

Married At First Sight Chapter 3132-Tatum told the butler which hotel he was staying in now.

The butler said, “Mr. York, please wait for a while in the rest area on the first floor of the hotel. I will arrange for someone to pick you up.”

Tatum raised his eyebrows and asked, “Now? Is the retest ahead of schedule?”

The butler explained on the phone, “No, the re-examination has not changed. It was our eldest lady who told us. The eldest lady said that now hiring a famous chef has become a big deal. Hundreds of people are observing, concerned that your competitors might deceive you. No, I can’t retest tomorrow.

The eldest lady asked me to pick you up in advance and stay in the manor for one night to ensure that every candidate can interview and re-examine as scheduled.

You are the first individual to undergo a re-examination, Mr. York. Of course, we will take you back to the manor to stay for one night. We will ensure that your food is safe and that you will not be drugged or given diarrhea or anything.”

Tatum: “...Okay.”

It’s just a matter of hiring a chef to create such a big battle!

Tatum finally saw the influence of his future wife.

“Mr. York, don’t be careless. Last time, his opponent secretly drugged him while he was eating out, causing him to experience abdominal pain and diarrhea. As a result, he was unable to come for the retest as scheduled. He thought he gave up voluntarily.”

Tatum: “Thank you for the butler’s reminder. I’m drinking coffee in the hotel’s coffee shop on the first floor. I’ll go to the rest area to wait for a while.”

“good.”

The butler gave Tatum a few more words and ended the call.

After the butler hung up the phone, Tatum said to the Tran family’s father and daughter, “Mr. Tran, Miss Tran, I have to go back to the room to get something, so I won’t accompany you. I’m paying for the coffee this time.”

“Thank you, Mr. York. Mr. York, go and get busy.” Enrique didn’t argue with Tatum for payment anymore, maybe because he knew he had lost and was in a bad mood.

Tatum stood up and left.

After Tatum left, Emery asked her father, “Dad, Mr. York is very defensive, and what he says may not be credible. Don’t lose confidence first. If we wait, there will always be a chance for a retest.

Dad, you have definitely been studying in this field longer than Mr. York. Mr. York is still so young. He looks only a few years older than me. You know my current status. No matter how high his level is, it is still limited. Dad, don’t let other people’s ambitions destroy your own prestige first.”

After Enrique picked up a piece of snack and took a bite, he said, “He makes the snack that he is least good at, and he was the first to receive the notice for the re-examination, which shows that he is a very capable person. Don’t underestimate young people. One may underestimate a white-haired old man, but one cannot underestimate a running slug. Young people have great potential. Maybe he has talent.”

Emery took two sips of coffee and said, “No matter how talented he is, he is still young. How many delicacies can he have eaten? How many dishes can he cook? Even if he can join Ormond’s family as a chef this time, how long will he be able to do it? Everyone knows that Miss Ormond is famous for being picky. She doesn’t do the same thing every day, and she must be both delicious and delectable.

It sounds simple, but it’s difficult to do. Dad, I helped you sort it out. For those who work as chefs in Ormond’s family, the longest working time is half a year, and the shortest working time is only half a month.”

After Enrique was silent, he said, "If I still can't apply for the job this time, I will give up and accept reality. I'm getting older, and no matter how hard I study, I still don't make much progress. I don't want to get into trouble anymore. You are still young, so you can take over my class and study hard. Next time there is a food competition, I will help you sign up for it to go and see the world."

Emery said optimistically, "Okay. Dad, even if you can't apply for the job, with your current ability, I can't say you can become a magic chef, but you can be famous in our area."

Enrique smiled and did not answer.

Emery added, "Mr. York is really good-looking. Maybe the Ormond family's eldest lady will see how good-looking he is and make an exception to recruit him. This is the first time I have seen such a handsome man learning to cook. If he enters the entertainment industry, he will definitely become famous."
