her, he placed his elbows up on the table and leaned his chin into the palm of his hand.

"Who knows? It must have been any girl who felt jealous of your beauty, so she searched for you and found out about it."

She looked at others who were looking at them now. Teresa's jaw dropped as she fixed her eyes on them from afar.

Allison looked away and scoffed at Ethan. "You start to flirt with me now."

"What can I do? No matter what, you won't accept me. I am feeling abandoned."

She averted her gaze from him. "Stop being silly. I told you. I don't love you anymore, Ethan."

He sat straight and looked at her intensely.

"I know your heart is still beating for me. Stop lying to yourself, Allison."

She turned her head toward him, looking into his eyes.

She could see how desperate those eyes were.

When she heard someone clear her throat, she quickly averted her gaze away from them.

Teresa flashed a friendly smile at Ethan.

"During the downtime in the training, you can converse with her. This is the time that I get to spend with my best friend."

Ethan got to his feet and said,
"Sure, I just came to talk with her about tonight's pack party."

Allison frowned, "Pack party?"

Ethan nodded his head.

"It's Mom's birthday. Uncle Glen told me that you are going to be there with them tonight."
