

Chapter 116

TWO YEARS LATER

"Allison, are you planning on coming along with us?" Ciara, one of the two girls, asked who was accompanying Allison as she made her way to the entrance.

"No. I can't go with you. I have to go to the pack house. My father just sent me a message telling me to go there right away."

Three of them walked out of the school and came outside.

Diva, another girl, chuckled when she looked at a car. "As usual, Alpha never stops caring about his Luna. He sent his private car for you."

Allison's gaze moved to the gleaming white car. When the driver saw her standing outside, he looked at her and bowed immediately.

"Bye, guys." Allison told the girls. Then she walked to the car.

"She is incredibly blessed. Alpha has a deep and abiding love for her."

"Yeah, otherwise, who else would have the time to rule the entire pack while also caring about his woman?"

As Allison moved through the crowd of students, she could hear them whispering.

When she arrived at the vehicle, the driver opened the door for her.

She moved to the back seat of the car and glanced out the window. The driver got behind the wheel and set off in the direction of the pack house after starting the car.

Two years was a very long time.

There is an old proverb that goes, "Time can change everyone."

Allison came to the conclusion that this was extremely true. The passage of time had a significant impact on her.

Now, Allison had completely changed from her previous self. Both she and her way of life underwent a transformation.

So many responsibilities came to her head and she was trying her best to do her duties properly.

It had been one and half years since Ethan became the head Alpha of the Moonlight Crown Pack.

Georgiana was absolutely correct. Indeed, he possessed all the qualities of a strong Alpha. It was really satisfying to see that he was pulling ahead of the pack. Within such a short period of time, pack members started to refer to him as one of the best Alphas of their pack.

From pack business to pack members' safety, he was thinking about each and every one. He did not let down his father and proved his best to make him feel that he took the right decision to make him the head Alpha.

The car reached the pack house.

The driver assisted Allison by opening the door for her. She got out of the car and started walking towards the pack house.

She looked up just in time to see Ethan emerge from the pack house. He made his way to her.

"I was looking forward to seeing you. Guards have just informed me that you have arrived."

He was ready to give her a hug, but she put her hand on his chest and stopped him from doing so.

"I don't think someone is here to see you pretending. Alpha Ethan."

Her mocking looks and tone caught him off guard. Her eyes were cold.

"Allison, you are going to my wife."

"The wedding still has one month left."

Ethan took a close and attentive look into her icy eyes. "How much longer are you going to punish me in this manner? It's been two years."

"How much longer? Until my death." She replied and shoved him.

He stepped aside to let her go inside the pack house. He cast a glance at the guards. All of them wore expressions of shock on their faces.

"What are you looking at?" He yelled at them. They immediately looked away from him.

Ethan switched his attention to Allison as she entered the pack house and went inside.

Two years. It had been two years since he tried his best to win over her heart. He attempted every possible way to apologize to her and convinced her to accept him in her heart.

But Allison turned into a cold woman. She became like a stone-hearted person. It was impossible to tell what she was feeling by looking at her face. After that night, she never laughed again, and she never cried either.

On the night of the announcement, Ryan left the pack.

Everyone thought he would come back again. But as he said that night, he never returned. It was the mental breaking point for Luna Ella. She was successful in persuading her husband to phone her son and ask him to return. Alpha Neil tried to call Ryan. His phone was unreachable.

Everyone realized that they had no other way to contact him. He was like vanished in the air.

His best friend Max already shifted abroad with his mate before that incident. But Ryan's other friend Owen also left the pack the night when Ryan left. Everyone learned about it after searching for Ryan.

As Allison entered the pack house,

Everyone looked at her. She walked to the couches where everyone was sitting.

Whenever there was something important to discuss, she attended the discussion as the future Luna of this pack.

Luna's duty was regular to her now. She was working on it every day. She had been training for the position for one year.

"Come, Allison. We have good news."

Allison sat on one of the couches. She did not glance at anyone, not even her own parents.

She still remembered how they made her compromise the love of her life. To secure their daughter's future, they destroyed their daughter's life.

When Ryan left, she was totally broken. She cried day and night alone in her room. She was sick for two weeks. It turned out that her wolf was the one that got sick. She wailed in an inexplicable agony. She felt that not only she but also her wolf was in love with Ryan.

There was a time in which she attempted to call Ryan, but she was unable to get through to him. It was not like she would tell him about her heart but she only wanted to hear his voice. That was it.

Day by day, she made herself understand that the two of them were not destined to be together. He deserved better so fate decided this way to part them.

She prayed that wherever he was, he would be happy.

She missed Teresa a lot. There was no one to pour her pain out of her heart. She felt depressed.

She was not angry with anyone but herself.

The colorful world turned into black and white after Ryan left her life.

"Ethan, come fast. We need to tell everyone. We have to start the preparations also." Alpha Neil said to his son as Ethan entered the pack house.

Ethan took the seat next to Allison and glanced at her.

She pretended he was not there by ignoring him completely before turning her attention to Alpha Neil.

"Finally, after a great deal of persistence and effort, the head Alpha of the Black Moon Pack accepted our invitation. Ethan deserves all of the credit. He tried his best to reach him." Alpha Neil said with a proud smile.

"That's really great news. When is he coming?" Beta Glen asked.

Wade, the new Beta of the pack replied to the question,

"We requested him to visit our pack for once.

It's such an honor that he is coming tomorrow to visit our pack."
